Dr. Beegle Clarifies Phosphorus Report

DOUGLAS BEEGLE, PH.D.
Penn State University
Professor of Agronomy

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — I am writing in response to an article in the March 14 edition of Lancaster Farming, "Nutrient Management Proposals Challenge Future of Farming."

Part of this article was based on a presentation that I made to the (State Conservation Commission) Nutrient Management Advisory Board at their meeting in Harrisburg on March 10.

I was asked by the Nutrient Management Advisory Board to give them an overview and update on the technical background on the phosphorus issue to help them to evaluate the implications of this issue for nutrient management in Pennsylvania.

This was prompted by the intense media attention that has been focused on phosphorus recently and the legislative action that has been taken in Maryland.

I would like to clarify what I believe was a misinterpretation of what was discussed.

This presentation was not, as implied, an announcement of a major policy change or release of surprising new findings on this issue.

The article stated that what I presented was a "complete turnaround on what had been considered scientific fact" in regard to the issue of phosphorus and nutrient management.

It was also stated that "the switch to emphasizing phosphorus as the nutrient of equal or most concern has been sudden and unexpected."

Because the nutrient content of manure does not match the nutrient requirement of most crops, it is necessary to make a decision on which nutrient we will balance in

York Farmers File Property Tax Lawsuit

YORK (York Co.) — Like the Colonial settlers who rose up against what they felt was unfair taxation by the ruling government, York County farmers and landowners are participating in a 1990's form of tax revolt.

They've filed a class action lawsuit to buttonhole tax monies from public use.

The Fair Reassessment of York County (FRYC) committee is urging property owners in Clean and Green preferential tax valuation to pay their taxes "under protest." The FRYC group is a sub-committee of the York County Farm Bureau, which has taken the lead in protesting the 1997 county tax reassessments and methods used in valuing properties.

Sent in early March to several thousand owners of Clean and Green preferentially valued property was a second mailing encouraging affected property owners to participate in the tax protest. With that mailing went a sample "tax protest letter" which the committee is encouraging recipients to file with their spring tax payment, as well as copy and share with others similarly affected by the reassessments.

According to Bill Buser, York grain farmer chairing the FYRC committee, under certain circumstances, when a tax payment is made "under protest" in Pennsylvania, 25 percent of the tax payment must be put in a special escrow find and held it until the tax dispute is resolved. The FRYC committee is hoping that many of the county's affected owners of Clean and Green tax valued land are aggravated enough with their increased tax bills to make the effort to file their spring tax payments "under protest" and thus escrow from governing bodies' use significant amounts of tax dollars.

And, Buser notes that, even if property owners have already paid their tax bills, they can follow up and participate in the protest by filing with their tax collector a completed copy of the tax protest letter.

Earlier this year, the FYRC had filed a class action appeal to the Assessment Board for reconsideration of Clean and Green land values following county real estate reassessment last year. Since the class action activity first step was an appeal, the escrowing of tax protest funds was initially disputed by the Assessment Board. By Pennsylvania law, tax protest funds monies need only be escrowed if the dispute has reached the courts.

On March 12, the FRYC, with two individuals, did indeed file a

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

KANSAS CITY, Mo — Under the banner of "A Vision of Unity," the annual meeting of Mid-American Dairymen's Association, Inc. (Mid-Am) took into account the 1997 year's activities but focused even more on the merger of Mid-Am with the Southern Region of Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI), the Western Dairymen Cooperative Inc. (WDCI), and Milk Marekting Inc. (MMI) that began operation on January 1, 1998, as Dairy Farmers of America (DFA).

Gary Hanman, president and chief executive officer of DFA, presented his annual report to the more than 1,200 dairy farmers in attendance at the Hyatt Regency Crown Center Hotel. Herman said that 30 years ago the leaders of five dairy cooperatives came together, convinced that dairy farmers could increase their income potential. As time progressed, more than 100 dairy cooperatives seeking similar benefits merged with Mid-Am to make it the largest dairy marketing cooperative in the nation.

Early in 1997, dairy leaders again came together, unified in their desire to find a way to overcome difficult economic conditions. The cooperatives they represented had more members in much larger geographic regions than those who met in 1968. But the challenges of the industry were similar. And out of this latest merger has come Dairy Farmers of America with 22,000 members and marketing and brand recognition in every part of the nation.

According to Herman, milk prices for 1997 ended the year at $13.29, up almost $2.00 from December of 1996, but the average price was $12.05, down $1.34 from the 1996 average. Member volume declined slightly, mostly due to members retiring or quitting the dairy business. The cooperative handled 17.2 billion pounds of milk, a reduction of nearly 99 million pounds. Total milk handled, which includes milk purchased from others, was up slightly to 20.6 billion pounds. Net savings of $26,015 was realized on $3,861,519 of revenues.

Guest speaker was the honorable Charles Stenholm, U.S. representative from Texas and ranking member on the House Ag Committee. He said in the last farm bill, we in the United States decided

At the Mid-America Dairymen Inc. annual meeting in Kansas City, Missouri, Monday, Everett Newswanger (left) received the Salute Award from Carl Baumann, the national cooperative's president. The award was given "In recognition of outstanding service to dairy farmers as editor of Lancaster Farming."

CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday; a large offering of slaughter steers sold .50 to mostly 1.00 lower, becoming 1.50 lower late. Slaughter heifers were not well tested. At present local conditions, cattle feeders are better off selling average weight Selects rather than producing Choice cattle that may finish out too heavy. Slaughter cow prices were 1.00-2.00 lower than Tuesday's sharply higher market. Slaughter bull demand was good with prices ranging steady to 1.00 higher. Supply consisted of near 49 percent slaughter steers and 31 percent slaughter cows.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1150-1400 lbs 63.25-65.25. Choice 2-3 1075-1460 lbs 59.00-63.50, few high dressing up to 65.00; 1450- 1650 lbs 55.50-59.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1000-1460 lbs 56.50-61.50; 1445-1730 lbs 51.50-58.25. Select 2-3 1000-1550 lbs 51.00-59.25.

CALVES: Compared to Monday's auction, vealers sold unevenly steady to 5.00 lower. Slaughter calves were steady to weak in a light test. Trade was active and demand was good for calves returning to the country with bulls selling fully steady and heifers trading 10.00-15.00 higher. Over 70 percent of the calves were sold to be returned to feed.

VEALERS: Good and Choice 75-110 lbs 20.00-32.00. Standard and low Good 70-100 lbs 12.00-20.00.

#1 in Rumen Availability
Pennfield's Super Flaked Corn™

THE PROCESS INVOLVES

1) Cleaning the corn
2) Soaking or steeping the corn for a prescribed period of time
3) Applying steam to the corn before rolling
4) The specially conditioned corn is then rolled between 2 large rollers
5) The wet flat rolled corn is then processed by a special unit that removes the moisture and dries the finished flake back down to normal corn moisture
6) The finished product resembles a bright yellow corn flake (makes you want to get a bowl full and add milk and sugar)

WHY IS SUPER FLAKED CORN BETTER?

Flat rolled steam flaking disrupts the cellular structure of the corn kernels (gelatinization) and increases sites for microbial attachments resulting in improved starch (carbohydrate) digestion in the rumen. In simple terms, the cow uses more of the nutrients because the rumen bugs can get to them and much less corn nutrient goes out in the manure.

USDA-MO Dept. Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids closed mixed mid-week as overnight export sales offered some strength but good crop conditions in winter wheat growing areas kept gains at a minimum. Corn and soybean bids were slightly lower as traders position themselves ahead of USDA's stocks and planting intentions report due out next Tuesday. Lack of fresh foreign demand was also a pressure factor for both corn and soybeans. Wheat mixed. Corn steady to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 7 cents higher. Soybeans steady to 2 cents lower.

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS
Don't plant another crop of tobacco until the old one is sold
Maryland auction people say as long as we have pin hooker buyers, our auction barn will not work We must have company buyers And we need farmers to help put that together
Talk or write to people in control.
Vote for the quota, coming on March 24 This would be better than what we have now The quota will bring company buyers and price support When you vote for the quota, don't exclude type 41 Tobacco buyers say they only need a small amount of 41 next year Watch out for a big price cut

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

TIMESAVING MEASURES

Once again it's time to "spring ahead" with Daylight Saving Time beginning at 2:00 A.M. on Sunday morning, April 5. (Reset your clocks one hour ahead on Saturday night.) While you're at it, consider how you would choose to spend that extra hour, if it were given back to you. Sleep? Work? A good book? Some "random act of kindness," perhaps? Too often we look to timesaving devices (washing machines, dishwashers, computers, fax machines, to name just a few) to give us more leisure time for other pursuits, but then what do we do with the hours we've gained? Often, we spend them doing more of whatever it is we hoped to escape — and then what have we gained?

In time take time, when time does last, for time is no time when time is past.

TIP OF THE WEEK

ROASTED-GARLIC POTATOES

- 8 cloves garlic
- 2 teaspoons olive oil
- 4 cups water
- 3 cups potatoes, peeled and diced
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup cream (any kind, your choice)
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter

Peel garlic cloves, toss with olive oil, wrap in foil, and roast at 350° F for about 30 minutes, or until softened. Meanwhile, bring the water to a boil and add the potatoes and salt. Simmer until potatoes are cooked, about 10 minutes. Drain. Mash the potatoes with the cream, mashed roasted garlic, and pepper. Stir in butter, and serve.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If it thunders on All Fools Day (Apr. 1), it brings good crops of corn and hay.

If the first three days of April be foggy, there will be a flood in June.

A cold and moist April fills the cellar and fattens the cow.

If St. Vincent's Day (Apr. 5) is fair, there will be more water than wine.

OPINION

Acceptance Speech

At the annual meeting of the Mid-American Dairymen's Association in Kansas City, Missouri, this week, our editor was presented with their Salute Award "in recognition of outstanding service to dairy farmers." Here is his acceptance speech given to 1,200 dairy farmers in attendance at the Hyatt Regency Crown Center Hotel.

"Many of you do not know me, but we all have a common friend, your own corporate board member, Joyce Bupp, whom we at Lancaster Farming also claim, as well. Joyce not only acts as a regular correspondent, she writes the most widely read column in our newspaper entitled "On Being A Farm Wife." Her warm personality and great wit make her an excellent advocate for agriculture.

"I would like to congratulate you on the mergers that have been made to seed this new Dairy Farmers of America. Your 'vision of unity' will surely serve all dairy farmers across America, and yes, in all the world. And you will also serve the national economy and everyone who eats.

"We live in an exciting time. When I was young, corn borers ate corn stalks and leaves. Now we have corn plants that eat corn borers. BT corn may be the most advanced biotechnology in agriculture. But we now have calves born in petri dishes. We have genetically made cows that give milk with medicinal value.

"Already, BST is antiquated because now you can clone your 40,000lb. cow and get a whole milking string of her identical self. I can see the day when you will keep spare cow parts at your local biogenetic laboratory. When your good cow needs a new udder, you will just call your genetic engineer and order a new one.

"Seriously, you have truly paid me the greatest national honor with your Salute Award. This is especially rewarding because it comes from the dairy farmers of America. You have been so kind to also bring my wife Ellen and me out from Pennsylvania as your guests.

"We, along with all truly good agribusiness people, are aware that everything we do and can accomplish starts with the dairy farmer who gets up at five o'clock every morning to milk the cows. I really do appreciate this honor. Thank you very much!"

To Learn From Poland

This month I had the opportunity to spend 11 days in Poland as part of a Penn State team conducting a seminar on extension methods and farming. We had the opportunity to visit several farms and agri-businesses. I was impressed with the progress the Polish farmers have made in the past eight years. Their extension service is dedicated to solving rural problems. They have been working with farmers to learn how to produce commodities for the market.

Their goals are 1. not the most production but the most profitable production and 2. improve quality before production. These are two important goals we need to be using here. The Polish farmers are learning these goals very fast. If we are to compete in a global economy we need to know what our competition is doing. Quality is becoming more important in today's market place. What are you doing to improve the quality of your farm's products?

To Know Electric Use

The deregulation or restructuring of the electric utility industry will have a major impact on how we purchase and use electricity, according to Dennis Buffington, Penn State Agricultural Engineer. In the deregulated environment, electricity pricing will change. There will be many pricing options and the decisions will be more complex.

To be a wise electric shopper in the future, it will be helpful to start accumulating a record of your electricity usage patterns. Document how much electricity you use and when you use it. Then identify what appliances, equipment or operations are the big users of electricity. Start thinking about how you could modify your load profile so that you are more attractive to electric suppliers. Look for steps you may take to reduce your costs. Also, keep informed of changes as they develop.

To Look At World Food Expenditures

According to the Oregon Department of Agriculture, no other country in the world has enabled its citizens to obtain such a wide variety of food at such a moderate price as the United States has. The average citizen in India spends 52.6 per cent of their income on food, China 47.8 per cent, Mexico 31.9 per cent, Russia 28 per cent, Japan 18 per cent and France 16.4 per cent. In the United States we spend 10.3 per cent, the lowest in the world.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WAS JESUS A 'WINNER'?

March 29, 1998

Background Scripture:
Mark 8:27 through 9:13
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 43:10-21

We all want to be winners, don't we? If we cannot win personally — the lottery, the CEO's chair, the best salary — then we want to identify with one — a winning politician, a championship sports team, a celebrity personality.

The problem is the term "winning." How can you know when you have really "won?"

A few years ago, on the basis of Super Bowl victories, the Dallas Cowboys were regarded as the pro football "class of the '90s." The last two pro seasons have been a sad reminder to us that many victories are of very short duration. Yesterday's athletic "Super Power" may be next year's "over-the-hill gang." Political, business, and social victories are often just as fleeting.

So, if we are going to answer the questions as to whether Jesus was a "winner" or a "loser," we have to decide first of all what it means to really "win" or "lose." And, if it's not over until it's over, how do we know when it's over? Winning on the battlefield, the playing field, the management ladder or the polls may turn all too quickly into eventual defeat. Similarly, to "lose" in any of these situations could quite possibly eventuate in victory.

SUFFERING & LOSING

I call this to your attention simply because what Jesus told his disciples at Caesarea Philippi smacks of "losing" in the popular understanding of today. "And he began to teach them that the Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the scribes, and be killed" (8:31). Apparently Peter thought so too, for he turned to Jesus and "began to rebuke him."

I can appreciate how Peter felt. All of his life he had had to eke out a meager living as a fisherman. Capernaum was a backwater town. He was uneducated. He belonged to a socioeconomic class that had no share in the political process. If, in responding to Jesus' call he had thought he was throwing in his lot with a winner, these words of Jesus certainly have been a letdown. Besides, until now, Jesus' role was increasingly that of the strong, Son of God, a powerful man of divine authority. How could a man who could cast out demons become so powerless?

Peter's reaction was an understandable human reaction not at all unlike our own desire to in some way "be a winner." Nevertheless, it was not in harmony with God's will and Jesus' rebuke to Peter is among the sharpest retorts of Jesus ever recorded: "Get behind me, Satan! For you are not on the side of God, but of men" (8:33).

LINGERING DOUBTS

Why did Jesus react so angrily? First, although Jesus spoke with certainty of the passion that lay before him, it doesn't mean that he came to that conviction without vigorous soul-researching and inner deliberation. So, Peter's words to him were particularly unsettling in that his disciple voiced some of the very arguments which Jesus himself had had to resolve.

Secondly, I believe he addressed Peter as "Satan" because he was really responding to Satan, not Peter. The words were Peter's, but Jesus knew this was simply the voice of the tempter whom he had initially vanquished in the 40 days and nights in the wilderness.

Not only would Jesus take on the roll of a suffering servant, that was what he expected of his followers as well: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever would save his life will lost it; and whoever loses his life for my sake and the gospel's will save it" (8:34,35). Is that what it means to follow Jesus as the Christ: to take on a roll that the world interprets as that of a loser?

So, if it's not over until it's over, when is it over? According to Jesus, "For whoever is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him will the Son of man also be shamed, when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels" (8:38, my italics).

Then, and only then, is it over.

USDA Approves New Owner Sampler Program

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — USDA has approved an owner-sampler program as part of the farm record management system available through Pa. DHIA.

Dairymen who participate in young sire programs can benefit greatly while maintaining a low cost and accurate testing program.

For only 84 cents per cow, plus a stop charge fee, a Pa. DHIA technician will deliver and pick up all testing equipment.

Free, tailor-made reports are available immediately to the dairymen enabling them to make quick and effective management decisions.

Included in these same-day test reports are vet action reports that document future actions such as cows to dry off, pregnancy check, breed and freshening dates. These reports are beneficial to have available during herd visits by a veterinarian or consultant and can be important time savers.

Pa. DHIA currently has an industry high of 83 percent useable records being utilized by USDA. They are invaluable when participating in young sire programs as well as maintaining an optimum dairy herd management record program.

The award-winning lab at Pa. DHISA offers fat, protein and somatic cell analysis for owner sampler herds, while offering milk urea nitrogen analysis at a low additional fee.

Finished processed reports available are barn sheets, herd summary I or II, monthly lactation reports, individual cow page each lactation, herd and cow certificates and monthly invoicing.

Call Dean Amick at 1-800-344-8378 to begin a Pa. DHIA testing program.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Mar 25, 1998

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers steady to 1.00 higher. Feeder heifers steady. Demand very good for feeders. Demand excellent for grazing classes. Stocker steers and steers calves firm to 4.00 higher. Stocker heifers and heifer calves 4.00-5.00 higher. The frenzy for grazing cattle is a normal seasonal occurance as the smell of grass creates its usual great demand; this coupled with the probable better cattle markets well down the road has created unusally wide price differentials between stockers and feeder cattle. Quality of the supply average to attractive with gaunt to average weigh ups. Feeder cattle in medium to slightly fleshy condition. Numerous stockers and calves available and these in medium thru very thin condition. Slaughter cows and bulls 1.00 lower. Demand moderate from packers as open spring weather has increased availability of cull cows. Bred cows are average sale barn quality and not comparable to quality of special sales in past several weeks. Total of 356 cows and bulls sold with 50 percent going to packers. Receipts this week 10,500; last week 8921; last year 10,106. Supply consisted of 71 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 26 percent calves under 600 lbs; 3 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

New IVOMEC® SR Bolus.

Parasite control that goes the distance for better weight gains.

Using exclusive parasite control technology the new IVOMEC SR Bolus extends the power spectrum and convenience of IVOMEC for approximately 135 days the longest lasting broad spectrum parasite control product in the world

Controls parasites for 4½ months with a single treatment.

The SR Bolus provides a sustained release of IVOMEC brand ivermectin for approximately 135 days So your cattle receive continuous broad spectrum protection for an entire grazing season The IVOMEC SR Bolus is recommended for calves weighing at least 75 pounds and not more than 660 pounds Calves must be receiving and more than 12 weeks of age

Increase weight gains.

Studies have shown that parasitized cattle receiving the IVOMEC SR Bolus gained from 41 to 111 pounds more than untreated cattle Think of what those extra pounds can mean at sale time that agriculture was going to become less or totally less dependent on government and more or totally dependent on free world markets.

"But the reason I was reluctant to adopt this bill is not because we don't want less government interference on farmers," Stenholm said. "We already have too much unproductive paperwork. But the thing that bothered me, and still does, is that there really is not free world market.

"If we are going to make progress in our ability to compete with our farm programs according to the world's definition of free markets, we must have our negotiators at the tables. We are losing markets every day because Europe has negotiators at the table in South America negotiating bilateral trade agreements. We says we don't want to have our representatives at the table, but we reserve the right to complain about what they do. It is important that we determine what we need our government to do with us to level the world market playing field as much as we can."

On environmental issues, Stenholm said it is important to stop the train that is bent to impose solutions without good scientific reason and logic. "We need to be proactive on environmental issues that you do regularly and do anyway," he said. "We need to acknowledge we have problems that need to be solved. But we need to change the solutions that are presented, regardless of how many dairy farmers they put out of business, or the cost without share assistance. Part of my vision when we put team USDA together in 1994 was to have a department that had the confidence of a large number of people.

"Today you need to ask and answer a simple question. What is it you want team USDA to do for you, with you, and to you? How do we become price makers rather than price takers?

"We are blessed with a nation that has the most abundant food supply, the safest food supply at the lowest cost in any country in the world," Stenholm said. "No one can challenge us on this, but it is not automatic. I am pledged to see that the minority voice of agriculture can be heard as much as possible. I see government as a partner, not a crutch. We will control our destiny by cooperation, or it will be controled by others."

The cooperative named three dairymen to the hall of honors. The Mid-Am Hall of Honors was created to recognize persons, living and deceased, who have been instrumental in the development and growth of the cooperative. President Carl Baumann presented recognition to one living recipient, Harry C.M. Burger of Seneca, Kansas, and relatives of two deceased recipients, Albert Bos of Billings, Missouri, and John Moser of Louisville, Kentucky.

Berger was a highly motivated professional dairyman recognized by many organizations for his leadership and dedication to the dairy industry. He took over the management of the 960-acre family farm and 250-cow Holstein herd at age 16, following the death of his father. In 1989, he was recognized for 50 years of service on the Mid-Am and predecessor cooperative board of directors.

Guest speaker was The Honorable Charles Stenholm, U.S. House of Representatives and ranking member of the house ag committee.

Herman Brubaker is the new chairman of Dairy Farmers of America.

State University, Burger established a scholarship for the dairy judging team and served as a member of the President Club. In 1984, Mr. Burger was awarded the Kansas Distinguished Dairyman Award.

Bos was born in Holland and came to the United States in 1948. Even before becoming a U.S. Citizen in 1958, he was active in promoting dairy. In addition to operating a successful dairy, Bos served on the Mid-Am board of directors from 1975-1993 and was chairnan of the southern division from 1980-1988.

He served on the DHIA board for several years and also served on the Christian County Farm Bureau board and dairy committee. Bos received the "Award of Merit" from the Southwest Conservation Department in 1986.

Moser was a longtime distinguished dairy farmer. He served as a director of Falls Cities Cooperative Milk Producers, later serving as the organization's president. He also served as chairman of the National Dairy Council and was president of the American Dairy Association. "Mr. John" was inducted into Hoard's Dairyman Hall of Fame in 1972. The John Moser Endowed Scholarship at the University of Kentucky was established by friends and associates in his name.

Two agricultural communicators were presented with the Salute Award to recognize outstanding service to dairy farmers. Recipients were Rich Hawkins, farm director at KHB/KMZU Radio, Kansas City, Missouri, and Everett Newswanger, managing editor of Lancaster Farming.

Hawkins is a 35-year veteran farm broadcaster who got his start as a college student on an internship program. Having grown up on a farm and remembering the long hours of hard work, Hawkins admits he had reservations about going into any kind of business associated with farming. But the offer of a scholarship by the National Association of Broadcasters when he was a junior at Fort Hays State University in Central Kansas was enough to entice Hawkins to give farm broadcasting a try.

At KRVN, a 50,000-watt clear channel station with coverage in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, and Northeast Colorado, Hawkins served a diverse farm audience. Now at WHB/KMZU in Kansas City as farm director, he is best know for his daily half-hour programs that focus on in-depth coverage of current agricultural topics.

Newswanger is managing editor of Lancaster Farming, a highly regarded weekly agricultural newspaper that enjoys a circulation of 50,000 in Pennsylvania and six bordering states. He first joined the paper in the late 60's, working as a reporter and editor for five years before going into public relations, advertising, and marketing. He returned in April 1986 to be managing editor. Over the years the paper had grown from a county weekly to an important national agri-paper.

Newswanger has credits in journalism and marketing from the University of Oklahoma and Penn State Extension. He studied as an associate of Grant Heilman, national master ag photographer, and later was an associate understudy of the late Joseph Hull, national master of public relations. He holds professional memberships in the National Association of Agricultural Journalists and the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishing Association. He has been recognized by numerous organizations for both his journalistic excellence and his dedicated service to agriculture.

developing a nutrient management plan.

In most cases, including Pennsylvania, nutrient management plans are based on balancing nitrogen. This is based on our scientific understanding of nitrogen behavior and generally greater concerns with the environmental fate of nitrogen and the potential negative human health effects of nitrates in water.

At the same time, we have long recognized that one of the consequences of basing nutrient management plans on nitrogen is that, in most cases, excess phosphorus will be applied to the soil.

This is not an ideal situation, but from our understanding of phosphorus behavior, we know that there are things we can do to minimize the environmental impact of this excess phosphorus, in many cases.

Consequently, we have consistently emphasized that, while the official guidelines for manure management are based on nitrogen, we cannot ignore phosphorus.

This is the reason for the inclusion of practices such as soil and water conservation, balancing manure applications over crop rotations, cover crops, etc., in nutrient management plans.

Research and experience over a number of years working in nutrient management has also pointed out, however, that not all of the practices that we depend on to minimize phosphorus impact on the environment are as effective as we thought, in all situations.

For example, conservation tillage will dramatically reduce the loss of sediment-bound phosphorus from agricultural fields, however, repeated excess application of manure phosphorus to the soil surface can result in extremely high soil phosphorus levels at the soil surface.

Under normal conditions, soils have a large capacity to adsorb ("adsorb" means to cling to, while "absorb" means to "incorporate") and hold phosphorus, thus phosphorus solubility in the soil is generally very low.

However, within the high phosphorus microenvironment at the soil surface, the phosphorus adsorption capacity of the soil may become saturated to the point that water running over this soil surface can pick up significant amounts of soluble phosphorus and transport it from the field to water bodies.

This is not a "turnaround in what has been considered scientific fact," but application of our constantly improving understanding of phosphorus behavior to a different and changing set of circumstances.

This is an example of why we need to continually do research and evaluate our experiences regarding what we know about phosphorus behavior and management in context of changing conditions.

As I stated earlier, the compromise required when making a decision between nitrogen and phosphorus is not an ideal situation.

Some people want to take the black-and-white point of view of the issue and propose a zero-tolerance position that no excess phosphorus be applied.

This is the approach being proposed in Maryland. However, as noted in the article, the implications of this approach are very serious for animal agriculture.

Because we believe that there are effective and practical alternatives to this zero-tolerance approach, research has continued on agricultural phosphorus, its potential impact on the environment and possible management strategies.

The emphasis of this research, which has been ongoing on a national scale, for some time, has focused on gaining a better understanding of the behavior of phosphorus, especially in systems where excess phosphorus is being applied, and looking for practical strategies for further minimizing the effect of agricultural phosphorus on the environment.

For example, recent research has shown that a majority of the phosphorus lost to water comes from a limited area in most water-

FULL TIME™ FORAGE

THE LIGHT

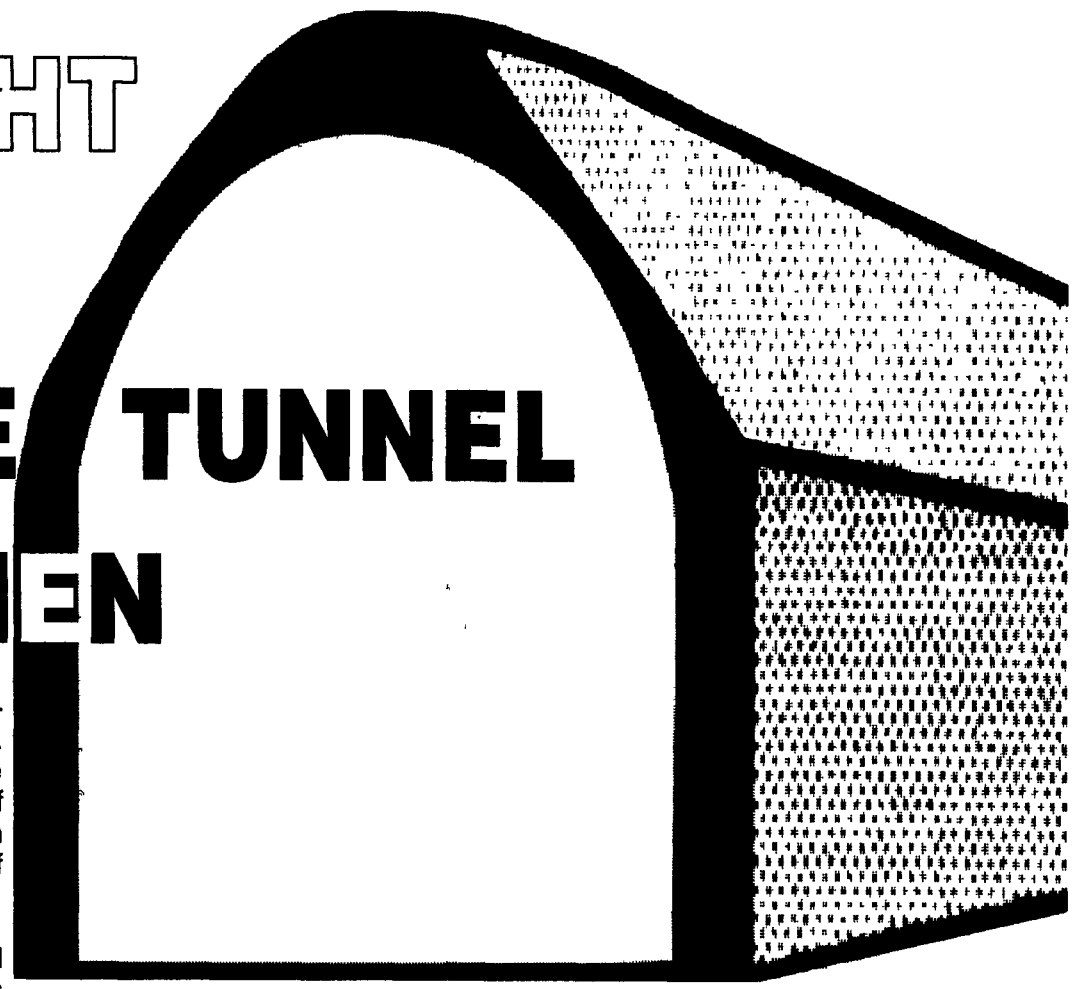
END OF THE TUNNEL

FOR DAIRYMEN



Last year Ervin Hostetler, Belleville, PA fed FULLTIME™ Forage and was pleased with the 9.5 lb. increase in milk production he received. He compared FullTime™ Forage to 7301FQ as part of Cargill's on farm feed trials. This year he is even more convinced FullTime™ Forage is the wave of the future for dairymen.

Currently, Ervin is getting 86.5 lbs. of milk and making $9.00 income over feed costs/cow/day. His ration on an as fee basis consists of:

75 lbs.	FullTime™ Forage
20 lbs.	Balage
12 lbs.	High Moisture Corn
8.5 lbs.	Protein
1.25 lbs.	Minerals
.3 lbs.	ByPass Fat

But there is a lot more to his story. On November 17, 1997 his cows were milking 57 lbs. He was out of corn silage and was getting ready to move to his new barn and milking parlor on a different farm. After the move, the cows dropped to 49 lbs. The cows were started out at 50 lbs. FullTime™ Forage and gradually moved to 75 lbs. FullTime™ Forage. On December 24, the cows were producing 72 lbs/cow/day. On December 26 Ervin started milking 3 times a day. One week later, they were at 86.5 lbs./day.

Will Ervin be planting more FullTime™ Forage in 1998? ABSOLUTELY!

He and his Young's nutritionist, Dave Martin are doing their own research project. How much forage can these cows eat utilizing FullTime™ Forage in the ration and what effect will this have on feed cost savings, milk production and income over feed costs?

Ervin already sees FULLTIME™ as the light at the end of the tunnel for dairymen, but could it even get better?

FEED TRIAL UPDATE

The research project on Ervin's herd has concluded and the results are exciting! Twenty-six cows that were 250 days in milk were fed 108 lbs. of FULLTIME™ Forage and no high moisture corn. That group increased 2.1 lbs. of milk and income over feed costs was $8.39.

However, group 2 was the real winner. At 215 days in milk they increased 10.9 lbs. and are producing 99.5 lbs. Income over feed costs is $10.24. These cows were kept on the original ration. The whole herd averaged 89.9 lbs/milk at $9.42 income over feed costs.

So what does Ervin plan on doing next year? He is going to plant enough FULLTIME™ Forage to feed his cows 90 lbs. of FULLTIME™ Forage all year.

FULLTIME™ Forage is the light at the end of the tunnel for dairymen! Don't wait any longer Plant FULLTIME™ Forage this spring and reap the benefits all next year!

Cows And 'Eggs' Open Gates Of Research At Beltsville ARS

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Like many cows here at the 7,000-acre USDA Agricultural Research Service (ARS) dairy research program, a cow like number 9654 may have to wear what scientists affectionately call "the egg."

Simply put, the egg is a low-frequency radio transmitter worn around the cow's neck that is synchronized with a locking mechanism on a head gate. The egg allows only that particular gate to open and close.

The scientists here aren't testing cow feeding behavior — at least not yet. The egg is one way to examine, however, how a cow reaches for feed and why it would prefer one gate locking area to another.

By the way — cow 9654, a Holstein, milks 140 pounds a day and is the herd's high producer, according to Duane Taylor, herdsman/supervisor at the USDA research farm in Beltsville.

Members of the Solanco Young Farmers toured the dairy Tuesday this week to learn more about agricultural research under way at the ARS site, home to more than 400 buildings and research into environmental conservation, human nutrition, experiments in plant and animal genetics, and other applied research.

According to Taylor, there are 135 cows on test from a herd that is half grade and half registered Holstein, with about the same number of replacements. On Provo DHIA, milk h(rd average is 22,000 pounds.

The dairy, which markets its milk to Land O'Lakes through a cooperative agreement with the University of Maryland, makes use of a single-mix TMR consisting of corn silage, alfalfa silage, orchardgrass, cottonseed, alfalfa hay, and concentrate with bypass protein. Cows average 70 pounds of milk per day.

The cows are housed in two curtain-sided structures, first designed in 1979 and completed in 1993. One structure is insulated and another noninsulated. The cows are situated on mattresses with a polypropylene cloth cover that uses ground rubber material as padding. The mattresses are covered with sawdust.

There are 10 employees working two shifts. Milking is at 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.

An interesting area is how feed is testing on the animals.

There are seventy tubes that can hold from 65-70 kilograms (about 120-130 pounds) of feed material. In studies, cows are fed either orchardgrass or alfalfa, or any combination of feeds. With the new electronic feed systems, feed will be matched to individual cow requirements.

An interesting note, according to Taylor, is that orchardgrass is less expensive than alfalfa to grow. The dairy's orchardgrass tested 22 percent for crude protein on a dry matter basis.

An alley scraper at the ends of the cement-floor freestall unit pushes the manure to a holding area at the end of the barn, where it flows to a main receptor pit. From there, a separator takes the liquids out, which go to a biogas digester.

Interestingly, none of the methane from the digester is stored or converted to energy. It is simply allowed to dissipate. The solids are sent to a windrow composting operation nearby.

The dairy is just one of the research areas seen by the tour group Tuesday. The site also is home to beef cattle, including Herefords, Angus, and Charolais as part of on-site test programs.

The Beltsville ARS site has an annual budget of $229 million.

In addition, some of the other areas of research at Beltsville

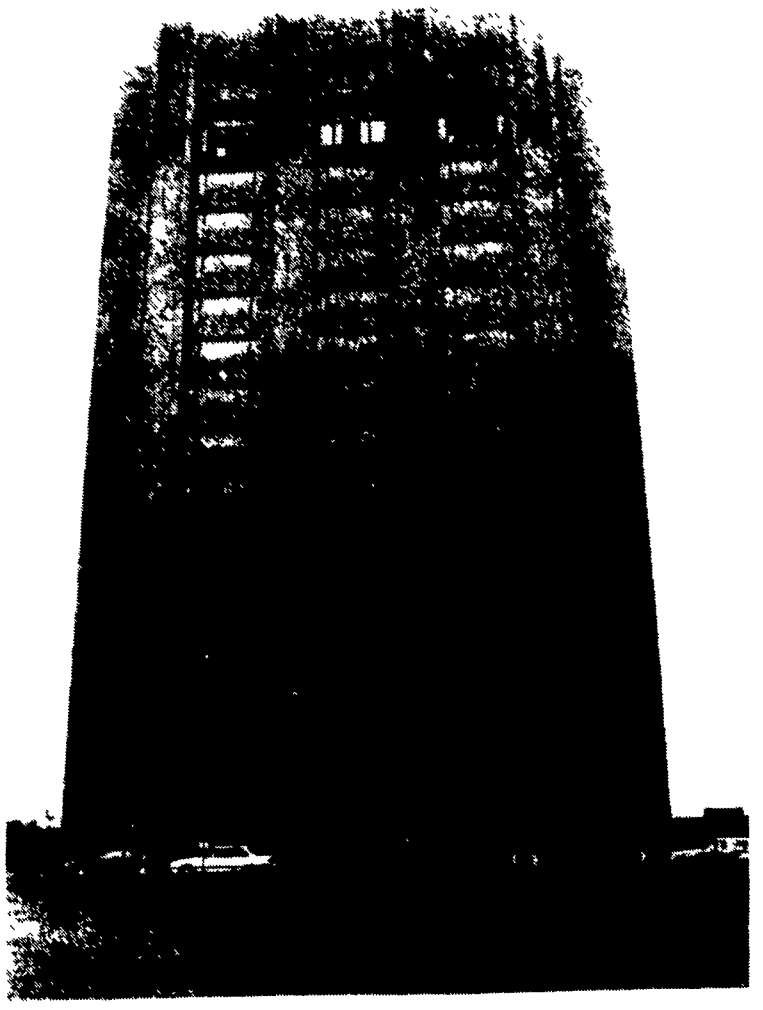
The Beltsville dairy farm is home to about 135 cows on test.

Turfgrass studies, along with alfalfa and soybean research, are under way. Here, the tour group examines the flats in the greenhouses.

The Beltsville ARS dairy barn is home to about 135 registered and grade Holstein. The cows are comfortable on rubber mattresses and sawdust bedding.



Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (or BARC) is the home of the National Agricultural Library, housed in a 15-story building. The library contains a 2-million-volume collection of printed materials on agriculture and related sciences. Anybody with access to the Internet can make a request for information to the library about any agricultural subject and receive a response via email.

Pa. State Grange Supports Legislation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange is asking state House of Representatives members to pass two bills that would strengthen the agricultural industry and the profitability of family farms.

Brenda Shambaugh, PA State Grange legislative director, said the Grange seeks passage of House Bill 9, the Agricultural Loan Forgiveness Program. The program reduces the amount of a Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) loan if an agricultural college graduate returns to a family farm or if a veterinary school graduate goes into a large animal practice.

"The Agricultural Loan Forgiveness Program has helped many students return to the agricultural arena," Sahmbaugh said. "The program has made it possible for young farmers and veterinarians to stay in rural areas where they are needed to enhance production agriculture."

The Pennsylvania State Grange, with over 30,000 members is an agricultural, rural and community service organization dedicated to improving life in Pennsylvania through legislative action, community work and providing member services.

Shambaugh said HB9, which is currently on the House calendar for consideration, is an extremely important piece of legislation.

"Since the farming community is drastically dwindling, we believe the continuation of agricultural loan forgiveness is vital to the profitability of our state's number one industry," Shambaugh said. "The fabric of rural Pennsylvania relies on a strong agricultural economy."

Shambaugh said the Grange supports HB 1573, which covers three different issues. Shambaugh said passage of the bill would: add aquaculture to the definition of an agricultural commodity under the PA Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act; require the Department of Agriculture to pay poultry producers the same amount of indemnity if they are afflicted with avian influenza whether they voluntary depopulate or if their birds are condemned; and change the definition of garbage to rectify a problem the United States Department of Agriculture had with the current Pennsylvania definition.

"All of these issues will be of great benefit to the agricultural community," Shambaugh said. "We strongly urge the Legislature to pass these two bills."

Shambaugh said HB 1573 is on the House calendar for concurrence of Senate amendments.

Shambaugh said Grangers will present their views on these two state bills and other pertinent issues at the annual Grange Week celebration, a legislative event sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Grange in Harrisburg on April 27.

Attention Veterans

The President of the U.S. has recently signed into law a bill that affects all veterans. This law states that if a veteran has not registered at a Veterans Affairs Hospital since Oct. 1, 1996, then on Oct. 1, 1998 he or she will lose all medical benefits for life.

To make it worse, the V.A. cannot notify veterans about it. Information must be disseminated via word of mouth or by letter. The local V.A. office recommends that everyone elligible for benefits come by their office, and sign up prior to the October 1st deadline, regardless of whether they have received treatment at a V.A. hospital since 10/01/96. This way no one will slip through the cracks. Veterans need to bring their DD-214 identification. It will only take about 5 minutes to complete the form.

If you cannot locate your DD-214, go to the V.A. office and they can help you obtain a copy.

Mid-Am Finishes Business,

As of January 1, 1998, the focus of the DFA has been to organize a national and international presense for the dairy industry while utilizing the economics of scale. "Small in the country, big in town," has become the summary statement to signify the many connections to local dairymen while presenting the force of numbers in marketing and political endeavors.

DFA has set up headquarters in Kansas City. They have members in 42 states, coast to coast and border to border. DFA products are sold in every state and are exported internationally. They operate 40 manufacturing plants in the U.S. and produce a wide variety of dairy products including: American and Italian cheeses, cultured dairy products, coffee creamers, butter, in-can sterilized infant and adult nutrition products; dehydrated products; nonfat dry milk; dried whey products; ground, shredded and diced cheeses; long shelf-life dairy products, and cheese sauces.

DFA participates in several joint ventures that serve fluid milk and dairy product markets. The cooperative has a state-of-the-art product development center in Springfield, Missouri, that includes research and development laboratories for new dairy products.

Herman Brubaker, a dairy farmer from West Alexandria, Ohio, has been named chairman of the board.

class action suit in the York County Court of Common Pleas. And, tax protest letters are already turning up at municipal tax collectors' offices around the county.

Joyce Smith, tax collector for the northern end's Warrington Township, had as of last week received tax protest letters. She was expecting more.

In the county's southern corner, Chanceford Township tax collector Henry Tyson had more.

"I've gotten about a dozen," he affirmed late last week. "But the big rush comes the first two weeks of April, right before the discount period ends. I expect quite a few."

Springfield Township, in the county's southcentral area, had not seen any of the protest letters as of last week, though tax collector Barbara Metzler had gotten inquiries. She explained that the escrowed money must be held in a separate account set up by each taxing municipality, school district and the county, with the tax collectors doing the initial paperwork.

"We must calculate the 25 percent protest amount on each tax, and send a note to the county treasurer's office about the protested bill," she explained. The tax collector's forwarding payments to the county treasurer's office must be made with two checks, keeping the 25 percent protest amount to be escrowed separate from the regular tax payment.

"It's extra work, but that's part of our job," Metzler said.

The farmers' tax revolt boiled up following the county's real estate reassessment last year, when hundreds of York County farmers and landowners were stunned upon receiving their new tax appraisals. Some values had tripled under the new assessment, meaning tax bills would take three times their prior bite.

In a year in which York County farmers were smitten with one of the area's worst droughts in memory, tax bills as much as tripled came as a bitter blow.

The farmer's group has taken issue with several of the reassessment criteria, including lack of recognition for greatly varying productivity levels among the range of soil types across York County. And, assessment values are reportedly higher than that on similar soils in neighboring counties. So many taxpayers filed appeals to the county's Assessment Board that the individual hearings, which were to have been completed by the end of 1997, stretched into February of 1998.

The "under protest" mailing comes on the heels of an earlier one, sent January 29, in which the committee encouraged Clean and Green property owners to join in a class action filing against the York County Assessment Board. That letter polled recipients on their tax assessment problems and willingness to testify if necessary. Letter recipients were further invited to contribute financial support, based on their acreage, to help find anticipated legal costs. Response, according to the committee, has been gratifying.

"We are very, very pleased with the financial support we've seen from York County's farmers and landowners," says FRYC chairman Buser.

"We've had a great reply to our first letter. We've gotten maybe over a thousand responses and probably 70 percent of those people are willing to testify," Buser adds. "There are some real horror stories, older landowners, often with medical problems. They have no idea how they are going to pay their tax bills."

Gatchelville fruit growers Gail and Paul McPherson have experienced first-hand Buser's concerns over the tax bills' effect on the many of county's older landowners. Upon opening her tax reassessment last fall, one elderly, widowed friend of the McPherson's called them for help, pleading with Paul's assistance in dealing with her property's reappraisal.

"Our older landowners have been good, solid, hard-working citizens of the community. Many of them don't have huge retirement funds and they budget every cent they have carefully. These kind of tax bills may simply drive them out of their homes," Gail McPherson worries.

Affected York County Clean and Green valued property owners, and any other individuals seeking more information on the tax protest, may contact FRYC chairman Bill Buser at (717) 755-3271.

Marketing Opportunities On The Turnpike

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) – Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced that the department is seeking producers interested in operating stands at farmers' markets throughout the Pennsylvania Turnpike system during the 1998 growing season.

"Launched by Gov. Tom Ridge, this program demonstrates the Ridge Administration's continued commitment to finding new markets for Pennsylvania-grown products," said Hayes. "Gov. Ridge has worked to expand not only the export market for farmers, but also the domestic market through innovative and strategic methods.

"Since the Turnpike Farmers; Markets began three years ago, the markets have proven to be very popular with the traveling public and have provided farmers a great new marketing opportunity.

The markets are at the service plazas at Allentown, Lehigh County; New Stanton, Westmoreland County; Sideling Hill, Fulton County; and Valley Forge, Chester County. Although many vendors will be returning for 1998, there will be opportunities for additional vendors at each of the markets.

Pennsylvania producers who grow more than 50 percent of their total sales are eligible to participate. The vendors may supplement their own production with produce that also is Pennsylvania-grown.

Farmers interested in becoming vendors at any of the markets may request an application by contacting Mike Varner, Bureau of Market Development, 2301 N. Cameron St. Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The telephone number is (717) 787-2376.

Ag Research Leader Speaks At Northeast Grazing Workshop

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) Thanks to the work of the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), the threat of the introduction of animal diseases to the U.S. from other countries is reduced every day.

"There are those who wouldn't mind disrupting U.S. agriculture" in such a way, said Floyd P. Horn, acting deputy undersecretary for USDA Research, Education, and Economics.

Horn spoke to more than 100 producers, educators, and agri-industry representatives on Wednesday afternoon during the first of a two-day Grazing In The Northeast Workshop sponsored by the Northeast Pasture Research Extension Consortium at the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel and Convention Center in Camp Hill.

Horn, administrator for the entire USDA ag research program, was born and raised in New England. He noted that the Northeast is thought by many "not to have a big role in agriculture."

However, the land devoted to agriculture makes up 8 percent of the total land area in the country. Thirty percent of the land is in agricultural use and 30 percent of the U.S. population lives in the Northeast.

Agriculture is in close proximity to big markets, according to the USDA administrator.

Ag is in the top three of the main industries making up the bulk of the income in the Northeast. And despite notions to the contrary, large, commercial farms aren't pushing away the small farms in the eyes of USDA research.

USDA is working to make the family farm "viable" and to pass along to the children. "The small family farm has a place in this country," said Horn.

Maximum production off of conventional farming is not necessarily optimum productivity. More so, grazing research will benefit farmers to who seek new ways to be productive.

"There are those who wouldn't mind disrupting U.S. agriculture" in such a way, said Floyd P. Horn, acting deputy undersecretary for USDA Research, Education, and Economics.

Fortunately, the federal budget passed down to the USDA, Horn told those at the workshop, shows no reduction in grazing and animal science research.

But challenges exist.

"Agriculture is the Rodney Dangerfield of Washington, D.C.," Horn said. It achieves "little respect," he said, gaining only 2 percent of the overall research and development budget, a "pittance" compared to the importance of food export markets to many ag-related industries in the country.

One national focus is to ensure the efficacy of APHIS, which monitors products that come into the country to keep out pathogens harmful to the domestic ag industries. Another is the concentrated research into removing pathogens in the food system through food safety guidelines. Another focus is the role of animal agriculture in the nation's surface and groundwater supplies.

Horn pointed out the advances that are working to benefit ag and consumers. He pointed to a new product that is used in chicken feed to kill Salmonella. He also emphasized the low-phytate corn (phytate denotes the amount of "unavailable" phosphorous in corn), to help control the amount of phosphorous that ends up in poultry manure.

"A lot of ingenious things will come out of research programs in years to come," he said.

Recently, the House and Senate ag committees approved another $600 million to be available for ag research. That's comparable to the $780 million for the Agricultural Research Service program under the USDA.

Horn praised the effectiveness of the Cooperative Research and Development Agreement programs run through the USDA ARS. The license agreements to companies are in effect for 17 years.

Also at the workshop, James B. Cropper of USDA/NRCS spoke about pasture resource assessments in the Northeast. And Edward B. Rayburn, extension forage agronomist with West Virginia University, Morgantown, spoke about elements of pasture production. These and other items from the workshop will be included in the next issue of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council's Foraging Around newsletter to be published by Lancaster Farming April 18.

The workshop is sponsored by the Northeast Pasture Research and Extension Consortium, a public-private partnership of land grant university research and extension faculty and staff, USDA/ARS and USDA/NRCS representatives, livestock producers, and other agribusiness people from the northeast region of the country, and affiliated members. The workshop is also sponsored by the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES). NRAES is sponsored by cooperative extension in the 13 Northeast land-grand universities.

Spring Dairy Expo '98-- April 2-4

Columbus, Ohio - Jam-packed with all kinds of activity, the 1998 Spring Dairy Expo is less than a month away! Starting Thursday, April 2nd, the even opens with the Ohio PDCA Judging Conference at 10:30 AM. This years conference will be marked with prizes for the top judges. At 3:30 PM on Thursday, the Trade show will open just prior to the ADADC Mid-East Bar-B-Que/Annual Meeting. The first evening is rounded out with the Ohio Spring Ayrshire and Midwest Revue Brown Swiss Sales.

Bright and early Friday, April 3rd, the events start again. The Holstein heifers, dry cows and bulls will fill the show ring to be judged by Callum McKinven of Canada. The Jerseys will show at 11:00 AM under the evaluation of Mike Stiles of VA. Guernseys and Brown Swiss will show at 7 PM for judge Stiles while McKinven will judge the Ayrshires. There will be two Holstein sales, 12:30 PM, sponsored by the Ohio Holstein Association and at 4:00 PM is the Buckeye Classic, put on by the OSU Buckeye Dairy Club. The Buckeye Dairy Club has also organized a Jersey sale slated for 6:00 PM.

Dr. Norman St. Pierre of The Ohio State University will present a seminar at 11:00 AM and 1:00 PM on "Factors in Farm Profitability--Where To Go From Here". Information that he provides should help to make your operation more profitable and competitive in the future. A lunch, compliments of Countrymark Co-op/Gromark Inc., will be available for all seminars attendees.

To coincide with all the activity on Friday, the trade show will be open from noon until 8:00 PM. The Silent Auction with many great items will run concurrently with the trade show

Saturday, April 4th is the final day of the Spring Dairy Expo. It begins with the All Youth, 4-H and Open FFA Judging contest. No other spring contest can boast such a high quality of cattle. If this isn't your official contest, it's a great place to practice! The trade show and silent auction will be open from 9:00 AM to 1:00 PM. The Holstein show begins at noon with the milking cow and champion classes. Things will climax in the show ring with the selection of Supreme Champion at 3 PM.

Jam-packed with action and events, the 1998 Spring Dairy Expo is the Total Dairy Experience--you won't want to miss it

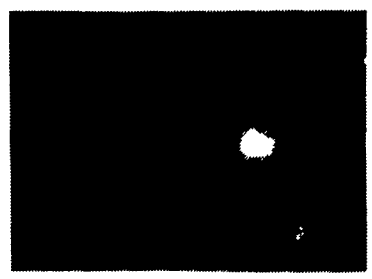
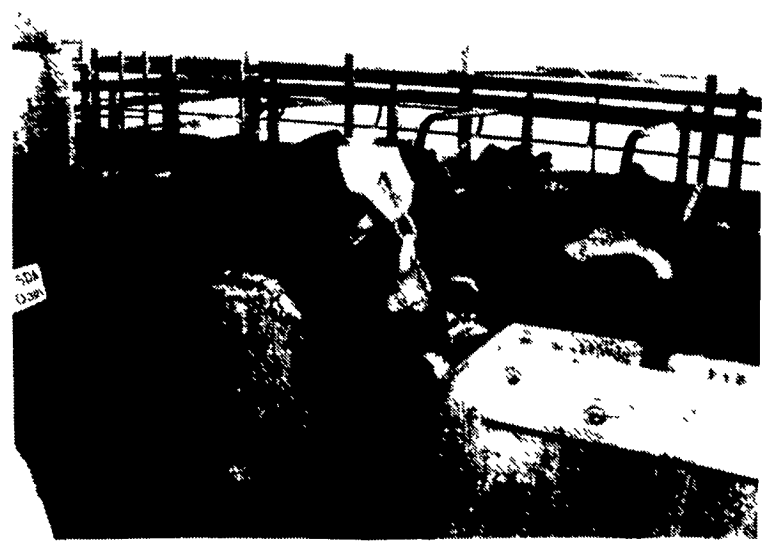
Members of the Solanco Young Farmers toured the Beltsville ARS site Tuesday this week.

Duane Taylor, Beltsville research farm herdsman, far left, explains the use of a single-mix TMR system to the Solanco Young Farmers.





Taylor explains the use of the "egg" radio transmitter to the Solanco Young Farmers tour group. The "egg" is a low-frequency radio transmitter attached to a cow's neck to open the headgate.

include:

• Development of a solar fly "zapper" designed to mimic the head of the cow, attracting pests to their doom, on display at the ARS National Visitor Center.

• Bee research on how to control deadly mites.

• A feeder that allows the deer population, through eating, to carry an insecticide to help fight lime disease.

• Work on a male-female semen separator in swine.

• Development of an explosive device to tenderize meat.

• Work in the horticultural areas to examine potato pathogens. DNA isolation techniques were under examination the day of the tour.

• Research into new turf grasses and soybean and alfalfa varieties.

• A great deal of virus and fungus effects — transgenic studies — on plant material, including sugar cane, potatoes, home and garden plants, etc.

• Parasitology (the behavior of animal parasites) research.

According to tour guide John Kucharski, head of the ARS National Visitor Center at the historic Log Lodge, a focus of the ARS is on development new computer systems and constructing new animal and horticultural facilities on site. New facilities in horticulture will look into plant disease pathogens.

Beltsville ARS is one of 103 USDA research sites in the nation, according to Kucharski. Altogether, there are 502 research scientists at the site.

"If it doesn't grow here, we don't work on it," noted Kucharski.

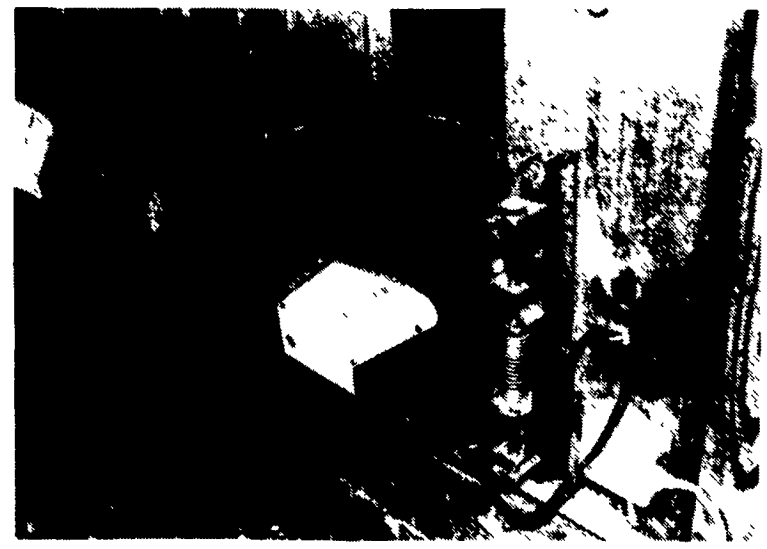
A major new thrust for research is coming up with alternate products made from plant material, primarily corn, soybeans, and wheat. Kucharski presented the tour group with products made from corn, including a tractor oil filter, a high-absorbency powder, and cornstarch-based packing material. He also showed the tour group a red pigment made for use on plastic mulch for vegetable crops that controls soil nematodes. Also, Kucharski showed the group an alternative wood product that can be used for papermaking, grown in Africa; pea material used to retain fat in hamburgers as part of military rations; the development of pharmaceuticals from sheep urine and potential applications of animals to the production of human pharmaceuticals; phytonutrient studies in vegetables; potatoes resistant to late blight; the use of hairy vetch as a living mulch to retain water and nutrients for vegetable crops; and other items.

An interesting development is the invention of a foam-based fast-food storage product that can readily withstand heat, soon to be released in the marketplace, developed at another ARS site in the Midwest, according to Kucharski. The tour guide noted that for every $1 spent on ag research, the return is $1.50 to consumers.

Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (or BARC) is also the home of the National Agricultural Library, housed in a 15-story building. The library contains a 2-million-volume collection of printed materials on agriculture and related sciences. Kucharski noted that anybody with access to the Internet can make a request for information to the library about any agricultural subject and receive a response via email.

Visitors who want to schedule a tour of the Beltsville ARS can contact Kucharski at BARC-East, 10300 Baltimore Avenue, Beltsville, MD 20705-2350, or call (301) 504-9403. To find the latest information on research at Beltsville or any of the ARS locations or for USDA information, contact the ARS on the Internet at http://www.ars.usda.gov/is/

Duane Taylor, herdsman/supervisor for the USDA Agriculture Research Service Dairy Research Facility, examines the array of electronic feed allocation tubs in the dairy barn.



The radio "egg" opens these headgates at the Beltsville site.

Produce Auction Season To Open

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Recently, several auctions announced the starting dates and times for sales. Many begin with flowers and bedding plants or special Easter sales. They are:

MANAGEMENT TIPS
By ... Jay Mylin

Milk production per cow continues to run between 4 and 5 pounds more per day This increased production started about a year ago and has continued at the same pace all year Rolling herd averages have climbed over 1,200 pounds in one year. With milk price a little higher, income over feed cost is $ 56 per day higher even though feed price is $ 12 higher Hay prices are the main cause of higher feed prices this year sheds, and from a few storm events.

A cooperative research project between Penn State and USDA-ARS is looking at how we can identify these critical source areas for phosphorus and work these findings into nutrient management plans.

With this approach, we can recommend best management practices targeted to these areas, rather than applying a broad, zero-tolerance phosphorus limit to all agricultural land.

We feel that such an approach will maximize the benefits from agriculture's efforts to control phsophorus and still be practical and economically feasible for farmers.

As noted in the article, other research is ongoing across the country investigating the effects of animal feeding programs on the phosphorus content of manure.

An example of this is the use of phytase in poultry feed to make the animal more efficient in utilizing phosphorus, thus reducing the phosphorus in the manure.

There is also work on manure additives, such as alum, to tie-up the phosphorus in forms that are not bioavailable, thus reducing the potential environmental impact.

Another example is manure separation. When manure solids and liquids are separated, most of the available nitrogen is in the liquid fraction and most of the phosphorus is in the solid fraction.

This provides some flexibility in matching manure nutrients to crop needs by targeting the individual nutrient applications to fields where they will be most beneficial and/or have the least potential for environmental impact.

It is unlikely that any of these approaches, or others that may come out of this active research, will individually solve the problem. However, this research is providing a set of tools that can be integrated into a management program, based on the site-specific situation, to practically and effectively address the concerns that have been expressed about agricultural phosphorus without taking the extreme approach of a strict limit on phosphorus applications.

Dairymen Urged To Attend Northeast Dairy Compact Hearing

CAMP HILL (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is calling for a strong show of support from dairy farmers for legislation to enable Pennsylvania to join the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact. PFB is urging dairymen to attend a hearing taking place in Williamsport on Friday, April 3 on S.B. 170. The state Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee will conduct the hearing from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Penn College of Technology.

"Farm Bureau strongly supports the Northeast Compact legislation and will testify on its behalf," said PFB president Guy Donaldson. "Other organizations will also be weighing in on the issue. But legislators need to see how important the Compact is by having dairy farmers from every corner of the state in attendance at the hearing. A big show of support from dairymen can back up our words to the committee."

The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact has been in operation in six New England states — Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont — since last July. A 26-member Northeast Dairy Compact Commission, which includes producers, consumers, processors, supermarket representatives and government officials, sets a price for Class I milk produced and sold in the Compact states.

The price, which stays in effect for six months, was set at $16.94 per cwt. "Not only does the Northeast Compact guarantee price stability to producers," said Donaldson, "But at its current level, the average Pennsylvania dairyman would be receiving an additional 70 cents to 80 cents per hundredweight on milk sold for drinking. And, in today's marketing conditions, the Compact would not result in higher milk prices for consumers." In addition to a more stable price, the Compact would price all milk sold in the compact region. The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board would still be responsible for enforcing minimum wholesale, retail and farm milk prices.

The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact can be expanded to cover contiguous states. That means, in order for Pennsylvania to be able to join, New York must first become part of the Compact. "Legislation has already passed that state's Senate and is supported by the governor," Donaldson said.

Upon passage of S.B. 170 in Pennsylvania, Congress must approve Pennsylvania's inclusion in the Compact. "We've already talked to our congressmen about Pennsylvania joining the Compact during a recent visit to Washington by about 200 of our state farm bureau leaders," said Donaldson. "But our immediate priority is to get a bill passed by the General Assembly.

"We must act quickly and we need farmers to show their support by attending the hearing in Williamsport. If dairymen are serious about wanting the Northeast Dairy Compact, the upcoming Hearing on S.B. 170 in Williamsport is the place to show it."

The hearing will be held at the Professional Development Center of the Pennsylvania College of Technology in Williamsport. Directions to the site are:

From Route 15 — follow to Williamsport and take the Maynard Street exit.

From Interstate 80 East — exit on Interstate 180/Rt. 220 at Exit 31B, or take Exit 26 on Rt. 220, if traveling from the west. Follow to Williamsport and the Maynard Street exit.

All traffic — from Maynard Street Exit, should travel north on Maynard Street. At the second traffic light, turn left onto West Third Street, and travel almost two blocks, just past Park Street. The campus buildings appear on both sides of West Third Street. The Professional Development Center is located on the left, between Park Street and College Avenue.

Progress In Progressive Dairymen's Co-op

J.W. Welch, president of Progressive Dairymen's Cooperative, enthusiastically reported to the members on the progress of the cooperative. The occasion was the co-op's annual meeting on Saturday, February 21, at the Edgewood Restaurant in Troy. The well attended meeting of the co-op's members and families was upbeat. Welch, in his report to the membership, cited the continual growth in membership, increased milk volume shipped, and increased premium payments.

Welch emphasized that Progressive Dairymen's Co-op is the co-op of family farms. Producer size is secondary to producer quality and all farmers should have the privilege of being dairy farmers without respect to their cow numbers. "We want to serve the family farm," he stated.

Welch's enthusiasm was infectious as he reported to the filled room.

James Patsos, CEO of United Ag Services, was asked to address the members. He started by presenting quality awards to the top quality producers for 1997, commenting on how close the placing was. Each recipient received a certificate and a check. First place went to Paul Allen of Granville Summit, second to John and Bonnie Kendrick, Mainesburg. A four-way tie for third was held by Roger Alexander, Mansfield; Ro-Sa Acres (The Ron David Family), Warren Center; Steven and Theresa Coleman, Towanda; and Fred Toothaker and Carol Myfelt, Ulster.

Patsos, in his discussion, stated that there has not been a time when there was so much excitement or so many challenges in the dairy industry. Co-op mergers, new co-ops being formed to supply niche markets, dairy plants changing hands, federal order reforms, and Class I differentials are just a few of these challenges. He also explained the value of the Northeast Dairy Compact and how important it is for the New York State Legislature to approve joining the Compact. Since Compact legislation requires the states to be contiguous, New York must join before Pennsylvania is able to join.

Patsos then spoke of the value J.W. Welch has been to Progressive and to United Ag Services, serving as their president also. His knowledge, concern for his fellow dairy farmers, and leadership qualities have been invaluable.

Patsos also commented on Progressive's growth this year and suggested that the members discuss with their neighbors the advantages of belonging to their co-op. Members can receive an incentive bonus for signing up new members or making referrals that result in new members.

Bonnie Keil, Commercial Loan Officer of Northeastern Farm Credit was the guest speaker. She spoke about the growth in various segments of the dairy industry. She feels confident that conditions are improving and that there is a good future in dairy farming.

Jeffrey Ammerman of Athens was elected to the Board of Directors. Don Hamilton of Millerton, Doug Stewart from Rome, Steve Coleman of Towanda, and Bruce Berguson from Mansfield, were re-elected directors.

In closing, J.W. Welch thanked the members and the Board of Directors for their support the past three years. He has enjoyed his work with his fellow dairy farmers and hopes to be able to continue to work on their behalf. Welch is unable to continue as president of Progressive Dairymen's Cooperative since he recently sold his dairy.

At the Board of Directors meeting immediately following the annual meeting Douglas Stewart was elected president, Don Hamilton, vice president, and J.W. Welch, secretary/treasurer.

John Alwine Honored For 54 Years

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — When Three-Mile-Island was still a farm instead of a nuclear electricity plant, John Alwine began to sell seed corn for DeKalb. In fact, after this 86 year-old farmer visited the 1954 Pennsylvania Farm Show and bought seed corn for himself, he was asked by DeKalb to start to sell seed to his neighbors, which he did.

Along with farming his own 143 acre farm, Alwine drove a '39 Ford around the Middletown/ Harrisburg area selling seed corn. At the time, even the parking lot at the Harrisburg Airport was a farm.

At one time, shortly after he started selling for DeKalb, Alwine lost interest and was going to quit. But officials persuaded him to keep going. And after selling 1200 bags one year, he received a trip to Mexico as a sales production bonus.

In the early days, corn was sold by the peck, not by the kernel. And farms were much smaller. And while the new technology that produced genetically engineered corn was not known, even then the company had a good number of varieties.

Alwine was honored last week for his hard work, leadership, and drive for perfection at a dealers' meeting at the Bird-in-Hand Restaurant. Both a plaque with a message from the company president and vice president, and an enlargement of an early advertisement were presented as a retirement gift.

"You may never know the influence you have had on improving crop yields, increasing the economy of the area and helping to provide food for consumers around the world," the message on the plaque said. "It's individuals like you who make others proud to be associated with DeKalb. We salute your success--." Signed: Richard O. Ryan, president, and Dinnis R. Schlott, vice president, sales.

"You get to a certain point where you keep on going," Alwine said. "Sure I would do it again if I had it to do over. But now it is time to let the younger generation take over.

John Alwine (right), was honored at a dealers' meeting last week for 54 years of service. Making the presentation is John Wysolmerski, district sales manager, (center) and Dale Brandt, Alwine's grandson-in-law.

And that is what is happening. Dale Brandt, Alwine's grand son-in-law, has taken up the work as the elder salesman has begun to retire.

ONE DOLLAR

Maryland Hall Of Fame Award Is Great Honor

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

RINGGOLD, Md. — A tributary to Antietam Creek courses through Misty Meadow Farm in Maryland's northern region of Washington County.

In the mornings, especially in spring and fall, the moisture in the air above the fenced stream in the 24-acre pasture condenses into a "steam," creating an eerily romantic softness of mist and mystery.

Hence the name of the 440-acre family dairy farm owned and operated by John and Betty Herbst and son David and his family.

In February the Herbst family were inducted into the Maryland Agricultural Hall of Fame.

They received the honor from Maryland Gov. Paris Glendening during the state's annual Agriculture Dinner in Annapolis, the state capital.

While Gov. Glendening took the opportunity to talk about controlling nutrient runoff from agricultural land, John Herbst said later the honor was very well received by his family.

"When your peers tell you, 'You did a good job,' I feel it's just a great honor," John said. "It's about as great an honor as you can get from being a farmer. It tells you that you must have done something right along the way."

The Maryland Hall of Fame is housed in the state's Department of Agriculture Building in Annapolis, where plaques and photographs of the winners, including the 14 previous inductees, are to be permanently showcased.

In a news release about the award presentation from Gov. Glendening's office, the governor stated, "The family we inducted into the Maryland Agricultural Hall of Fame really represents what Maryland is all about. My goal as Maryland's governor is to make Maryland a place where families like the Herbsts have room to thrive and prosper. I want to ensure a bright future for them and their children.

"That is why we are working with farmers, watermen, representatives of the seafood and poultry industries, environmentalists and concerned citizens throughout Maryland to reduce the flow of nutrients into Maryland's streams, rivers and the Chesapeake Bay, while at the same time expanding economic opportunities for all sectors of our state's agricultural industry," he said.

Lewis Riley, former state agriculture secretary, participated in the ceremonies.

To John Herbst's understanding, the award is presented based on soil and water conservation, environmentally sound farming practices, and community service.

After running down the line with the ration mixer wagon and allowing for the inevitable spreading out of food, David Herbst pushes the milking herd's TMR back closer to the cows. David handles the milking herd, while father John takes care of field work, though efforts are shared when necessary. The herd averages about 21,000 pounds of milk on a hybrid milking schedule, closer to 3 times per day.

Misty Meadow Farm has implemented many conservation practices, especially on some of the land that was added to the farm after purchasing an abused, deeply gullied and eroded tentant farm.

John said some of the eroded cuts into a sidehill field were too deep to attempt a crossing with a tractor.

Also, John has served on committees and as vice president of the Maryland Farm Bureau to help improve planning and procedure. His volunteer leadership on various boards and committees was also considered.

In the news release, it states the Hall of Fame was started in 1991 to honor "... farm families in the agricultural industry who exemplify high standards of achievement and commitment to the community."

Eastern Llama And Alpaca Festival Set

READING (Berks Co.) — Many unusual and enjoyable experiences await visitors at the 3rd Eastern Llama and Alpaca Festival on May 2 and 3. The fun will take place at Charming Forge Farm, near Reading, Pennsylvania. Over 40 owners of llamas and alpacas from eight eastern states will be on hand to demonstrate all the enjoyable and useful aspects of living with these wonderful animals.

Admission to the two-day event is free and will focus on education and fun for people of all ages. The public is invited to gain hands-on experience with these lovable creatures, as breeders lead demonstrations on how to handle, lead, groom, and care for the animals. There will be "lead a llama" for the children, as well as an obstacle course. Spinners and weavers can learn about llama and alpaca fiber from leading experts who will be speaking and demonstrating each day.

Saturday, May 2 will be ANIMAL AWARENESS DAY. This day will be focused on those animals, big or small, who are less fortunate than others. Donations will be accepted all day long, ending with a special performance from WIOV - Country 105. DJs will be participating in obstacle course races, relay races, egg and spoon, and much, much more! It will be an event not to miss! All proceeds will go to local animal shelters. If your company is interested in helping to raise money for the animals, please contact us. Any and all participation is welcome.

For shoppers, llama-related souvenirs, wool, jewelry, handcrafted garments, and even some llamas and alpacas will be for sale. Delicious refreshments will be available at reasonable prices.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday. Parking and admission are free.

Directions: follow llama signs from: Route 78 — Exit 6 Rehrersburg — Route 419 South; Route 422 in Womelsdorf to Route 419 North; Route 183 in Bernville at "Blue Marsh Ski Area."

Pa. State Grange Members Meet Federal Legislators

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Nearly 100 Pennsylvania State Grangers visited with their federal legislators during the annual Washington Legislative Tour to discuss issues concerning agriculture and rural affairs.

Among the issues discussed during the March 18-19 visit with U.S. Congressmen and Senators were dairy compacts, reforming the federal tax system, revitalization of rural schools and improving the rural health care system, among others.

The Pennsylvania State Grange, with over 30,000 members in 450 Grange chapters across the commonwealth, is dedicated to improving the lives of rural Pennsylvanians through legislative action, grass-roots initiatives, community service and offering member services like financial planning, a credit union and insurance programs.

Brenda Shambaugh, PA State Grange legislative director, said the Washington tour presents an opportunity for individual Grange members to voice their position on issues that have been developed through the Grange's grass-root efforts.

"The visit to Washington was to speak out on behalf of the National Grange's Blueprint for Rural America," Shambaugh said. "The 10-point plan is designed to revitalize and enhance rural America in preparation for the new millennium. The blueprint is part of the National Grange's program called, 'A New Century, A New Grange'."

The Grange believes Congress should authorize the formation of regional dairy compacts to provide a more stable pricing structure for producers and consumers. Reducing the number of milk marketing orders will lead to a more streamlined system of pricing, marketing and distribution of dairy products, as well as better regional accountability.

"Like New England's successful Northeast Dairy Compact, other dairy-producing regions can benefit from the establishment of similar compacts to promote cooperative pricing and marketing systems," Shambaugh said. "The Northeast Dairy Compact, which the Pennsylvania State Grange diligently work to get created, is a proven success for our neighbors to the north, and we seek the same for Pennsylvania producers."

Shambaugh said the National Grange feels Congress should reform the federal tax system to assure preservation of family farms and businesses through the elimination of estate and capital gains taxes, and institute user taxes to offset costs of federal programs. Moreover, Congress must also reverse the Internal Revenue Service's 1996 disqualification of farmers from receiving tax credits on sale of culled cattle.

"A new system is needed to assure that all wealth bears its just and equal payment to the government," Shambaugh said. "A family farm is a family business and plays a key role in the economic well-being of rural areas across America."

Another blueprint issue of the National Grange concerns the revitalization of rural schools through federal partnerships.

The National Grange supports using federal resources to revitalize rural schools by forming federal/state partnerships to renovate them. The revitalization project should include the provision of federal funds for rural school districts seeking assistance, and could include buying down interest rates on local bonds to finance school construction projects.

"Such partnerships should protect and retain local control, since traditionally, school construction and renovations have been the sole province of state and local governments," Shambaugh said. "Federal partnerships will help improve the health of rural economies, which are often dependent upon a quality learning environment."

Other key issues discussed in Washington include:

Rural Health Care — The Grange looks to ensure a quality health system through equal support by protecting rural residents' health care through assured equality of rates and services with urban areas, according to Shambaugh.

"Medicare recipients, hospitals and doctors should receive equal consideration, costs and services with other regions of the United States," Shambaugh said. "This should include rural-specific reimbursement rates to managed care organizations and designation of 'limited service hospitals' in rural communities."

Highway Trust Fund — The Grange urges Congress to earmark highway users' taxes and other related funds for rural road, highway and bridge improvements.

"Enhanced transportation networks that link rural communities to urban centers are critically important," Shambaugh said. "Congress must assure that trust funds within the Intermodal Surface Transportation and Efficiency Act are not diverted to non-highway use, and should extend the current High Trust Fund until the year 2000."

Private Property Rights — The Grange is asking legislators to support the preservation of America's farmland for the survival of the family farm, Shambaugh said, through responsible environmental protection and protection of farmers' property rights. Congress should develop the framework for local community action in farmland preservation and should be re-authorize the Endangered Species Act to preserve the important ecological balance. Both initiatives should afford rural land owners "safe harbor" protection from undue regulatory regulations.

Global Climate Treaty — The National Grange is calling for the revision of the Global Climate Treaty to include all 160 nations to make it fair and equitable.

"The Clinton Administration's current plan to include only the United States and 30 other developing nations — and to exclude the other 130 'developing' nations — will handicap U.S. producers in competing for important international markets," Shambaugh said. "The resulting economic impact on rural communities will be significant. The Grange is working to keep this situation from having a devastating effect on the economy of this country."

Included in the trek to the nation's capital were a congressional luncheon with legislators, a meeting with Pennsylvania's senators, House and Senate agriculture committee staff members and United States Department of Agriculture officials and tours of the White House, the Federal Bureau of Investigation building and other local points of interest.

Vegetable Growers To Vote

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced this week that a referendum on the continuation of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program began yesterday, March 20.

"Gov. Tom Ridge and I encourage all growers, who are elilgible, to vote in this important referendum," Hayes said. "This is an opportunity for growers to express their thoughts on the future of this important marketing program."

Established in 1989, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program conducts promotional activities at farm markets and retail stores, and funds research projects on vegetable production practices.

All vegetable producers who grow one or more acres of vegetables are eligible to vote, as are all producers who grow vegetables for sale in 1,000 square feet or more of greenhouse area. All criteria must have been met by Oct. 31, 1997.

The referendum will be held from March 20 to April 3. Completed ballots should be mailed or hand delivered to: Office of the Secretary of Agriculture, Room 211, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408.

Hand-delivered ballots must be received by 4 p.m. on April 3.

Ballots mailed must be postmarked no later than April 3 and received no later than April 8.

For more information, or for a ballot, contact Mike Varner at (717) 787-6901.

standing or a change in position on this issue, but rather the intense public and political attention that has been focused on it by the problems with Pfiesteria in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

This attention has made phosphorus a front-page story in a very short period of time, whether we like it or not.

The purpose of my presentation to the Nutrient Management Advisory Board was not to present a "complete turnaround on what has been considered scientific fact" and suggest a radical change in our position on phosphorus versus nitrogen, but rather to help people understand this emerging issue so that we can make sound, science-based policy decisions.

While some may be uncomfortable with raising the issue, the issue has already been raised, and if we choose to ignore the problem we will not have the opportunity to participate in developing reasonable and practical solutions to the problem before we are forced to deal reactively to outside mandates.

All we have to do is look at what his happening in Maryland and in the federal government as covered in this article to see that there are people ready to impose solutions on agriculture.

Writer's note:

Lancaster Farming apologizes for any perceived misrepresentation conveyed in the March 14 article as to the presentation of Dr. Douglas Beegle to the SCS Nutrient Management Advisory Board.

Dr. Beegle has been, and continues to be, a very respected agronomist and researcher. He was integral in the development of regulations implementing Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act, serving as a consultant.

He also headed up, and oversaw the Penn State role in educating the public about nutrient management. He continues to serve the Board in an essential advisory role.

We believe the perceived misrepresentation came from the mixing of contexts and the emotional reaction to the subjet matter.

The article on the meeting contained information from two different reports, both concerning phosphorus.

While Beegle's report was to update the NMAB on developments in research on the activity of nutrients in soils, the other report was to make the board aware of Maryland's proposed change in nutrient management laws, specifically to make phosphorus the nutrient of most concern.

Beegle in no way suggested that Pennsylvania follow Maryland's lead, nor acquiesce to the knee-jerk reactions connecting phosphorus with toxicity of Pfiesteria that are coming from Maryland and the Clinton Administration's Environmental Protection Agency.

Information on both reports to the board were included in the article because they were made the same day to the same board, and because they were both about phosphorus.

In explaining before-and-after illustrations of the land being studied, Beegle said the researchers were "surprised" that the flow of phosphorus from the research plot did not subside not as much as expected after erosion and sedimentation controls were applied.

It is very clear that there is a distinction between scientific "fact" and scientific "assumption." Assumptions are made before an experiment. Facts are discovered after repeated experiments demonstrably result in repeated outcomes.

In his presentation, Beegle said, "We always assumed phosphorus can be controlled ... however, in soils with high phosphorus levels ... some of our nice assumptions from the past are falling apart."

We apologize for the use of scientific "fact" when scientific "assumption" should have been used.

As Beegle noted during his presentation, the main concern with phosphorus has been that too much can lead to eutrophication of water bodies, which is essentially an over-abundance of nutrients.

To knowledge, in and of itself, phosphorus is not considered an element dangerous to human health.

We regret if the report in any way suggested that Beegle's report indicated that phosphorus-emphasized nutrient managment was imminent for Pennsylvania. His report did not, and he did not.

On the other hand, from our perspective, what is happening nationally and in Maryland strongly suggest that a band wagon has arrived and we are certain that anything that can be used against agriculture will be.

With Gov. Glendening supporting legislation that would create statewide, mandatory, phosphorus-emphasized nutrient management planning that many conjecture would place most of the state's farms into further economic turmoil, it would seem that Herbst could be cynical about the award.

In fact, John Herbst is against the proposals in the Maryland Legislature that would undo their statewide voluntary nutrient management program.

Many have concluded that what is proposed is nothing more than a political knee-jerk reaction to place blame for a Pfiesteria problem in the Chesapeake Bay that, according to recent reports, caused about $40 million in lost seafood sales just during the last quarter of 1997.

"They're jumping the gun as far as regulations," Herbst said. "There's no scienfitic proof, as of yet, that it was caused by phosphorus.

"We're working to get rural legislators to submit our own legislation to keep voluntary (planning) until there're proof."

John said he is willing to make nutrient management plans based on nitrogen or phosphorus, though the penalties and fines and teams of inspectors that would come through the farm every three years to check on compliance is excessive.

So, he suspects, would be the associated costs.

Maryland agriculture has been pressured from urban sprawl development pressures, high costs of living, and, for the Herbst family and other dairy farmers, low dairy prices.

Of course, most dairy farmers across the United States have had to deal with low returns on investment, but the Maryland dairy farming community seems to have been subjected to multiple negative influences.

While the rest of the nation's dairy farmers may well have unique situations on their own farms and in their own states that sets them at some disadvantage, Maryland's dairy farmers have had disadvantages in almost every aspect except, perhaps, access to market place.

The state has had a governor-appointed official agricultural advisory committee make recommendations to help protect its farming enterprises and support services, and preserve open spaces for all the residents, especially the new occupants of urban sprawl.

The recommendations of the committee have largely been ignored by the state's political leaders.

One of the ignored recommendations was to provide the state agriculture secretary with the authority to set minimum prices and over-order premiums for milk, similar to authorities and programs in surrounding states.

Testimony at public hearings were fairly consistent that Maryland was losing its dairy farms and processors because of predatory pricing due to beneficial margins allowed by neighboring states.

One recommendation saw realization — the formation of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association two years ago. For the first time, Maryland established an organization representing dairy farmers.

Previously, dairy farmers were lumped in with agriculture as a whole and were more or less represented by the Maryland Farm Bureau, dairy processors and cooperatives.

But Herbst isn't cynical about the Hall of Fame award.

It really means something.

And he isn't cynical about the intent of most of the people involved with committees working to provide meaningful recommendations to improve the working and social climate.

To his mind, the only way to change something for the better is to become involved, and the loss of farmers sitting on committees and filling municipal posts is more a sad commentary on the lack of farmers and the lack of time fror community service.

Tilt waterers, matresses and slotted flooring are part of the details in this recently built post-and-beam, 132-freestall barn with side vents and capacity for tunneling air.

Herbst said that one year he attended more than 90 meetings to help develop the first comprehensive plan for his county.

"It takes a lot of cooperation from those at home," he said. "A lot of times I felt I would have been better off financially if I would have stayed at home."

But in the end, he said that's not what he was brought up to believe, and experience hasn't change that.

"I always thought, if you live in a community it's important to be involved."

He said one of the greatest tributes paid to him was when some citizens were being troubled with zoning, a state senator referred the citizens to John, because he was recognized as being knowledgable.

Also, John said he truly believes that his vote counts.

Currently he is a member of his Dairy Herd Improvement Association board of directors, and he serves on the country fair board. Both involvements began with children's activities and 4-H. They went on test when they has a registerd 4-H animal that calved and needed records. He got on the 4-H board through his children showing 4-H project animals.

Herbst has something else in his experience that provides him with more calmness about the issues — several times during his lifetime he has witnessed events that could have forced his family, and perhaps did force others, out of farming.

In 1950, he originally started farming on his father Raymond's 50-acre farm, about six miles away. Raymond had purchased that farm in 1919.

Then in 1957 a road came through the farm, splitting the intersecting at the middle of the farm, creating a X-crossroads with fields on all four corners.

"I was about to give up when we purchased this farm from Cirus Newcomber," he said. It was 87 acres and started with eight cows, two horses, a 20-horse power tractor "... and a lot of used stuff," he said.

He had sold milk to Supple E, headquartered in Philadelphia with an outlet in Hagerstown.

When he moved to the new farm he joined what is now the Maryland/Virginia Dairy Cooperative. He's been with them for 40 years.

After milking by hand for awhile, he purchased his parents milkers. When they retired he bought the farm.

He had about 25 cows by then.

Over the years John said it worked out well that when he and Betty became debt free some adjacent farmland would come up for sale. They were able to add it to their total operation and then work to pay that off.

Now in a partnership with son David and his wife Betsy, who together have four children (Andrew, Jenny, Katie, and Kimberly), the farm has grown to 370 acres owned and 70 acres rented.

A 132-tie stall barn, built post-and-beam style was recently constructed away from the old barn, sited so that, just in case they want to expand the operation in later years, it can be done fairly easily.

The manure storage is beneath the barn, which is outfitted with slotted floors. Sidewall curtains and end walls outfitted with large, closeable openings provide plenty of air flow for the herd.

John said he is proud of his son, and David said his father has taught all of his sons well, lessons passed on from Raymond.

John has two other sons; the oldest is a minister in Cumberland, Maryland, the other an accountant in Texas.

David said he never wanted to do anything else but farm, and he said he learned to work and the value of self dependence from his father.

John said, "I grew up with lean years," explaining that he worked on six farms growing up to earn money, and he also worked a thrasher for his grandfather. He said that when he told his grandfather that he was getting tired, his grandfather would say, "Come on boy, you're not tired, you're lazy."

He said his grandfather had an old mule, "Kit," that would bring him home from the fields at night while his grandfather slept.

"I've tried to impress that on our sons and grandsons," John said. David laughed and said he did learn the lesson, which essentially is, don't give up easily, and don't give up before you've given it your absolutely best effort.

John said that people growing up today don't seem to have been taught how to work. He's not alone in that assessment. Earlier this year the same sentiment was the main thrust of a broadcast feature on National Public Radio.

John attended the one-room schoolhouse that sits adjacent to and overlooks his farm. He loved playing softball and that's how he met his wife Betty. During a softball competition in high school, Betty played second base for the other team.

He said he was taken by her, and finally got up the nerve to ask her to the prom.

Betty went on to college and became a nurse. She retired 12 years ago, but has continued working part time as a supervisor at Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown.

John said he has been lucky in life, because by staying involved he's been able to keep up with new things coming along (he was one of the first to raise soybeans and no-till corn), and by maintaining a steady work ethic and focusing on becoming debt free, they've been able to take advantage of opportunities that have allowed them to continue farming.

That's the way he and David said they intend to continue, farming day by day, and with an eye and ear to the future.

PDPP Board Elects 1998 Officers

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) board elected 1998-99 officers at its Feb. 23 meeting in Harrisburg.

Richard C. Waybright, Gettysburg, was re-elected to serve a second one-year term as chairman of the board. Waybright is the owner of Mason Dixon Farm.

Also re-elected as officers are John Ligo, Grove City, secretary; and Raymond Diebold, Altoona, treasurer. Newly elected was Dick Shellenberger, Manheim, to serve as vice chairman of PDPP.

Randall Meabon, Wattsburg, Tom Croner, Berlin, Karl Kroeck, Knoxville, and Rita Kennedy, Butler, also were elected to the executive committee.

In addition to the elections, the board approved its 1998 sponsorships. For the third consecutive year the PDPP will sponsor events with the Erie Seawolves and Williamsport Cubs minor league baseball teams.

"We've selected sponsorships and activities that allow us to reach children 6-11 years old," says Cindy Weimer, spokesperson for PDPP. "We wanted local opportunities to show kids that milk is where they're at — the fun places like minor league baseball. Building on the 'got milk?' advertising campaign, we'll integrate the message into all of the events and promotions we conduct with the teams."

More than 300,000 baseball fans attend games in Erie and Williamsport throughout the baseball season. PDPP plans to give out more than 8,000 promotional items to kids at games and special events hosted by the two teams.

Other sponsorships include a third year as supporters of Tour de 'Toona bicycle race. The race takes place in July and travels through Altoona and State College.

PDPP contracts with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East to implement advertising, marketing, promotion and nutrition education on behalf of dairy farmers in 33 counties in western and north-central Pennsylvania.

Heather's Comedy Promotes Dairy Products

Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Heather Riley signed autographs for her many admirers at Munoz-Marin Elementary School.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

VENANGO (Crawford Co.) — Heather Riley has endeared herself to hundreds in the role as a gum-snapping, overbearing waitress.

Not exactly the pristine image a dairy princess usually portrays as a spokesperson for the dairy industry.

But, Heather's spoof as a waitress impacts the audience in a way most skits promoting the dairy industry fail.

Audiences erupt with hysterical laughter as Heather finds fault with an imaginary customer's order with such remarks as "Not French fries—it's bad for the gall bladder. . . ." She entices the customer to change his order from a burger to a cheeseburger because "a burger without cheese is a like a kiss without the squeeze."

Heather said, "I like to act and be creative and silly rather than serious."

Despite Heather's ability to seemingly inject humor into any situation, she is no stranger to seriousness. Her bubbly, outgoing personality has burst forth through a lot of pain.

The 17-year-old who seems wise beyond her years frankly talks about "the most devastating event of my life that forced me to become a better person."

Heather was only in fourth grade when her dad left the family. Heather was heartbroken. "I remember crying often and my mom promising me with tears in her eyes that things will get better."

To a little girl, Heather didn't believe things could ever get better without a dad. To make matters worse, her great-grandmother with whom she was close to died.

"I needed to grow up fast. My mother needed to get a job. I learned to cook and do things around the house," Heather said.

Her mother's nursing home job kept her away during evening hours, and it was really tough adjusting Heather said.

Grandparents often assisted in caring for Heather, and her brother Ron a year older than she, and a younger sister Stephanie.

"My number one problem was missing the love of my dad. I don't get to see him even now—it's his choice—not mine. That was really tough to accept, but now things are 100 percent better—not perfect—but much better," Heather said.

Heather said that before her dad left she was quiet and prone to sit in a corner and pout when things didn't go her way.

For emotional survival, Heather was forced to verbalize her feelings. Now Heather finds it easy to converse with people everywhere. She learned to stop focusing on missing the love of her dad and concentrate on enjoying the love of grandparents, cousins, and friends.

She refers to her mom as "my strength" and says the tough times really drew her closer to her mom and other family members.

"I do want to give thanks publicly to one person—God. He got me through those tough times. He's given me talent, speaking ability . . . . I'd never be where I am today if it wasn't for him," Heather said.

In addition to improvements in attitude and personality and knowing that life does indeed get better even when you're convinced it can't, Heather sees other positive results from her dad's abandonment. She's confident she'll be a better parent because of her sensitivity to the hurts and needs of children. She also is able to cheer up many of her friends who are now suffering from the results of their parents' divorces.

Although Heather doesn't live on a farm, she has been involved in helping on her grandparents' farm who live minutes away. She started showing Holsteins as soon as she was old enough to join 4-H. She was seven years old when she received her first cow, which has produced a calf every year since then thus multiplying her little herd to eight cows. She keeps them on her grandfather's farm, where they milk 150 Holsteins and raise 70 replacements.

"Showing cows is a big family thing," Heather said. In addition to she and her siblings showing, her

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Maharaja is a Snow Leopard Bengal Cat. He is only seven generations from the jungle and his Asian Leopard Cat heritage. The Bengal breed is a relatively new breed of domestic cats.

Bengal Cats Spell 'Alternative Agriculture' For Canton Couple

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

CANTON (Bradford County) — With a quiet yawn, Maharaja stretches each paw as he contemplates his surroundings. Nearby, Maharani naps peacefully, perhaps dreaming of her ancestral land — the Asian jungle.

No, these are not wild cats confined to a zoo. They are Bengal cats, a relatively new breed of felines descended from an Asian Leopard Cat, which are being raised by Fred and Beth Metcalf as an alternative agriculture enterprise.

Immediately one might question why the need to raise cats as a form of agriculture. But to the Metcalfs, the answer is clear.

"We were looking for something to diversify with," Fred noted. "The cats we're providing are quality cats. We need to realize that these cats fill a gap that ordinary cats can't fill."

Metcalf, who teaches Vocational Agriculture at Athens Area High School, and his wife also raise Arabian horses, but they wanted to do more with animals.

At first they tried to raise Himalayans, but the breed standards seemed contrary to the health of the animal. Beth noted that the ideal look of a Himalayan is to have a very flat, almost indented nose. With that feature comes many respiratory problems.

"Bengals were a welcome alternative," said Metcalf.

"When we first heard of the Bengals, we saw an ad in the Williamsport paper. We fell in love with their personality right away and we saw them two or three times before we bought them," Beth said.

When you think of the wild her-two cousins also show. Among them they sometimes take 25 head to local fairs.

The first year in 4-H competition, Heather won master showman and fitter. Since then she's ad up and down years. "I've made it to state competition a few times," she said.

Heather is president of the local 4-H dairy club.

Heather said that her great grandparents Theodore and Anna Closky purchased the farm in 1947. They started off with one cow, two horses, and 89 acres. By 1952, the herd had increased to 17 cows, and the barn floor was cemented. The cow herd increased to 50 head by 1958. In 1960, Heather's grandfather Donald Closky purchased the farm from his dad and added a heifer barn. In 1969, he had increased the milking cows to 70 head, but still used bucket milkers. In 1975, her grandfather installed pipeline milking facilities.

In addition to milking 150 Holsteins today, the acreage has also increased. They farm 250 acres of corn and 150 acres of alfalfa. The herd average is 17,900 pounds milk, 4 percent fat, and 3.4 percent protein.

Heather seldom milks on the farm, but she does feed the calves. "My absolute favorite thing is to bottle feed the calves."

Because Heather so often accompanied her grandfather on the tractor, he lovingly refers to her as "My Fender Bender." Putting hay away is another big family event in which aunts, uncles, and cousins work together.

Heather's grandfather has just had knee surgery, so the family is doing his chores while he recuperates.

Heather is a junior at Cambridge Springs High School. Teachers and classmates have been supportive of her reign as dairy princess. She misses a lot of school to fulfil appearances across the state.

"I didn't expect non-farming classmates to know or care," Heather said of being selected from 29 contestants to become the first alternate Pennsylvania dairy princess. But on her first day back to school after the pageant held in Harrisburg, emblazoned on the school's marquee for all to see was the message: Congratulations to Heather Riley—Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess Alternate.

"My teachers and classmates have been really terrific in supporting me," Heather said. They also found great delight in Heather's skit as a gum-chewing waitress. She's been asked to repeat it again and again.

Before becoming dairy princess, Heather had participated in church plays, theater at school, and chorus. Originally she became a bit nervous before presentations. The nervousness calmed down to more of an emotion of excitement, and now with numerous public appearances behind her, Heather said she feels quite calm whenever she speaks before an audience.

"Having them laugh really makes it easier for me," she said of the advantage of being able to inject humor into the subject.

At school, Heather participates in Spanish Club, Student Senate, chorus, show choir, Cambridge Singers, and wrestling cheerleading. She enjoys horseback riding, walking, swimming, biking, softball, and most of all being with friends and family.

Unlike many dairy princesses, Heather didn't grow up intending to become one. Although she often admired the reigning county dairy princesses whenever she saw them, she didn't realize the opportunity would be there for her.

She helped with dairy promotion by serving as a dairy maid. That experience showed her that she really enjoyed working with the public. When she received a letter encouraging her to run as county dairy princess, Heather decided to give it a try. After receiving the Crawford County crown, Heather was eligible to compete for the state crown.

"Becoming a dairy princess is everything I expected and so much more," Heather said.

"I feel like I'm actually learning more from being a dairy princess than I do in school," Heather said. For the first time in her life, she's traveled to Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Although she has pondered long about future plans, Heather has not made a definite decision. "My ultimate goal is to be a veterinarian, and I'd like to participate in the ag program at Penn State, but I also love working with children and the medical field, and I think of possibly becoming a pediatric nurse," she said.

Since her reign, one thing Heather has become more adament about is having her own farm someday. "Even if I marry a city boy—I'm going to get a farm," she promises.

"My grandpa is one of those farmers who never takes off," Heather Riley said. She is thrilled that her grandparents, Donald and Esther Closky, are at the state pageant to see her crowned Pennsylvania First Alternate Dairy Princess.

Heather in her role as a waitress.

"I had to beg Grandpa to let me add a few Jersey and Aryshires to his Holstein herd, but now he's taken a liking to them too," Heather said.

Flexibility is the key to staying productive. And that's exactly what you'll get with the AGCO® Allis 5650 utility tractor.

The Key To Effective Middle Management.

In fact, this mid-range tractor has a 45 PTO hp engine that offers you the ultimate in maneuverability. Its low height and low center of gravity make this the ideal tractor for working inside buildings and other confined work areas. And because the platform is low to the ground, it's easy to get on and off the tractor.

- The synchromesh transmission has 12 forward and 12 reverse speed choices, with synchronized shifting in four gears and a synchronized forward/reverse shuttle.
- These directional changes help to reduce loader and rear blade cycle times.
- The AWD models feature a true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- As always, behind every AGCO Allis tractor lies a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer.

itage, images of wildcats prowling through your living room might scare you away. But in fact the Bengal breed is very widely known for its mild temperament.

Breeders agree that well bred Bengals are quick, curious and sometimes mischievous, but they are also loving, trusting, and enjoy human attention. These characteristics have been selected for genetically as much as the unique spotted pattern.

Still, there is the allure of the jungle to the Metcalfs.

"Fred has always liked wildlife and tigers. He said these are a touch of wildlife in the home," said Beth.

"But they're very much a domestic cat," noted Fred.

The Bengal breed was started only about 20 years ago when researchers in Beltsville, Md. discovered that Asian Leopard Cats were at least partially immune to the feline leukemia virus. Other research projects have grown from this initial study such as if temperament is inherited, or more dependent on environment and to study the genetic components of coat color, pattern and texture, especially the rosetted pattern that appears only in wild species, according to a Jean Mills book, "Breeding Better Bengals."

Another reason for the development is, according to Mills, to "develop a substitute pet for cat lovers everywhere who long to adopt a wild feline."

While the cross of an Asian Leopard cat and a domestic Brown Tabby was the initial mating, subsequent matings were done between the first generation offspring and the Egyptian Mau and the Ocicat. Oddly enough, the first generation males were sterile, but the first generation females were breeders.

For generations following, careful matings were made to screen out the unfavorable characteristics and most reputable breeders will follow the bloodlines closely in both directions, keeping track of the genetics of the parents, but also recording the characteristics of the offspring.

The Metcalfs have two breeding females, one breeding male, five kittens of various ages, and one pet quality cat.

Maharaja was the first male breeding cat they purchased. He is what breeders call a Snow Leopard Bengal because his coat is more of a grey white with the characteristic black spots.

Maharani, their first breeding female, is a brown spotted leopard. She also has the characteristic brown spots, but has the dominant brown coat color.

There is also a marbled coat pattern, but the Metcalfs prefer the spotted pattern.

The cats and their offspring have competed in various shows in the Northeast and been honored with numerous awards. They have exhibited the best Bengal kitten a couple of times and Maharaja holds the title of Best Seal Point Lynx Bengal Cat of the Year in 1995.

"It's easier than showing horses," said Metcalf. "When the show is over at night, you take the cats right up to your hotel room."

A show quality cat is one with exceptional color and spotting, ideally with rosetted spots or gradual layers of color in the spots. It also has an exceptionally soft pelt and small ears. Temperament is also very important for all Bengals, not just the show quality cats.

Because the breed is relatively new, the show ring standards are not yet set in stone.

What distinguishes a pet quality cat from a show quality cat are the formerly listed characteristics as well as price.

A show quality cat commands a price of $1,500, while a pet quality cat sells for a third of that price. It's not all gravy, however, as the Metcalfs point out.

"I probably have at least $100 in each kitten in vet bills and shots before we sell them," said Beth. "I figure if people are going to pay that much money, I want them to have a healthy cat that's been tested and has its shots."

They also have the usual care fees for food and litter and a standard breeding fee can be $1,000.

The cats are also registered with The International Cat Association.

"We don't cut corners," said Metcalf. "When we have to travel by plane we don't ship the cat as freight, we take it as carry-on luggage. We often drive to meet people when they're interested in a sale. Buyers for each cat get a vet folder and a bag of good quality cat food."

Finding homes for the cats has been surprisingly easy for the Metcalfs, but they do make sure that the homes they go to are acceptable.

Once when they were visiting Metcalf's mother, they had some cats with them. His mother had friends over for dinner who wanted to see their cats. so the Metcalfs agreed.

"She wasn't familiar with the breed," said Metcalf. "She held one and was saying that she got rid of all her cats and her stuff and she had no intention of having cats again. When we got home after a three and a half hour drive, my mother had left a message on my machine telling us that this woman wanted the show quality cat."

Metcalf was surprised that she would want the show quality cat because of the price, but his mother assured him that she had told the lady the price of the cat and she still wanted it.

"She insisted on having that cat," said Metcalf.

Giving up the cats is not always easy, either.

"We had one that was a pet quality that we had spayed. I didn't like her at first," said Beth. "She was always beneath my feet and getting into mischief, but I couldn't get mad at her. Then Fred sold her and I was brokenhearted."

A lady in Williamsport purchased the cat. The lady was very happy with the cat's mischievous personality.

"I like to think we're using our heads. We make certain they're good homes. We're not dumping them," said Metcalf.

Said Beth, "We want people to be Bengal-smart, since this is a new breed."

Quilters' Heritage Celebration April 2-5

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — For the 11th consecutive year, Quilters' Heritage Celebration returns to the Holiday Inn Lancaster Host Resort and Conference Center in Lancaster, from April 2-5. Drawing quilters and quilt enthusiasts from all over the United States and many other countries, the focus is visual . . . quilts, quilts, quilts! More than 400 quilts on exhibit join with over 80 functions, classes, lectures, fashion show and even quilt bingo along with 75-100 merchants to provide four knowledge and fun-filled days at this internationally-renowned event.

Teachers confirmed for the event include Christal Carter, John Flynn, Marianne Fons, Jane Hill, Roberta Horton, Melody Johnson, Nancy Johnson-Srebro, Faye Labanaris, Libby Lehman, Mary Mashuta, Katie Pasquini Masopust, Judith Montano, Liz Porter, Mary Stori and more.

Feedsack Frenzy, the theme exhibit curated by Rita B. Barber will feature quilts and other items to help learn about the presence of the decorative feedsack/textile and its use.

The evergrowing Quilters' Heritage Celebration juried and judged show will award over $12,000 in prize money donated by local and national sponsors including: Itchin' to Stitch (WI), quilt shop/traveling vendor; The Old Country Store (PA), quilt shop; Quilting Today Magazine by Chitra Publishing Inc. (PA); Fairfield Processing Corporation (CT), Fiberfil products for quilters; Benartex Inc. (NY), textiles; Bernina of America, represented locally by Hinkletown Sewing Machine Shop, Ephrata, Mountain Mist (Stearns Technical Textile, OH), patterns and batt products for the quilter; EZ Quilting by Wright's (MA), publishers and producers of notions for quilters; Annapolis Quilt Guild (MD); Cherrywood Fabrics, Inc., producers of hand-dyed fabrics; Flynn Quilt Frame Company (MT), quilt frames/books; The People's Place Quilt Museum (PA).

Some things old and several things new, the third exhibit hall will feature section C of Quilt National '97. Other exhibits will include the 1997/98 Hoffman Challenge; the 1997/98 Pilgrim Roy Challenge featuring fabrics from their line produced by P & B Textiles; the Silver Dollar City Challenge; Miniatures from the Heart, winners of the sixth Miniature Quilt Magazine (from Chitra Publications, Inc.) miniature contest and the Quilting Today Challenge; Five from Maine - The Expression of Five; Frigid Piecing; Collective Fusions; Rock and Roll Icons; Presenter's Showcase, from those teaching at QHC; and Producer's Showcase from many of those involved in the production of QHC.

The Fairfield Processing Corporation's Fashion Show will again be presented at a luncheon.

Show hours: Thursday, 9-5; Friday, 9-7; Saturday, 9-5; Sunday 11-4. For information on classes and other functions, contact: Rita B. Barber, at the Holiday Inn Lancaster Host Resort (717) 299-5500.

The headlines crack me up.

They trumpet that low-fat is healthful, salt-use is one of the seven deadly sins, and fiber is the world's answer to all its problems. I nibble a piece of chocolate and ponder an even more sobering headline: Is chocolate fattening?

You betcha' it is. Doggone it, that's WHY it tastes so good.

March has marked National Nutrition Month, a whole 31 days in which food police can shake their junkfood pointers at us guilty slackers who spend our eating lives in pursuit of good taste. Or what tastes good.

My chocolate fixation is actually my body calling out for some micro-nutrient contained in that tasty stuff, or so says a dietary expert friend of a friend of a friend. Sounds good to me. Keep calling for the stuff, body.

Actually, we do take seriously what we consume (which is sometimes more than we need) and try to balance those fat-food trespasses with plenty of the healthy, nutrition stuff. My day usually starts with bagels, lightly toasted and with cream cheese. The Farmer is a faithful cereal eater. (Note that neither of these requires much thought or effort at 5 a.m.)

Lunch here is dinner, the big, cooked meal of the day. And usually includes meat, potatoes or pasta, always a veggie, often a fresh, tossed salad, or broccoli in some form or other. In summer, every menu but breakfast features garden-fresh tomatoes. Supper is eaten "on the run," whatever one can unearth to eat quickly around the evening milking and barn chores. A sandwich, burrito, leftover soup or casserole is fair game.

Mid-morning, after barn chores, is my downfall and any food that doesn't run away looks appetizing. So, healthy snacks are kept on hand. A bowl of fruit is a standby on our kitchen counter, since grabbing a handy apple, orange or banana may keep me away from hidden cookies. Yogurt is a winner. And, knowing The Farmer's love for peanuts in the shell, those are often there, too. Feeling guilty about the reported fat level of peanuts, I was about to bag that practice. Then I read a report praising peanuts as heart-healthy because they have some beneficial enzyme or trace something-or-other.

Hey, how are us nutrition laymen supposed to have a clue what to believe?

After years of preaching that low-fat is good and high fat is akin to dangling one foot in the grave, it's fascinating to read studies that the body needs a certain amount of fat. But it needs to be this kind and not that kind, since too much of this kind and not enough of that kind may....whew! Just makes one want to run to the potato chips and ignore the whole issue.

More studies relate that too much fiber is as bad, or worse, than too little fiber. Apparently chowing down on the equivalent of a bale of rough orchardgrass hay on a regular basis can do long-term harm to one's systems. Sweep away your minerals, cause digestive problems, etc. On the plus side is the suggestion that one can add the right kind of fiber to the diet by eating things like popcorn. Yesssss! With extra butter, please.

Even the endless warning about too much salt were countered recently by reports of some university study that suggests the less salt one eats, the higher one's risk for untimely death. Huh? Untimely death? Hand me more of that popcorn.

Despite my best intentions to eat right, avoid becoming a couch potato and thread through all these mixed food messages, an occasional obsession takes hold of me that can only be satisfied by whipping through a fast-food drive-thru for a large container of fries and an extra-thick chocolate milkshake.

Hold the ketchup, please.

National Tree Giveaway Signup Begins

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a move to make 1998 the biggest tree planting year ever, an environment group is giving away more than 12 million trees nationwide, the largest, single distribution ever attempted. The non-profit group offers the trees free of charge to anyone who wants some of them.

"Planting a tree is one of the easiest and most positive things we can do for the environment, but also it serves as one of the best teaching tools we have for our children," said program coordinator Col. David Wright.

The organization is operating two Internet sites to help with the distribution — www.arbor day.com and www.freetrees.com. "This way we process requests electronically, we save paper and indirectly trees, which is consistent with our mission," Wright said. Of course, traditional postal methods are also available for people to get their free trees, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Arbor Day USA, P.O. Box 980, Washington, DC 20044, a form will be promptly returned.

Households can get 5-25 trees each. Schools can get up to 250 for Arbor Day observed April 24 or Earth Day on April 22 celebrations, while anyone who has sustained damage from El Nino or other winter storms, can get as many as 25-75 to replace trees that were lost. The pre-treated trees arrive complete with planting instructions, fertilizer and a guarantee. Recipients pay no more than the program's shipping and handling costs to get the young plants to their home; no memberships are solicited or required. "All the trees are state USDA-APHIS inspected and in top condition," said Pennsylvania tree farmer, Dwight Johnston.

So far, 1998 appears to be well on its way to becoming the largest tree planting year ever in the US. The program has signed up over 1,000 schools to receive trees from Maine to San Diego.

Flavored Coffees, Chocolates To Sip

Flavored coffees and hot chocolate drinks seem to be the latest rage sweeping the country. An every increasing population of preteens and teen-agers are joining adults to sip cappucino, iced coffee, latte, and unique combinations of coffee-flavored drinks.

While new flavors are constantly being concocted, some of the favorites have been around for years. Use these recipes and save yourself the high price cost of indulging at coffee shops and upscale restaurants.

GROWN-UP HOT CHOCOLATE

3 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
1¼ cups milk, divided

Combine sugar and cocoa in small saucepan with wire whisk. Add ½ cup milk. Whisk over medium heat until smooth. Add remaining milk; heat until hot, whisking occasionally.

Kristina Pardoe

HAZELNUT CAFE AU LAIT

Makes 3 servings:
3 cups milk
2 cups regular brewed coffee
2 tablespoons Nutella, Quick, or other chocolate-hazelnut spread

Heat milk and hazelnut spread in a microwave oven, stirring frequently, until the mixture starts to spread. Blend in coffee and divide among three cups.

Kristina Pardoe
Sullivan Co. Dairy Princess

APRICOT COFFEE CREAM

16-ounce can apricot halves in syrup, undrained
1 teaspoon instant coffee
2 cups cold milk
1 pint coffee ice cream, softened
½ teaspoon almond extract
Coffee ice cream

Place apricots with syrup and instant coffee in blender container; cover. Puree until smooth. Add half of the milk and ice cream. Blend until smooth. Add half of milk and ice cream. Blend until smooth. Add remaining milk, ice cream, and almond extract. Blend until smooth and frothy. Serve immediately in tall chilled glasses topped with a small scoop of coffee ice cream.

Am. Dairy Association

PEPPERMINT WHIPPED CREAM TOPPING

1 cup whipping cream
½ cup crushed peppermint candy
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

Combine all ingredients in a chilled bowl. Whip until stiff. Pipe through pastry tube to form rosettes or spoon dollops onto waxed paper. Freeze until ready to use. (Cover when frozen; keeps up to two weeks).

To serve: Heat a cup of milk for each serving to scalding. Stir in 1 tablespoon chocolate mixture into each cup. Top each with a frozen dollop of peppermint whipped cream. Serve immediately.

Microwave directions: Combine chocolate morsels, sugar, and water in a medium-sized microwavable bowl. Microwave on high for 3½ minutes, stirring after each minute. Proceed as directed above.

Variations:

Hot Chocolate Cherry Cordial: Whisk in 1½ tablespoons cherry-flavored brandy just before serving. Garnish with whipped cream and a cherry, if desired.

Mexican Hot Chocolate: Add ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon to sugar-chocolate mixture; proceed as recipe directs. Garnish with cinnamon stick.

Orange-Spice Cocoa: Add ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg to sugar-chocolate mixture; proceed as recipe directs. Stir in 1½ tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur just before serving. Garnish with a slice of orange, if desired.

Mocha Sensation: Add 1 tablespoon instant coffee when stirring in remaining milk. Stir in 1½ tablespoons coffee-flavored liqueur just before serving. Garnish with whipped cream and chocolate curls or chocolate sprinkles, if desired.

NEW ORLEANS COFFEE

½ cup milk
½ cup heavy cream
½ cup black coffee

In a small saucepan, combine ingredients and bring to a boil. Serve immediately. Serves 1.

Dress up flavored coffees with a dollop of whipped cream, cinnamon sprinkles, coffee candies, pretzels sticks, and served in a sparkling glass mug.

CONTINENTAL ICED COFFEE

2 tablespoons instant coffee
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup water
4 cups cold milk
Few drops peppermint extract
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons cold fudge topping for ice cream

Dissolve instant coffee and sugar in water. Add milk and peppermint extract. Cover and chill until serving time. Whip cream in a chilled bowl with chilled beaters until stiff peaks form. Swirl fudge topping gently through whipped cream to give a marbled pattern. Serve a spoonful of marbled whipped cream over each cup of iced coffee.

Am. Dairy Association

COFFEE PUNCH

1½ pints vanilla or vanilla and chocolate ice cream
4 cups hot coffee
Grated nutmeg

In a bowl place ice cream, pour coffee over ice cream. Whisk until ice cream is partially melted. Pour into punch glasses and sprinkle with nutmeg.

MOCHA FLOATS

3 cups strong hot coffee
1½ cups vanilla, chocolate or coffee ice cream
1 teaspoon grated semi sweet chocolate

Pour coffee into 4 mugs. Add ½ cup ice cream to each cup. Sprinkle chocolate on top of ice cream float.

Heather Riley's spoof as a pushy waitress entertains and entices the audience to try more dairy products.

The 17-year-old is a creative, budding comedian, who wears both the Crawford County and the state first alternate dairy princess title.

Despite Heather's ability to seemingly inject humor into any situation, she is no stranger to seriousness. To learn how the most devastating event of her life forced her to become a better person, turn to the feature story on Heather in this section.

For those eager for a delightful appetizer to serve to guests, here is one of Heather's favorite recipes.

ONION CHEESE BALL

2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
3-ounce package cream cheese with chives
1 scant tablespoon onion powder
6-ounces French onion dip
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1½ cups shredded cheddar cheese
Chopped nuts

Soften cream cheese. Put all ingredients, except nuts, into a large mixing bowl and blend together well. Chill. Shape into a ball and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Serve with crackers. Serves 25-30.

This past year has been an incredible adventure for me. My husband and I became parents of a wonderful little girl in March 1997, and for the last year we have been scrambling to acquire the skill we need to care for her. Businesses often employ the concept of "Just in time" training. Well we are doing "Just in time" parent education.

Of course, we did have advantages over some new parents. Our combined families include 12 nieces and nephews, a maternity nurse, a parenting educator (me), siblings, friends, and coworkers who were willing to provide advice when needed and a home library filled with references. We are fortunate. With all that in place, we still feel like we're floundering some times.

For that reason, I have become a real follower of the Missouri motto – Show me! Here I am. Parent educator, assertive woman. Capable, right? I was so grateful when the pediatric nurse at the hospital reviewed with me the way to change a newborn's diaper. She didn't just tell me. She slowly showed me, step by step. And then she asked, "Is there anything else you'd like me to review with you." Of course my next question was, "Could you just go over one more time what to do about bathing her."

Then the pediatricians joined my "Show me" team. Was I supposed to know how to put ointment in the one-month-old's eyes? Could you show me? I loved how the nurse practitioner nonchalantly demonstrated the importance of holding a child's leg with one hand while she is lying on a table. She said, "She may not roll over now. But it won't be long. It's good to hold her just in case." She didn't just tell me, she modeled the skill for me.

Having these experiences where I felt like I "should" know what I was doing, but I really needed a refresher/introductory demonstration, reminded me that many people need to SEE an example not just hear directions.

If you are asking your child to complete a household chore, do you take the time to show him an important step? Do you take the time to let him practice with your encouragement? When you ask your partner to run an errand, do you show him the items he needs to find?

Of course, there is a fine line between casually demonstrating and dictating. The same pediatrician who carefully showed me how to put ointment in my child's eye also advised me to go in another room when my husband changed my child's diaper so I wouldn't interfere too much.

I guess it may be easier to receive the examples from an outside party (where you don't lose face by admitting your inadequacy). But ideally, we should be able to offer to and receive from our family and friends these same helpful demonstrations. "Do you want me to show you that part?" or "Do you want me to walk you through it?" is one way to model behavior.

The other way is as effective. Live the appropriate behavior. You can show other family members how to resolve conflicts, how to treat people respectfully, how to organize yourself for a vacation, or how to balance a checkbook regularly by allowing them to see your actions and hear your comments.

I'm sure there will be times in the future when I will be embarrassed because my daughter is mimicking one of my less flattering behaviors. That will be one more reminder that children and adults show new skills after they have seen them. Some people need the encouragement of a real live example before they grasp a new idea. Professionally and personally, we all need to take the time to show others behavior that is healthy, behavior that we would be proud to have copied.

VEGGIES FOR BREAKFAST? WHY NOT!

If fried potatoes or a veggie omelet are the only breakfast vegetables you know, it's time for another look. Here are some ideas for adding vegetables to breakfast menus. Try steamed or broiled veggies on an English muffin or bagel; a grilled vegetable breakfast sandwich; fresh salsa on eggs or on a baked potato; stir-fried veggies and rice; mashed potato patty; baked potato with cinnamon. Before dismissing these ideas as "not quite breakfasty," remember that vegetables are low in fat and packed with vitamins and minerals. We need three to five servings of vegetables a day.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — A. Keller, Fisher, W.V., wants a recipe for French toast.

QUESTION — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants recipes for turkey scrapple and turkey balogna.

QUESTION — E. Beaver, Ringtown, would like recipes to cook red beets and its leaves.

QUESTION — Donna Byerbaugh, Oakdale, wants a recipe for tomato gravy.

QUESTION — Opel Brosius, Pitman, would like recipes for homemade white bread.

QUESTION — Donna Cleveland, Wellsboro, would like good diabetic recipe for peanut butter cookies and other diabetic dessert recipes.

QUESTION — Shirley Jean Ash, Bridgeport, W.V., would like a recipe for Southwestern Vegetable Soup that tastes like that served at Shoney's Restaurant. She writes that it's the best she ever tasted, although she's been back to the restaurant several times and they didn't have it.

QUESTION — Sally Reinaehl, Valley View, writes that she is having difficulty making bread that is light and airy. She uses a recipe from the yeast cookbook. Is it the recipe or something she should be doing differently?

QUESTION — Stacy Holmes, Peach Bottom, is requesting a recipe for making homemade cheese out of goat's milk. She would also like other recipes, except yogurt, for using goat's milk.

QUESTION — Valerie Miller, Honesdale, is looking for a recipe for pork roll.

QUESTION — Carolyn Stear, Home, would like a pancake recipe that tastes similar to that served by the Perkin's restaurant chain. She has bought their packaged mix, but doesn't think it tastes at all like those they serve. She also would like pancake recipes that taste like those served by other restaurants. What is the best substance to use on the griddle to get nice even brown pancakes? She'd also like other information and cooking techniques for pancakes.

QUESTION — Susan Harris, Lexington, VA, would like a recipe for fruit cake in the jar.

QUESTION — A reader tasted a delicious cottage cheese soup at the Red Fox Inn at Snowshoe. Does anyone have a recipe for cottage cheese soup.

ANSWER — J. Martin, Shippensburg, wanted recipes for glazed apples and cranberry in a sweet sauce like the one Stouffers makes and for broiled crab cake similar to that served at the Country Oven. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending in this recipe for conserves. To convert it into a sauce, cook the mixture an additional 10 to 15 minutes and strain through a food mill. It also goes nicely with pancakes.

Cranberry-Apple Conserve

4 large apples (such as Newtown, Pippin or Jonagold) peeled, cored, sliced
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 cup maple syrup
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 tablespoon orange zest, cut into strips and finely diced

Place apples, sugar, and 2 tablespoons water in a saucepan over medium heat and steam for 5 minutes. Shake the pan to prevent the apples from sticking to the bottom. Mix in the syrup, cranberries, and zest. When the berries beging to pop, reduce the heat to low, cover, stirring from time to time to prevent sticking, and cook for 10 minutes. Makes approximately 3 cups.

Hot Chocolate Fun Facts

Did you know . . .

• Drinking hot chocolate is said to have begun with the Aztec Indians. Montezuma reportedly drank up to 50 cups a day, believing it to be an aphrodisiac (he also supposedly loved the taste.)

• Internationally, hot chocolate is the base for a wide array of specialty drinks. In France, a super-rich version is created by melting solid chocolate into milk and cream. In Vienna, hot chocolate is dolloped with sweetened whipped cream. In Russia and Brazil, coffee is stirred into hot chocolate. And in Mexico, common additions are cinnamon, orange zest and sherry.

• The people of Madrid, Spain embrace the tradition of hot chocolate with churros — a greasy, deep-fried donut-like treat. In much the same way that Americans are raised on hot dogs and hamburgers, Spaniards delight in hot chocolate and churros. Combining hot chocolate with churros is a "special Madrid observance."

• In Madrid, while the snack tradition is popular all year long, it is particularly popular on New Year's Eve, as an almost obligatory finale after sunrise on January 1.

• If the idea of drinking a chocolate bar appeals to you, you can begin to make hot chocolate with melted chocolate rather than dry cocoa powder, using what is often called the Viennese method for making hot chocolate. Just mix with milk.

• In Warsaw in 1851, on the corner of Szpitaina and Gorskiego streets, confectioner Karol Wedel came to the capital and opened a factory. On the premises, he offered liquid chocolate, tea, cocoa, punch, liqueur, syrup, and confections. The Wedel family chronicles say that in that year, 400-500 cups of hot chocolate were served each day.

Destroyed in World War II, after the war, Wedel's shop and chocolate bar regained their old splendor. Today, the bar only serves hot chocolate; wafers are added upon request.

• The refurbished Hortex bar at Kionstytucju Square in Warsaw, offers a cup of ordinary hot chocolate, as well as an original version called "chocolate for over-18's," which is hot and beaten with vodka. Hot chocolate costs just 4,000 zlotys, plus 500 for whipped cream.

ANSWER — Frank Cimino, Kulpmont, wanted a recipe for sausage balls, which he tasted while on a bus trip to a football game a couple months ago and a lady from the Lancaster area had made several bags of delicious sausage balls with jalapeno pepper pieces. Thanks to Kay Mohn, Stevens, for sending the following recipe.

Sausage Canapes

1 pound loose sausage
1 pound grated sharp cheddar cheese
3 cups Bisquick
¼ cup chopped jalapeno peppers (more or less depending on taste)

Mix together ingredients. Form into round balls and bake at 350 degrees until golden brown.

If you cannot find loose sausge, cut off the casings to use.

ANSWER — Beverly Bishop, Landisburg, wanted a recipe for candy Easter eggs that taste like Mounds or Almond Joy. Thanks to Linda Russell, Carlisle, for sending this recipe.

Almond Joy

⅓ cup marshmallow cream
½ cup white corn syrup
1 pound coconut

Heat together marshmallow and corn syrup until mixed well. Remove from heat and add enough coconut until mixture can be formed into a ball. Form into egg-shapes. Cool in refrigerator than dip in coating chocolate. Put almond on top. Dip again.

ANSWER — Shirley Horning, Stevens, wanted a recipe to make pita bread that is moist and not dry like the pita pockets sold in supermarkets. Thanks to Fran Westfall for sending a recipe.

Pita Pocket Bread

1 envelope active dry yeast
1¼ cups warm water
¼ teaspoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ tablespoons olive oil
3 cups flour

In large warm bowl, sprinkle yeast into warm water and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, and all the flour and mix well. Turn out on lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place free from draft until double in bulk, about 1 hour 15 minutes. Punch dough down, divide in 8 equal pieces and shape in balls. On lightly floured surface, roll out each ball in 6-inch circle; place on greased 7-inch square of foil. Let rise in warm place free from draft about one hour. Bake on lowest rack in preheated 500 degree oven about 7 minutes or until puffed and lightly browned. Serve at once or store, cooled, in plastic bags. Makes 8.

ANSWER — E. Beaver wanted instructions for making pickled beets. Thanks to Fran Westfall, who has been using the following recipe for 30 years.

Pickled Beets

Select small, young beets. Wash. Leave three inches of tops on and roots. Cook until skins slip easily (about 15 minutes). Put into cold water. Remove skins, top, and roots.

Syrup:
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
2 cups vinegar
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Pack beets into jars to within ½ -inch of top. Pour boiling syrup over beets to within ½ -inch of top of jar. Process 30 minutes in boiling water bath.

ANSWER — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wanted recipes for black raspberry scratch cake. Thanks to 82-year-old Fran Westfall of New Oxford for sending a recipe.

Raspberry Cake

Cream together:
½ cup butter
2 eggs
2 cups sugar

Mix together:
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder

Combine both mixtures and fold in:
1 quart raspberries

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

FROSTY MOCHA CAPPUCINO

1 cup strong coffee (cooled)
2 cups vanilla ice cream
2 tablespoons chocolate syrup

Place all ingredients in a blender or food processor. Cover and blend at high speed until smooth. 4 servings.

QUICK MINTED HOT CHOCOLATE

3 mint chocolate candies
1 cup chocolate milk

Combine in a small saucepan. Heat and stir until mint chocolate melts.

SPECIAL HOT CHOCOLATE

6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate morsels
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup whipping cream
Hot milk

Combine chocolate morsels, sugar, and water in a small saucepan. Heat over medium heat, stirring frequently, until chocolate is melted. Cool to lukewarm; stir in vanilla. Whip cream until stiff peaks form. Gradually whip in cooled chocolate mixture. Store in covered container in refrigerator. (Chocolate mixture keeps well in refrigerator up to one week).

COLDFRAMES

Gardeners use them to help extend the growing time at both ends of the season.

Coldframes are small greenhouses that use solar energy and sunlight to help plants grow.

Coldframes used to lengthen the growing season in spring by allowing earlier seed germination. They also provide extended protection to short-season crops planted into the fall. A fall crop can be planted in the frame, protected from late frosts and then harvested as the weather turns cold.

Many semi-hardy plants can be overwintered in a coldframe. Their protected environment and temperature control can also provide the necessary conditions to stratify some types of seed in before spring germination. Certain root vegetables can be stored in them during fall and winter.

For coldframe to function properly, it should face south so plants receive full sun most of the day. The site should be convenient, close to a good water supply and well-drained to prevent accumulation of water under the plants. Protection from the wind will make it easier to maintain uniform conditions in the frame.

The actual construction materials depend on how long you plant to use the frame. Use wood boards for lower cost and generally a shorter life. Redwood or cedar will provide the longest life; however, pressure-treated wood will also survive quite a few years. Make certain wood does not contain creosote or pentachlorophenol. Both of these materials are very toxic to plants and will kill anything placed in the frames.

There are no strict rules on the size of garden frames, but consider starting with a 6' by 6' unit. Larger units are easier to ventilate and trap less heat than smaller units. Additional lengths are usually in multiples of 3'.

The width, front to back, often depends on the materials used to cover the frame. If you have sash, make the frames to accommodate them. Keep the size within workable limits.

Construction details are not elaborate. You are assembling a four-sided frame with the front side slightly lower that the back to provide the optimum light penetration into the frame and allow rain to drain off the cover. The slope of the cover is about 1" per foot of width. If your cover is 6' long, the back of the frame could be 14" off the ground and the front edge would be 6" off the ground. A suitable slope can be created by ripping a board on the diagonal and using it as part of the side construction. Sections of 2" by 4" lumber will help strengthen frame corners.

The frame cover can be made of glass, plastic film, plexiglass or other translucent material that can be loose-pin hinged to the back of the frame. Fiberglass panels will last many years if cared for, and are probably much safer than glass if there are children playing in the area. Glass has the best light transmission of all materials and should be considered if possible. You should consider screens for the frames to keep insects and rodents out when the cover is lifted for ventilation. On very bright days it may be necessary to shade the frames to reduce the intensity of the sun and prevent damage to tender seedlings early in the season.

If the frame will be set on the soil surface, you should plant to excavate several inches below the surface and put down a layer of crushed stone to provide water drainage below the plants. In any case, if you construct the frame now, it will be ready for spring.

For more information or plans to build a coldframe, contact the Extension Office.

POURED SOLID CONCRETE

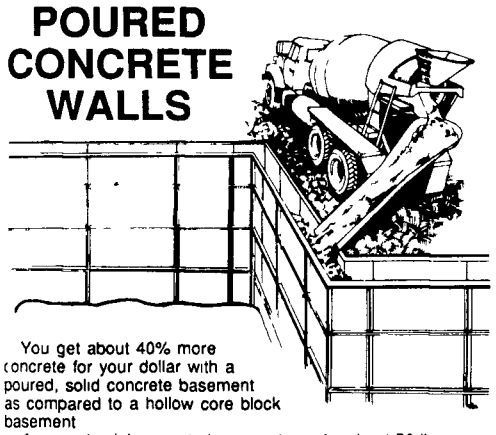
START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls

That Milk Thing Keeps Drinking Milk

PHILADELPHIA — "Drink milk with school breakfast" was the message promoted to nearly 100 community leaders and parents who attended the fifth annual Dignitary Breakfast, sponsored by the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA) and Dairy Council, Inc. Held during National School Breakfast Week, the event was hosted by the Honorable Luis Munoz-Marin Elementary School and coordinated by Philadelphia Division of School Food Services to alert the community to the importance of school breakfast.

During the breakfast, Angel Ortiz from Philadelphia City Council, Christopher Martin from USDA, and Dr. David Hornbeck, superintendent of schools, commended the 550 Munoz-Marin students on eating school breakfast. The highlight of the morning was MAMMA's "Eat Smart To Be Smart" assembly featuring the loveable milk celebrity, "That Milk Thing." Munoz-Marin was one of 18 Philadelphia elementary schools to receive the free assembly this spring. During the past four years, the "Eat Smart To Be Smart" Assembly has educated more than 77,000 students on the benefits of a healthy breakfast.

As a follow-up to the assembly, Dairy Council, Inc. provided teachers from every grade level with nutrition education materials. Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Heather Riley attended the event and greeted students at Munoz-Marin Elementary. With every school breakfast served, a ½ pint serving of milk is provided. MAMMA's school breakfast promotions are designed to increase school milk consumption through increasing breakfast participation and improved milk's image.

MAMMA is a non-profit milk promotion and advertising association funded by dairy farmers in Maryland, Delaware, southern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, and northern Virginia. Dairy Council, Inc. is the nutrition education organization covering southern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, and Delaware.

L.H. from Columbus, Ohio, wants to know

Why do fish jump out of water?

A hungry trout might leap out of water to snatch insects hovering near the surface. But it might take an airborne leap for a whole lot of other reasons, too.

In fact, fisheries scientists can't explain with certainty why fish jump. They do know that the answer usually depends on the species of fish or the situation

Take salmon, for instance. They leap over logs, small dams and other barriers as they migrate upstream. Salmon make the yearly trek against a river's flow to find a safe nesting place for their eggs.

But flying fish — a kind of fish that lives in the ocean — jump because it's quicker to move in the air. Water creates a lot of resistance. By leaping above the surface, flying fish can glide up to 100 feet.

Other fish jump out of the water to escape predators. Fish can't see beyond the surface of water very well. When a chased fish leaps into the air, the hungry fish momentarily loses sight of its dinner — and the jumping fish makes a quick getaway.

Sometimes, though, certain kinds of fish will jump into the air so they can descend on their prey from the surface. Fish can feel other fish swimming near them. By jumping out of the water, a hungry fish can use surprise to its advantage.

There are other speculations, too. Some scientists think the jumping helps remove parasites that feed on the fish's scales. And, other people think some fish are playing their own brand of leap frog — they jump because it's fun!

Farm Women

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Farm Women No. 8 met on March 11. Members were given a tour of the Wilton Factory in Mount Joy. They went to the Vo-Tech School for lunch and were shown the culinary facilities at the school.

In error, the name of Gladys Ney was omitted from the hostess list of the previous meeting.

Members will meet on April 1 at Reich's Church in Marietta.

Berks Society 6

Berks County Farm Women Group 6 held its March meeting in the home of Joyce Mast. Eight members and one guest attended.

Randy Van Fleet presented an interesting and informative talk on the making of maple syrup. The sample of pure maple syrup was quite tasty.

Discussion followed on the Oley Community pot pie dinner and the county project, Longaberger Bingo.

Hot Chocolate Nutrition Information

Did you know that . . .

• preparing hot chocolate with water, instead of milk, deprives your children not only of the rich, creamy flavor enhanced by the milk, but also their need for calcium. One cup of milk contains about 300 milligrams of calcium — about a third of a child's recommended daily allowance.

• (HOT) chocolate milk is a significant source of riboflavin that helps promote healthy skin and eyes, as well as Vitamins A and D.

• (HOT) chocolate milk has five important minerals: calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, potassium, and sodium.

• Calcium from hot chocolate helps your muscles contract and relax, helps your heart beat, helps your blood clot, and helps nerves send messages.

• A diet low in calcium has been linked to several health problems: bone-crippling osteoporosis; bone loss in the jaw — resulting in difficulty chewing, tooth loss, and hypertension.

• To equal the amount of calcium in one eight-ounce glass of hot chocolate milk, your kids would have to eat 3 cups of kale, 4 cups of broccoli, or 14 slices of whole wheat bread.

• Studies show women who do not consume the equivalent of two glasses of milk a day, lose bone mass at a rate of one percent per year.

• Women who drink two or more cups of coffee per day and at least one glass of milk or hot chocolate milk daily, have bone densities 6.5 percent higher than women who drink coffee but don't drink milk.

Pennsylvania's Slinky Continues To Delight

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

HOLLIDAYSBURG (Blair Co.) – Slinky, the fun toy for all ages, was created, made, and is still manufactured in Pennsylvania.

In 1945, Richard James was a Marine architect and a mechanical engineer. He was taking a ship out for a trial run for the U.S. Navy when a torsion spring fell off and "walked" across the floor.

Jim was so fascinated, he took the spring home and perfected it into a toy. His wife, Betty, who still runs the Slinky plant, was given the task of finding a name.

"I got out the dictionary," said Betty, and came up with "Slinky," the name which has stuck for 53 years.

The "Slinky" plant which is known as "James Industries," is located in Hollidaysburg, the capitol seat of Blair County in Pennsylvania

A petite grandmother, Betty James still remembers the difficulty she and her then young husband had in getting the Slinky on the market. "No one would buy it," she recalls. "No one wanted to take a chance. Then, Gimbles in Philadelphia said we could have the end of a counter in the store for one night. We took 400 Slinkys and sold them all in 90 minutes.

"After that successful evening, everyone wanted them. We had no money, so at the end of each day, we put a few dollars aside to buy more material from the Wilkening Company located nearby."

Richard James designed the machine which made the "Slinkys." Betty did the packaging and marketing. In between, she looked after their two young children. Four more children were soon born to the James family.

In 1946, Betty and Richard went to the New York Toy Show and found a good "sales rep." The first "Slinky" factory was located near Philadelphia.

Nathan Smouse of Bedford plays with a Slinky, a popular toy for more than 50 years.

It was in 1964 that Betty moved the plant to Hollidaysburg and began managing it on her own. Richard died in 1970.

Today, Betty has 100 employees and is proud to say that their average length of employment is from 20 to 25 years. The plant manufactures other small toys, but Slinky remains at the top of the list.

The original cost of $1 has still not doubled. Other countries have tried to compete but have never been successful.

Slinkys are appealing for children from 1 1/2 years to adults. They are used in nursing homes for therapy. The original 1945 Slinky has been altered only slightly for safety standards.

Betty James is proud that Slinky is one of the oldest toys on the market. It has been used in cartoons, in movies, and took a ride on the Discovery Space Ship.

"But, it wouldn't defy gravity," Betty said with a laugh. "It went straight out."

Soy-Based Cookie Dough

NEWARK, Del. – University of Delaware senior Daniel McDowell carefully fills three baskets, marked A, B and C, each with a different type of chocolate chip cookie.

"We've got a winner this time," says the animal and food sciences major as he places a pile of surveys in front of the baskets.

Lucky passersby are invited to taste the cookies and record their preferences on the survey. Packed with chocolate chips, each type of cookie has a distinct texture and taste.

But these are no ordinary chocolate chip cookies. made with 100 percent soy flour, they have been meticulously researched by Dr. Y. Martin Lo, an assistant professor of food processing and engineering, to provide the benefits of soy in an appealing form.

"Some Americans are unwilling to try soy products," says Lo. "Soybeans are used mainly to produce oil, and most of what's left is used for animal feed. You don't find soy flour on many supermarket shelves."

But Lo hopes to lift the lowly legume's public image. With an $8,000 grant from the Delaware and Maryland Soybean Boards and the collaboration of UD faculty and Cooperative Extension staff, he is developing a microwave-ready, soy flour cookie dough that will appeal to the American consumer.

"Soy flour has three advantages over its wheat counterpart," says Lo. "First, it is more nutritional, providing a broader range of essential amino acids. Second, it provides a safe alternative for people with gluten intolerance – allergic reactions to wheat products. Third, it contains phytoestergen, a group of compounds that may help reduce the risk of cancer."

Recognizing his cookie dough won't sell solely on the merit of its healthfulness, Lo is aiming for sensory appeal and convenience. His most successful recipe has the crispy, golden-brown texture of an oven-baked product but takes only 75 second to cook in a microwave oven.

Under Lo's direction, McDowell has baked about 100 batches of cookies in the past year.

"We've come a long way since we started this project," remarks McDowell. "One of the things we've discovered is that the appeal is all in the texture. Whether the cookies are made with white flour, whole wheat flour or soy flour, people like them if they like the texture. Some people like chewy, others like crispy."

His recipe nearly perfected, Lo is ready to move on to the next phase of the project. In collaboration with Dr. Sue Snider, cooperative Extension specialist for food and nutrition, and Dr. Cheng-Shun Fang, assistant professor in the department of nutrition and dietetics, he will seek funding to analyze the nutritional content and determine the shelf life of the cookie dough. After conducting a patent search, he will approach the food industry to find a sponsor who will take his product to supermarket shelves.

Unique Concepts Attract Visitors To Willow Pond Farm

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

FAIRFIELD (Adams Co.) – Nestled in the valley east of South Mountain, the northern extension of Virginia's Blue Ridge near Fairfield in Adams County, sits Willow Pond Farm, home to a couple who recently retired after 32 years as American diplomats.

Visitors to the herb and everlastings farm, established in 1994 by Tom and Madeline Wajda (pronounced Vy-da), may walk through 10 demonstration gardens of edible flowers, and culinary and medicinal herbs all developed by the couple. There's also a butterfly garden, a crescent-shaped silver garden, a 200-foot long perennial border, a garden for scented geraniums, an everlasting flower garden and one for Biblical plants.

Tom said he hopes to plant the Biblical garden in such a way that it looks like an open book with Old Testament plants on one page and New Testament plants on the other.

A five-acre wildflower meadow is also open to visitors. And in the summer there are accommodations for a picnic lunch under a huge black walnut tree.

Standing in one of two greenhouses the Wajdas added to their 30-acre farm, Tom said with a chuckle as he surveyed the tables of herbs in front of him, "No matter how many greenhouses you have, you do not have enough space."

Noting that mint is the herb of 1998, he pointed to one table that was laden with 25 varieties of mint that will be sold by the couple in a shop they opened in a summerhouse replete with a walk-in fireplace and located next to their stone home – thought to have been built by the same mason who constructed the Fairfield Inn – and at a farmer's market in center square Gettysburg. They also can be found at herb festivals, and garden and craft shows throughout Maryland and Pennsylvania.

At the various outlets, the couple offers for sale live, fresh-cut and dried herbs, herbal vinegars, jellies, honey, herbal blends for dips and flavorings, herbal teas, herbal soaps, herbal gift baskets, dried flowers and arrangements, as well as books on herb culture, preservation, cooking and medicinal uses of herbs. At Christmas and in the fall they also have rosemary topiaries.

Tom walks further into the greenhouse pointing to scented geraniums. "We have 65 varieties of scented geraniums. Everything form the standard, good old-fashioned rose to red-flowering geraniums."

Madelaine suddenly interjects, "Look your lemon tree's about to bloom." And sure enough, perched atop the small tree is a bud. Tom adds that he has taken cuttings from the Ponderosa Lemon Tree which they got in Connecticut "that are coming on quite nicely."

Next Tom shows off the angelica which he explains he is quite proud of because it is difficult to propagate unless you have fresh seed. "I simply took the seed off the plant last August My experience with buying seed is that by the time you get them they don't work Even the fresh seeds only have a 50 percent germination rate...when February or March rolls around and you toss these into a pot hoping to have the seeds germinate...two years running I had zero germination from purchased seeds. But taken from my own they've worked," he said.

Explaining that he had just spent three hours potting plants, he said, "There's basil over here and basil over there. This is sweet marjoram and there's more sweet marjoram," he said pointing in front of him. His plans were to continue with his potting using popular herbs of the day – St. John's Wort and valerian.

When asked how much time the two spend on their endeavor, Tom, who is a master gardener, answers with a sigh, "All of the time."

While he is busy with the growing of herbs, Madeline. who studied cuisine in France while the couple lived in that country as members for the U.S. Foreign Service, offers classes in herbal cooking and herb preservation. She also gives classes on dried flower arranging and provides advice and products for herbal weddings. Tom offers classes on herb propagation and culture.

Madeline uses herbs in her daily cooking, explaining that if you drop the salt and fat from your diet you need to replace it with something and herbs are the perfect choice to add flavor.

Walking through the gardens, she tells of one program the couple offers in the summertime. "It's called Weed and Eat. You are invited to come out at 5 p.m. and Tom will take you on a tour of the gardens and tell you all about the plants and then at 6 p.m. you get to the gardens while I cook a meal for you. At 7 p.m. we eat."

And then, with a twinkle in her eyes that seemed to denote her pleasure at thinking of the program, she said, "I'd rather cook than weed."

The couple who have grown herbs from Iran to New Zealand to France and, finally to Canada, decided in 1992 to turn their serious hobby into a serious business and began looking for a "retirement" farm in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains.

"We wanted to be within a couple of hours of Washington, D.C., because we had friends and family in that area. We wanted to have a house with some character and we wanted ideally 20 acres and some water and some out-buildings that were useable. So we got this 1760s house and two ponds and 30 acres," Tom said.

In the completely refurnished modern kitchen, Madeline brings out a box packed with some of her jellies The delectable treat can be found in flavors from apple blossom to violet with others such as basil/tomato, lemon balm grape, lilac, parsley and pineapple sage cider among numerous kinds.

A note in their catalog states, "All of our jellies and vinegars are carefully made by Madeline, one batch at a time, with fresh herbs from our garden. This is a time-intensive process (on a good day she makes 100 jars of jelly), but it insures that you will receive a product of unparalleled taste and quality."

Tom and Madeline Wajda check plants in the greenhouse to the rear of their home along Tract Road in Adams County.

Madeline's herbal honeys come in such flavors as cinnamon basil, lemon verbena and rosemary.

The couple will hold the Willow Pond Farm National Herb Week Open House May 2-4. On May 8-9 they will be at the Landis Valley Herb Fair in Lancaster and on May 23, they'll be at Baltimore Herb Festival, Leakin Park, Baltimore, Md.

Because mint is the year's herb, the couple offers these tips for growing mint: Mint prefers part sun, but will grow well in full sun and tolerates a fair amount of shade. Mints spread easily and need to be contained.

Do this by cutting the bottom out of a large (3-4 gallon) plastic pot or a plastic bucket. Dig a hole and bury the pot leaving three inches above ground. Fill the pot with soil and plant your mint in it. Trim back any branches that start to trail outside the pot.

Harvest mints every four weeks during the growing season. Cut them back to about two inches above the ground, fertilize and water, and watch them come back again.

Drying mint: Mint (and other herbs) can be dried by hanging them in a dry area out of direct sunlight. Drying time is three to ten days. You can also use your microwave. Place the mint leaves between layers of paper towels and dry on high for two minutes. Check the leaves for dryness, and continue the process 30 seconds at a time until all the leaves are dry (usually not more than 5 minutes total).

Mint Recipes:

Mint Butter Cookies

Makes 5 dozen.

1	cup butter
1	egg
2 1/2	cups flour
3	tablespoons finely chopped fresh (or 1 tablespoon dried) mint*
1	cup sugar
1	teaspoon baking soda
1	teaspoon mint extract

Cream butter and sugar, add egg and mix well. Mix in flour and baking soda, then mint and mint extract. Roll into two long rolls about 1 1/2 inch in diameter and refrigerate overnight. Slice into 1/8-inch slices, sprinkle with sugar, and bake on a greased cookie sheet at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

*Rose geranium, lemon verbena, or tarragon may be used instead of mint. If you do use these herbs, replace the mint extract with 1 teaspoon of rose water, lemon extract, or vanilla, respectively.

Mint Vinaigrette

2	tablespoons cider vinegar
1/4	cup orange juice
1/2	teaspoon salt
3	tablespoons chopped fresh mint (or 1 tablespoon dried)
3/4	cup safflower or corn oil
3	tablespoons lemon juice
2	tablespoons sugar
	Pinch of paprika

Combine all ingredients except oil in mixing bowl. Slowly add oil, whisking all the while. (Or combine all ingredients in blender for about 15 seconds). Check for taste: add sugar or mint if desired. Serve on greens or fruit salads.

*Try chopped mint with cooked peas or green beans (add mint just before serving).

ARE VITAMINS DESTROYED IN FOOD PREPARATION?

Some vitamin loss occurs the minute food is harvested. Modern methods of harvesting, storage, transportation, processing and preparation minimizes these losses. Vitamin losses occur by oxidation, by light, heat, exposure to acids and alkali and by leaching into water. Considerable amounts of various nutrients remain even in food, however, even after it has gone through processing. You can take some food preparation steps to prevent vitamin loss: Peel thinly or cook in skin; cut food into large pieces; use a minimum amount of water; cook with the lid on; serve immediately; cook until just tender, not mushy; store in refrigerator or freezer and cover tightly.

Farmers Help Albanians

TRUMANSBURG, N.Y. – George and Julie Homes, 3220 Jacksonville Road, Trumansburg, recently returned from a month's short term mission trip to Albania, with Fellowship of Christian Farmers, Int.

George and Julie Holmes stand by one of the 700,000 bunkers in Albania.

This was the Holmes' fifth year going to do mission work in the small Balkan country that has been riddled with political problems for a year now. In the past the Holmes have stayed longer in Albania, but with the political unrest, they felt a month would have to do for this year. They did experience hearing gun fire day and night and an occasional grenade go off. They were not able to travel to the north or south of Albania. But, they were able to visit villages near the capitol city of Tirana.

This year one group of eight farmers went to Albania for a two-week mission trip, under the direction of the Holmes' and David and Sarah Van Orman of Green Valley, Ill. The group was able to visit villages, witness to the people, pass out Bibles, tracts, Christian literature and 900 family vegetable seed packets.

The farmers were able to go to the Home of the Street Children, and the Budull School to pass out Samaritan Purse Christmas boxes to each child. What joy they saw in the eyes of the children when they opened the shoe boxes full of things from caring Christians. The school director was so pleased that Americans were interested in his school The children were so happy, it was like Christmas and school was closed early that day.

The past three years a team of young Christian adults, called SOWERS, have been going to seven villages to carry on the Christian work that Holmes and Van Ormans started. It has been totally funded by donations. God's work in Albania is changing the hearts of the people, more and more are seeking the Lord and growing in Christ. The village work has been a huge sucess and changed lives. This year a second team has been started to expand the ministry to more new villages. Both teams visit the villages twice a month. They do Bible lessons, read scripture, and teach Sunday school lessons, as well as witness and pass out Bibles.

This year the Holmes were invited to visit a remote village. They drove by Landrover and then had to hike 2 1/2 hours into two mountain villages. The village of Domm has an active pastor ministering to the people. Holmes made home visits and helped with the evening church service. The village visit was like stepping back in time 100 years.

A new slide presentation and display of Albania is available to any church or organization. Call (607)387-6538, evenings.

Trumansburg Farmers Help North Country Farmers

TRUMANSBURG, N.Y. – Paul Thorp and George Holmes both of Jacksonville Road, Trumansburg, members of Fellowship of Christian Farmers, Int. decided to help out farmers in the North Country after the recent ice storm George and Julie Holmes have a daughter and son-in-law, Steve and Marsha Gokey, farming in Malone They related the need of generators to help neighbors milk their cows and cool milk Many area farmers had great difficulties getting that task done with the severe ice storm and the massive power outages in the North Country

Paul Thorp and the Holmes went into action and called neighboring farmers to borrow generators. Generators were collected from David and Sue Thompson, Rick and Deb Curtis, Carl and Joan Tabor, and George and Julie Holmes, all Trumansburg farmers. A truck and trailer were donated by Russ Carpenter in the absence of his father Bob Carpenter of Trumansburg to transport the generators to the Plattsburg and Malone areas.

Holmes personally delivered their generator to Norman and Barbara Tetreault, Finney Road. Burke. They had been milking cows once a day with the vacuum off a pickup truck. But they were not able to cool the milk and had to dump it down the drain They had been doing so for eight days.

The Tetreaults were very surprised that a total stranger was willing to help them out. Holmes replied, that Christians share with others when a need arises. The Tetreaults shared the generator with a neighboring farmer, whose generator blew up.

With the complete restoration of electric power in the North Country Wally Ransom of Hogansburg, recently returned the generators to the Trumansburg farmers.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, would like to know since she is allergic to most pesticides, a natural way to get rid of either carpenter ants or termites in her basement. She heard of spreading Borax around, but how and where do you put it. She also heard that burning a sulphur candle in a bucket of water is effective, but that the fumes are poisonous and leaves a residue.

QUESTION — Ray Hunsberger, Phoenixville, is restoring a United 2½ HP type A Hit & Miss gas engine made in Lansing, MI by United Engine Co. Ray would appreciate information such as manuals, original paint color, etc. about the engine.

QUESTION — Sharon from Elverson is looking for additional pieces to a Pfalzgraff set of dishes that were made 15-20 years ago. Pieces have a cream background with dark blue accents that include either a cow, a flower, a rocking horse, a pineapple, a cat, or a farm scene. Some pieces include the label Spectrum by Pfaltzgraff.

QUESTION — M. Horning, Lebanon, wants to know the do's and don't's on raising raspberry and elderberry bushes.

QUESTION — Nancy Wallace, 5240 Diem Rd., New Holland, PA 17557, would like an old C.W. Wood lard can. Her father had the business in New Holland until 1949. Feedsack Club To Hold Convention

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Quilters and history buffs won't want to miss the fourth annual gathering of the Feedsack Club. Founded seven years ago by Jane Clark Stapel, the club is an international group devoted to a fascinating piece of textile history. The convention is open to the public and runs April 1 - 4 at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge 2100 Lincoln Hwy., Route 30E, Lancaster.

Feedsack is a general term for woven cotton bags that held grain, feed, flour, and other staple items. Beginning in the late 1930s they were printed with colored patterns and resourceful women began recycling the bags in to quilts, dresses, sheets, underwear — the list is long! Printed feedsacks were produce for 35 years and today they are found at auctions, garage sales, and in antique stores. Many quilts were made with these colorful fabrics, thus there is a strong link of feedsacks with the quilting world. Many of the club members are avid quilters and the convention features quilt displays, quilting classes, lectures, historical displays, and vendors.

This year, Deborah Roberts, quilt historian and appraiser certified by the American Quilter's Society, will be appraising all types of quilts on a first-come, first-serve basis on Friday and Saturday. Deborah notes that the most common reason to appraise a quilt is for insurance coverage.

She said "Losses occur even in the most simple circumstances and rarely is there a way to recover from the loss of a treasured quilt unless it is insured. Even in the best of situations, insurance companies today settle for cost of materials only, unless the value can be substantiated with a written appraisal by a qualified quilt appraiser."

For a $35 fee, Deborah will spend 30 minutes with you and your quilt and produce a written document that establishes a fair market value.

She said, "If you think of your quilts as more than blankets, you may want to make sure that your insurance company sees it that way too!"

Drs. Beth Thorne and Joanna Nesselroad of Fairmount State College in Charleston, West Virginia study the fascinating role that feedsacks played in rural life in America. They have established a permanent collection of feedsack items that they will display at the convention on Friday, April 3. Dr. Thorne says that "One of the most common misconceptions is the linking of printed bags with the depression, when the earliest they may have been available is 1937."

Convention evenings are time for lectures followed by "Show and Tell," the time when members show their sack finds and tell the story of how they found them.

Wednesday's lecture by Barbara Garrett of Pottstown, is "With a Mother's Love" a Historical Overview of Quilting — 1780 to 1940 illustrated with 47 doll quilts. Mrs. Garrett is a quilt historian who has served as a consultant to the quilt documentation projects in Schuylkill and York counties.

Thursday's lecture is "Seed Bags and the Companies Who Issued Them" by Ron Bennett, of Victor, N.Y. Mr. Bennett will talk about the "seamless bags" that helped build America.

Friday's lecture is about the collection of Anna and Roger Westcott. Anna and Roger have been collecting feedsack items for more than seven years. Their collection includes over 3,500 sacks, a clown costume, dolls (one with straw stuffing) and numerous household items. The Wesdtcott's collection will also be displayed throughout the convention in the vendor area. Saturday's lecture is a book signing and the showing of a film on Cotton Fields by noted feedsack author Anna Luc Cook.

Day admission to the convention is $1 for non-members. Hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4. Evening lectures begin at 7 p.m. and admission is $3 for non-members.

HELPING CHILDREN DEAL WITH DIFFERENCES

What parent hasn't had to explain to their child why someone else seems different to them? The difference could be in skin color or physical limitations. The best way to help children deal with differences is to respond to their questions promptly, give simple answers and model respectful behavior.

If you ignore questions, a child may decide there's something wrong about the question or the person in question. If your answers are too complicated, the child will never understand. If the child sees parents who, themselves, lack respect for people with differences, the youngster likely will emulate this behavior. In addition to the above ideas, parents can use books to help children deal with differences, an approach that may seem less frightening to young children. Two recommended books are "Talking about Differences Children Notice," by Elizabeth Cary and "Reaching Potentials Through Anti-Bias, Multicultural Curriculum," by Louise Derman-Sparks.

QUESTION — Jean Imm, Reisterstown, Md., is interested in finding a red paper back Spry cookbook printed in the 1950s or 1960s that contains a recipe for Heritage Nut Cake.

QUESTION — Robert Rauhauser, Thomasville, is a researcher and historian and would like to know if some one might have some old round Hinkle's Easter dye bottles to complete a display of Egg Dyeing Apparatus. The dyes came six in a carton. He writes that the dyes were patented Aug. 24, 1943, which is amazing since raw materials and all efforts were going in to support the war effort. Rauhauser understands that the dyes were invented by a York County man from Wrightsville by the name of Raymond Young, who probably assigned his invention to the Hinkle Drug Store in Columbia. Hinkle's continue to sell egg dyes in square bottles, but Rauhauser wants the round bottles, the box they came in, and information on the inventor Young or the first Hinkle's Drug Store.

ANSWER — A Snyder County subscriber wanted to know where to purchase a Reed's Rocket Nut Cracker Model #816. Thanks to Sally Reinoehl, Valley View, who wroted that she purchased one from the Stark Brother's catalog last year. The item is listed on page 32 of their new '98 spring book. The toll-free number is 1-800-325-4180.

ANSWER — Jo Marie Snyder, New Bloomfield, wanted to know how to sex chickens and ducks before they are grown. Thanks to N. Mayer, Dalton, for recommending the a book written by Murry McMurry called "Sexing All Birds," catalog #775. The cost is $8.75 and available by calling 1-800-456-3280.

ANSWER — Paul Maulfair, Jonestown, wanted to know the color of "The Daisy," a one row corn planter made in York by Hench & Doromgold. Thanks to Raymond Imes, who writes the Daisy was red and yellow with yellow handles on the metal part and the corn box was red with the name Hench and Dromgold in yellow.

ANSWER — Dorothy Martin, Conestoga, wanted to know if anyone knows where she can get repairs on Lifetime Cookware. Thanks to Thelma Blank for writing that whenever she had a broken handle or other minor problems, she wrote to the Customer Service Dept., West Bend Co., West Bend, WI 53095. Within a couple of weeks they send a new pan.

ANSWER — For Nancy Wallace who collects miniature anvils, John Los, York, writes that he has a 10-ounce brass anvil for 25 years that he will part with. He doesn't know how old it is but it was not new when he received it. Call him at (717) 741-0274. He is heading for Dowington on April 5, and will drop it off if preferred.

ANSWER — Wesley Martin, Lebanon, wanted the words to the song "Swinging 'Neath the Old Apple Tree," and to the poem "I'm Hiding, I'm Hiding, but no one knows where. . . ." Thanks to Fannie Beiler, Lancaster, and to Glenna Eisentrant, Bruceton Mill, W.V. for sending words.

Swinging 'Neath The Old Apple Tree

Swinging 'Neath The Old Apple Tree/O, the sports old childhood, roaming thru the wildwood/ running o'er the meadows, happy and free/But my hearts a beating, for the old-time greeting/ Swinging neath the old, neath the old apple tree.

Chorus: Swaying in the sunbeams, floating in the shadows, sailing on the breezes, happy and free/chasing out the sadness, shouting in our gladness/swinging 'neath the old, 'neath the old apple tree.

O, the sports of childhood, roaming thru the wildwood/ swinging o'er the meadows, happy and free. How my hearts a beating, for the old-time greeting/swinging 'neath the old, 'neath the old apple tree.

Hiding

I'm hiding. I'm hiding/And no one knows where; For all they can see is my toes and my hair.

And I just heard my father say to my mother—"But, darling, he must be somewhere or other;"

Have you looked in the inkwell?"

And Mother said, "Where?"

"In the inkwell," said Father. But I was not there.

Then, "Wait!" cried my mother—

"I thing that I see him under the carpet." But it was not me.

"Inside the mirror's a pretty good place," said Father and looked, but saw only his face.

"We've hunted," signed Mother, "As hard as we could. And I AM so afraid that we've lost him for good."

Then I laughed out aloud. And I wiggled my toes. And Father said—"Look, dear, I wonder if those Toes could be Benny's. There are 10 of them. See?" And they WERE so surprised to find out it was me!

ANSWER — Sandy Sheffer, Glen Rock, wanted a recipe for homemade soap made with goat's milk. Thanks to a reader who sent in a recipe formerly clipped from this column. Reminder to readers: Clip out information that you think you might use later. This recipe is also works with cow's milk.

Goat Milk Soap

3 pints cold goat milk
1 can lye
5 pounds lard
4 tablespoons Borax
2 cups ground oatmeal
2 ounces glycerine
1 dram scented oil (without alcohol), optional

Mix lye into milk by sprinkling slowly over a 30-minute time period. Have bowl on pot holder as the mixture will become very hot. Milk will turn orange. Cool to 85 degrees.

Warm lard to 85 degrees. Mix lard and all other ingredients gradually, stirring slowly. Oatmeal can be ground in blender until powdered. Separate with a flour sifter and measure.

Pour soap into a lined box. Allow to set 24 hours before cutting into bars. Keep soap covered with a cloth or blanket. This soap must cure at least 3 weeks before wrapping. Aging is very important because soon after the soap is made there is still lye in it, so you must be careful when handling it. (When lye and fat are brought together under the right conditions, they react to make soap. This process is called saponification). Additional information on soap making the very best place to age soap is near a woodstove and keep moving the box father away every few days. This allows a gradual temperature decline. Also, be sure to use only stainless steel or glass bowls and a wooden spoon or stick.

ANSWER — T. Faber, Boonville, would like to find Dark Tower Games, a battery-powered Castle made by Milton Bradley early 1980s.

ANSWER — John Los, York, had questions about the SBR-16 ham radio receiver. Thanks to John Telford W3TJ of 16 Bond St., Swampscott, MA 01907, for writing that he would be happy to answer John's questions.

ANSWER — D. Hanson, Fork, Md., wants a source for a denim chore jacket manufactured by Caboose Works of New Hampshire or by any manufacturer that uses snap fasteners rather than the usual button/button hole fasteners. Thanks to M. Martin, Lebanon, who writes that her husband and son got a jacekt at Tractor Supply Co. (TSC) with snap fastners. They were excellent farm jackets and were made by Eagles Ridge Outfitters. TSC is located in Lebanon at 720 Quention Rd.. Phone (717) 274-2106 and also Hartman Bridge Rd. in Strasburg.

ANSWER — Evan Wiedman, Newville, wanted the address and phone number for Landis Valley Farm Museum. It is 2451 Kissel Hill Rd., Lancaster, PA 17601. Call (717) 569-0401.

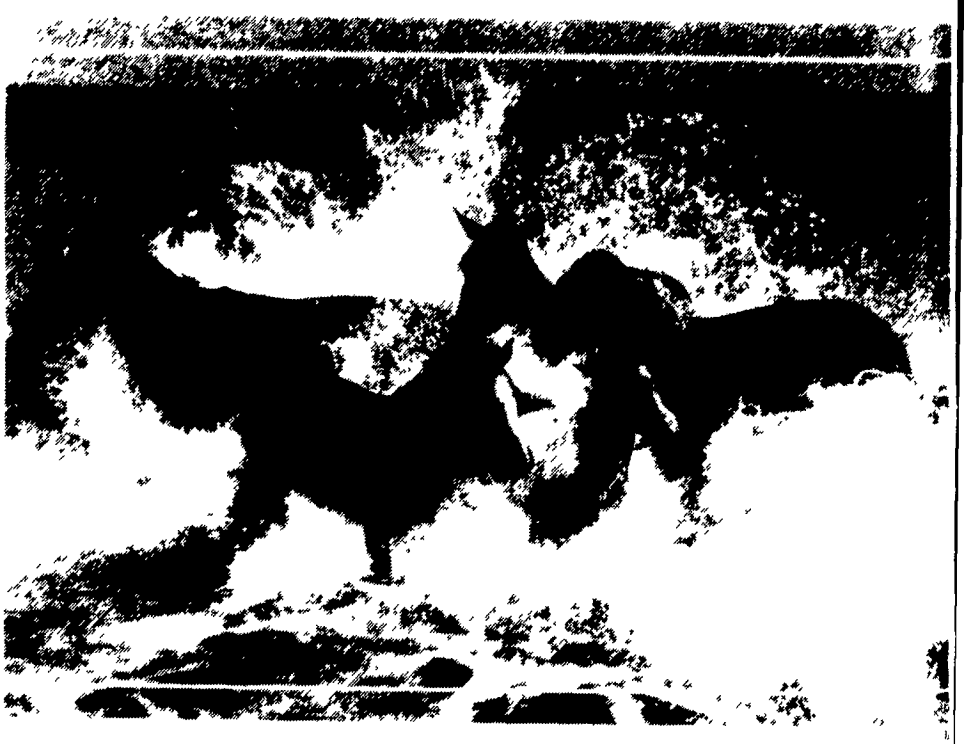
Write to her at 21 District Lane, Port Deposit, MD 21904.

ANSWER — Daniel Yonosh, Slatington, would like to know where to purchase liquid crow repellent or a homemade formula that is used to treat seed corn, which deters birds from eating the seed when planted. Thanks to N. Mayer, Dalton, who writes that the use of turpentine works very well, just coat the seeds in turpentine and plant.

Book Report

ASSATEAGUE



BY ANDREA JAUCK & LARRY POINTS

Wild ponies and Asateaque Island have been well know to young readers since the 1948 publication of Marguerite Henry's classic book, Misty of Chincoteaque. Today, the island and the ponies are under the protection of conservationists who keep this living history preserved for future generations.

In a new book Assateaque, Island of the Wild Ponies, Andrea Jauck and Larry Points have captured for children this beautiful story in color photographs and copy that reviews again a close up view of these wonderful ponies and their island homeland. Published by Tellurian Press, Inc. In the fall of 1997, this 9' x 9' soft cover edition is packed with more than 60 full color photographs in 32 pages.

If you like wild ponies, outstanding photography, and natural settings, you'll like this nicely done book. The cost is $7.95. To order call 1-800-582-2665.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Do you get frustrated when you can't find an important paper or even something as simple as a coupon that you just cut from the newspaper? Lately I've been hunting for an old paper that I simply cannot find.

Now I do keep things rather organized, I think, but sometimes they do get lost. Not only do I keep newspaper clippings, but my ancestors did the same. There are boxes of obituaries and even entire newspapers that noted important events.

I have discovered copies of half a dozen wills that were made generations ago. There are boxes of advertising cards and postcards. Even programs from a one-room school that no longer stands. Some things are in good shape and others are not.

Stored away was a 1923 booklet on an Overland car and another on a binder purchased about 1920. A beautiful emblem to put on a car is in its original envelope. Of course, there are almanacs and tiny notebooks that were never used. A few books of records are among the boxes of papers.

There was even a well used old pipe at the bottom of the pile. But, the paper that I was hunting was nowhere to be found.

We like to invite our grandchildren for meals. It is interesting to see what their favorite foods are. Some like hot dogs while others prefer chicken. They are good little eaters and I appreciate that. We wipe up spills and sweep the floor after meals but that is a small price to pay for their presence. The three grandchildren on the farm are the only ones, out of our 14, that we can watch as they grow up.

Composting Bin

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) – If you are a gardener, you may already know the answer. If you have a compost pile or heap, you already understand. If you thought they all belong in the garbage, wait!

Each of these things represents an ingredient that can be added to a compost pile, to contribute nutrients back to the soil. No matter which way you answered the question, there is an easy way for you to learn more about composting, and earn yourself a $25 bonus in the process.

It's simple. Call the Recycling Education Program at (610)489-4315 to request a "Bin In Your Neighborhood" (BIN) composting quiz, along with educational materials on composting (only Montgomery County residents are eligible.) You can pass the BIN quiz by reading through the handouts. If you are unfamiliar with composting it might take you about an hour to go over the information. Folks who already have composting experience may simply need a brief review to pass the quiz.

Any Montgomery County resident who completes and returns a successful quiz to the Recycling Education Program will receive a $25 BIN coupon redeemable at eleven area retailers and three mail order companies. The $25 can be used to purchase building materials (from specified materials list) to build a bin, or put towards the purchase price of a pre-built bin.

To make a pre-built bin an affordable choice, the Recycling Education Program has also worked out arrangements to distribute several hundred pre-built bins to BIN coupon holders this spring at an incredibly reasonable cost. The "Home Composter" retails for $70. The wholesale price for BIN coupon holders is $35. Combine that with a $25 BIN coupon and your cost to purchase this sturdy bin is just $10! To take advantage of this offer, you must have a BIN coupon, and you must use it to order your Home Composter bin by April 29th (offer available to Montgomery County residents only).

Food Safety Course

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) – Does your church group, fire company or public organization serve meals to a crowd? Penn State Extension is offering a food safety program for cooks, servers, and organizers on the basics of safe food handling practices. This refresher could make the difference between a great fundraiser and a food poisoning outbreak that could damage your group's reputation and finances.

Susan Fisher, family and consumer sciences consultant master food handler, will be the instructor. The topics will include: causes of foodborne illness, preventing foodborne illness, time and temperature control, carryouts, handling leftovers, working with other volunteers, kitchen politics, handling large quantities, personal hygiene, cleaning and sanitizing, and hazards to safe foods.

The workshops are scheduled on April 1, from 1:00 - 4:00 p.m. or 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the Berks County Agricultural Center. The cost is $5 which includes a manual or $2.50 without the manual if part of a group registration. Pre-registration is required. Mail your check (made payable to: Berks County Cooperative Extension Special Account) along with your name and address to: Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, 1238 County Welfare Road, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT THE HERD: In 1991, the Reeds purchased 100 Cows from the Concord Ridge Herd, went on test, Bred A-I and selectively used a good Registered Bull, went on a monthly Herd Check & Vacc. program. No BST Used - No animals have ever shown signs of Johne's or Leukosis. Herd was off test for approx. 1 yr. and are now back on official test After much thought, the Reeds have decided to change occupations and are offering their two farms for sale through a realtor, 200 acres with Dairy Set-up and 200 acres with Heifer facilities.

HOLSTEIN DAIRY HERD • MACHINERY • HAY & STRAW

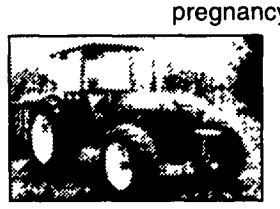
Saturday, April 4, 1998 • 11:00 a.m.

Union City, PA

Directions: Sale to be held at the farm on Lyons Road located off Route 6 approx. 4 miles east of Union City and 8 miles west of Corry, PA. Will be well marked!

38 AI Sired & Bred Holsteins 38

Harold has culled hard, having reduced his herd from over 70 head in the past year down to 38 of the best, sound, young cows. The herd is tie stall housed. Herd health is excellent. Vaccinations are current. Herd will be rechecked for pregnancy and milk weights recorded within 10 days of sale.



Perhaps, the cleanest line of owner/operated farm machinery to sell this spring

Free Food For All Dairy Farmers

I NEED 80 GOOD DAIRY C0WS

I need lots of open cows. I still need about 80 more. Save my phone number as I only run this add once or twice a month. Please tell your neighbors to call my Toll-Free number. I keep hearing about Dairymen who sold some real good cows for meat because they couldn't get them pregnant, and then they found out I need open cows. I pay a little more then meat price and you save hauling, auction fee and shrinkage. Help spread the word before your best friend sells his best cow for meat. Give him a chance to buy her back pregnant to a top bull. I will get her pregnant or I will pay you double. I will give you a chance to buy her back. So far all of the cows I tried got pregnant. It is hard to beat a 100% average. Due to the price of feed I can only take the ones that are better then average cows. I am also looking for a farm where I can keep more cows.

NEWS

Special Registry Prices Still In Effect

BRATTLEBORO, Vt - Special lower fees on registry work are still in effect at the Holstein Association However, many of these special prices are available for a limited time only, so producers need to take advantage of them quickly

Special Registry Pricing

From January 1, 1998 through June 30, 1998, Special Registry Pricing will be in effect to encourage breeders to stay caught up on regular registry activity The State & National and National member rates are much lower than current fees for older animals During this six-month period fees will be as follows

Age	State & National	National	Non-Member
Under 3 mos	$ 6	$ 12	$ 18
3-5 mos	$ 10	$ 15	$ 20
6-8 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 25
9-11 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 30
12-14 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 35
15-17 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 40
18-20 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 45
21-23 mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 50
24 + mos	$ 15	$ 20	$ 100 Females $ 200 Males (plus blood-typing expenses to verify parentage) Dead Females over 23 months = $10 (regardless of membership status)

Start-Up Program

Fees for starting new animals in the redesigned herdbook are very favorable To receive these fees, you must be a National Member The Start-Up fees are $6 per animal, regardless of age The Association will do a computer search to find ancestors for an additional $1 per animal being applied for This can increase the % RHA of the animal being applied for If the search uncovers Registered or Qualified animals in the lineage, then Recovery fees apply However, from January 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998 a cap of $50 will be placed on registering an animal and its maternal ancestors as part of the Start-Up Program

Recovery Program

The Herd Catch-Up program expired on December 31, 1997 Effective January 1, 1998 through June 30, 1998, a new Recovery Program will be in effect for breeders to recover animals that they have not registered on a timely basis Unlike the previous Catch-Up Program, breeders do not have to register all animals to qualify for these special prices The fees for the new Recovery Program, which are very favorable, are as follows

Age	State & National Member	National Member
Under 3 mos	$ 6	$ 12
3-5 mos	$ 10	$ 15
6-8 mos	$ 15	$ 20
9 + mos	$ 15	$ 20

This program provides incentives to catch up on registry activity The discounts from historical fees are significant There is a $50 cap when registering an animal and its maternal ancestors However, the Recovery Program and the $50 cap are only available from January 1, 1998 through June 30, 1998

Reinstatement Program

Holstein Association USA now has a program for reinstating cows that have been canceled to avoid classification Under this program the fees to reinstate a cow that was canceled are

State & National Member	$15
National Member	$20
Non-Member	$30

Offspring of canceled cows that are reinstated can be registered based on Recovery Program prices through June 30, 1998 After that date, the fees will revert to the higher, regular registry fees So, breeders should apply to get animals reinstated and offspring registered prior to June 30, 1998

For further details, call the Holstein Association at 1-800-952-5200 There's no better time than now to get involved with Registered Holsteins!

Reinstating Canceled Registration Adds Pedigree Value

BRATTLEBORO, Vt - Adding value to pedigrees is one reason why Excelsior Farms in Corona, Calif, decided to reinstate a cow they had canceled almost eight years ago Exranco Bachelor Comet, canceled in 1990, recently became the first cow to have her registration reinstated in the Holstein Association's herdbook, thanks to a program approved by the Board of Directors in November

Dan Ranney, Excelsior general manager and president, said he started the reinstatement process as soon as he heard the program had been voted on by Board members "Reinstating this cow fills out a very deep pedigree," he said, "and it certainly adds value to her daughters and granddaughters"

One of the daughters is Exranco Thor Cozy, born in December 1989 An EX-95 cow who had tremendous success in the showring on the national level, she was nominated All-American Four-Year-Old in 1994, Five-Year-Old in 1995, and Aged Cow in 1997 She was also nominated All-Canadian in 1997

Ranney said Exranco Bachelor Comet's registration was canceled after being classified 75 as a two-year-old in February 1990 At that time, a dispersal of the Registered herd was planned for May He said many of the cows in the milking herd were canceled so they could remain in the herd "We canceled a lot of the lower-scoring cows and were going to milk them as grades," he said

He added that it was probably "poor judgement" that they canceled that particular cow "We just went down the list and canceled a bunch without really looking at what their future prospects were," he said Comet had a lifetime production record of 159,302 pounds of milk, including two records of more than 30,000 pounds of milk Her last lactation was 7-6 365d 33,995 3 5 % 1175 3.2 % 1095

Excelsior later re-identified Comet as an Identified Holstein Female As an IHF, her final score was VG-85 T. is score will appear on her pedigree and other official information Ranney credits Joe Hoffman, herd manager, with much of the legwork in getting Exranco Bachelor Comet's registration reinstated

Now that Exranco Bachelor Comet has been reinstated, Exranco Thor Cozy completes 10 generations of VG or EX cows Ranney admits the score adds "quite a bit" to the pedigree, and noted Cozy has a VG two-year-old that will be the 11th generation

Under the new reinstatement program, state and national members can reinstate a canceled cow for $15, national members for $20, and non-members for $30 Offspring of canceled cows that are reinstated can be registered based on Recovery Program prices through June 30, 1998 After that date, the fees will revert to the higher, regular registry fees For more information, call the Holstein Association at 800-952-5200

Look For An Easy Way To Save $40

BRATTLEBORO, Vt - Holstein breeders who submit registry applications using the latest version of EASY (Electronic Application System) will receive a $2 per animal discount (up to a maximum discount of $40) This special discount offer is good through June 30, 1998.

This is a one-time offer for breeders who begin using EASY for Windows 3 0 or EASY for DOS 3 0 It applies to new EASY users and to those who upgrade from older versions of EASY (for example Windows 2 0 and DOS 2 3)

EASY is the Holstein Association's free IBM-compatible software program that allows producers to automate the identification process using their on-farm PC, eliminating paper applications. Producers using EASY can simply mail a diskette containing the necessary information to the Holstein Association.

The innovative computer software program also is compatible with all of the ID options: photos, sketches, Tag ID, Tag 'N Tattoo, and Tag 'N Freezebrand It is capable of reading from other heifer management files to speed up the identification process

The changes contained in EASY 3 0 were made to facilitate the American ID numbering system and the new herdbook structure Therefore, it is important that producers begin using the new versions The discount is intended to encourage swift adoption and compensate producers for having to re-enter set-up information

To obtain a copy of EASY 3 0, please call 1-800-952-5200

Seminar Presents Benefits Of Upright Silos

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The Crop Storage Institute from Lafayette, Indiana, held a forage and storage seminar for the agricultural media, bankers, county agents, and a few farmers. The benefits of upright silos were presented from research conducted at two separate universities.

Experts spoke about the long-range advantages of having the more expensive upright systems, which can go a long way to make up their initial investment costs by providing less dry matter (DM) losses, better feed, improved inventory control, and ultimately better milk, and beef production.

Mary Kay Siefers, graduate research assistant with Kansas State University Department of Animal Science, and Brian J. Holmes, extension ag engineer with the College of Ag and Life Sciences, University of Wisconsin-Madison, spoke recently at the Double Tree Club Hotel.

For corn silage, an upright or tower silo can return as much as 90 percent DM content, with 10 percent or less spoilage. Under best management strategies, according to the graduate research assistant, for upright silos the average is about 4 percent DM loss at "maximum," she said.

Siefers indicated that the key to any feed storage system is to provide "forage in — silage out, quality and quantity," she said. The presentation, she said, is from a "silage maker's perspective — getting the best quality feed to the animal."

For "perfect silage," it's also important to use an additive, she noted. She recommends an inoculant. An inoculant used on corn silage provides a $3-$4 return for every $1 invested, she noted, in dry matter recovery and quality. Using an inoculant for haylage provides an even better return — $6-$8 for every $1 invested.

Put an inoculant in every structure, Siefers told the producers.

Brian J. Holmes, extension ag engineer from the University of Wisconsin, compared various costs between different storage systems, including new glass-line steel towers, rebuilt steel towers, cast-in-place towers, concrete stave towers, above-ground bunkers, packaged silage piles, plastic baggers, and wrapped bales.

When deciding on a storage system, Holmes believes producers use the capital investment as a deciding factor. He said, "My concern is that the capital cost is not necessarily the cost the producer pays."

Importantly, the long-term benefits of having an upright can provide improved economic benefits in keeping the silage or forage clean and dry, away from elements that will reduce DM content of the stored feed.

Dry matter losses, in his research, were low — 6 percent for either the steel/glass towers or the cast-in-place towers. Drew Freeman, president of the Crop Storage Institute noted that new manufacturing technology can produce some large upright storage systems. Tower silos can be built to 40 feet by 120 feet at a capacity of 5,087 tons.

There is also a misconception that when loading silos, you can't go fast with uprights, according to Freeman. But he showed examples of a Wisconsin producer using trucks to dump the material in windrows, which are then scooped up and blown inside. This "dump and go" filling worked to load the silos quickly.

Freeman said there are 20 members of the Institute nationwide and in Canada. This is the second such forum conducted, the first time in this part of the country. There is a large base of silo companies in Pennsylvania and New York, he noted.

Dairy Of Distinction Program Again Seeks Nice Looking Farms

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) - Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy of Distinction Program of Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey, will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program that oversees the Distinction program was first started in 1983 in Pennsylvania to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by the farm.

The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas, and manure management are all areas taken into consideration when a team of judges takes a look at your farm from a roadside point of view. Judging is conducted during the month of May. Award winners are announced during your local June Dairy Month activities.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk.

Applications are available for Pennsylvania dairy farms from Michael O'Conner, 324 Henning Building, Dept. of Dairy and Animal Science, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802. Phone: (814) 863-3913.

For New York State applications are available from Carol Keene, RD 1, Box 31, Gilbertsville, NY 13776. Phone: (607) 783-2169.

For New Jersey applications, send to: August Knispel, 641 Sidney Road, Pittstown, NJ 08867. Phone: (908) 735-4989.

All applications must be completed and returned to your state secretary by Wednesday, April 15, 1998.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program in cooperation with many local agribusiness organizations. The program is conducted with advice and help from Penn State Cooperative Extensi.on.

Dairy of Distinction 1998 Pennsylvania Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to submit an application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 21 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

Dairy of Distinction

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane) Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition.

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1) The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee
2) The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign
5) Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense
7). Judges' decisions will be final
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st
9) Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee.

Ayrshire Breeders Announce 1997 All-American Results

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The Ayrshire Breeders' Association recently announced its All-American senior and junior contest winners for 1997.

In the senior division of the ABA, there were 92 entries and the judges awarded 84 certificates, including seven All-American selections by unanimous decision.

Participants from 18 states and Canada were represented. Topping the states with the most winners was Wisconsin, with 17. New York was second with 12 All-Americans, while Ohio and Massachusetts both had eight.

For the third consecutive year, Bonnie Brae Kellogg was recognized for siring the most All-American selections. Nine of his daughters made the cut for distinction in the contest, with three named All-American, one named Reserve All-American, two receiving Honorable Mention, and three nominated, which is considered a distinction.

Of the Junior members' contest, there were 56 certificates awarded, and five of those received unanimous selection by the judges.

There were also 18 states represented in the Junior contest. Wisconsin youth also had the most certificates awarded, with 10. There were nine Ohio youth who received certificates, and eight Pennsylvania youth.

In the Junior division contest, the Kellogg bull tied with Bonnie Brae Heligo for having the most daugthers receiving recognition. Each bull was represented had five certificate-winning daughters.

In both of the contests, the least amount of points an animal receives from the judging committee is ranked the highest. An All-American vote equals 1 point; a reserve vote equals 2 points; honorable mention 3 points; and nomination vote gets 6 points.

Signs License Agreements

LINCOLN, Neb. — NC+ Hybrids has signed license agreements with Monsanto Company to market biotechnology products in corn and soybeans, announced NC+ Research and Product Development Director Ted Givens.

The agreement allows NC+ to market YieldGard® insect protected corn hybrids with resistance to corn borer.

"We currently have several YieldGard insect protected corn hybrids in winter production," said Givens. "If all goes well, seed from these hybrids will be available for our customers to plant this spring."

In addition to YieldGard, the agreement with Monsanto allows NC+ to also market Roundup Ready® corn and soybeans.

"We already have several Roundup Ready soybean varieties in our product lineup," said Givens. "We're working hard to develop. Roundup Ready corn hybrids which could be available as soon as 1999."

"Monsanto's agreements with NC+ are part of Monsanto's continuing commitment to make its corn and soybean biotechnology traits available to growers through a broad range of germplasm and a diversity of seed companies," said Robb Fraley, co-president of Monsanto's AG Sector. "We look forward to a long and productive relationship with NC+."

Station To Focus On Conventional Corn Research

DEKALB, Ill. — Dekalb Genetics officials held a "Meet the Manager/News Media Conference" in Washington Court House, Ohio, recently station in this southern Ohio community. The research staff at this station will be under the supervision of Dan Currier.

Prior to his arrival at Washington Court House, Currier was employed with Custom Farm Seed, a small regional seed company in Illinois, as a specialty corn breeder. He is a 1982 graduate of Illinois State University with a bachelor's degree in agronomy, a master's degree in entomology from the University of Nebraska, and he holds a doctorate in plant breeding from Iowa State University.

"The Washington Court House facility confirms Dekalb's commitment to be an ever increasing presence in this community and state," said Brent Godshalf, associate director of research for Dekalb. "Preparation is under way for this research station to establish a full-size breeding nursery (10,000 pollinated rows) and six outlying yield testing sites throughout southern Ohio and southeast Indiana."

The Washington Court House area was chosen because its geographic location represents the 110 - 115 relative maturity (RM) zone of the East. "In addition to providing the environment and its associated stresses typical of the East, we were pleased by the soil type and topography which is conducive to corn research," added Godshalk.

After canvassing much of southern Ohio, Dekalb officials selected Washington Court House as the best option. "This location allows a wide range of testing in surrounding environments," said Currier. "Testing will be conducted from the Scioto River Valley, to the east, to locations in southeastern Indiana. Locations will be chosen to accommodate sampling of major environments and to complement testing already being conducted at adjacent Dekalb corn research stations."

The start-up of the new research facility is proceeding at a rapid pace. "We're currently in the process of hiring additional employees," said Godshalk. "Our plans are to have this facility fully staffed by this summer." Initial staffing requirements call for five full-time employees and nearly 40 part-time and summer employees.

The Washington Court House facility will be Dekalb's second corn research station of this type in the state of Ohio. "Dekalb's other Ohio research station is located in Marion" said Currier. "The Marion station focuses on 105 and 110 RM hybrids." The Washington Court House research station will focus on 110 and 115 Rm hybrids.

Mid-Atlantic Farmers Produce Top State Corn Yields

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Three mid-Atlantic farmers have won top state honors from the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) 1997 Yield Contest by using products available exclusively from Hoffman Seeds.

Jacob Bilyk, Belvidere, won New Jersey's top honor by producing 235.06 bushels per acre. He used Maximizer 607 with KnockOut™ built-in corn borer control, a NK® Brand hybrid.

Tim Bishop, Queenstown, won Maryland's top honor by producing 219.27 bushels per acre. He used Novartis Seeds' Maximizer 454 Bt hybrid with KnockOut™ built-in corn borer control.

Richard Crone, Danville, won Pennsylvania's top honor by producing 213.34 bushels per acre. He used Novartis Seeds' N7639 Bt corn hybrid with YieldGard™ corn borer control.

Max 607 provides farmers with relative maturity of 115 days, high test weights and superb grain quality, drought and heat tolerance, excellent control of first-generation and strong control of second-generation ECB, excellent early vigor and growth, and excellent tip fill and husk coverage.

Max 454 provides farmers with relative maturity of 110 days, good drought and heat tolerance, excellent control of first- and very strong control of second-generation ECB, and excellent response to moderate plant populations.

N7639 Bt provides farmers with relative maturity of 115 days, excellent control of first- and second-generation European corn borer, superior plant health and standability, and maximum yields at moderate to high plant populations.

Maryland DHIA

The February Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

American Guernsey Association Announces 1997 All-American Winners

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Guernsey Association recently announced its slate of winning animals and owners in the annual All-American contest.

In the open division (adults and youth eligible), there was one unanimous winner out of 91 entries, and 15 of the awards were made to youth. There were 63 certificates issued.

By state, Wisconsin had the most animals recognized with 19 selected as All-American, Reserve, or Honorable Mention winners.

Individually, Four Winds Farm of Hartland, Wis., received the most winning certificates with 12 animals selected.

Sinder Homestead in New Enterprise, Pa., owned by Brad and Berneta Gable and family, had the second most All-American certificate winners, with five.

Lily Lane Penny Perfecto-ET was the sire with the most daughters recognized in individual classes in the contest. He had one All-American winner, two reserve, and four honorable mention winning daughters.

Sherman Victory Ellas Enhancer had three daugthers win with one receiving the only unanimous All-American designation, one with reserve and one honorable mention.

Participants represented 16 states, with Pennsylvania leading with 10 winners, followed by Wisconsin, New York and Kentucky, each with five.

The sires with the most daugthers winning recognition in the Junior division were Perfecto-Et and Solum Grand Henry, both with four winning daugthers.

In the American Guernsey Association contest, the animal with the most points is the winner. An All-American vote equals five points; reserve equals three points; honorable mention one point. Also, any entry receiving eight or more votes receives honorable mention.

Chesapeake Bay Foundation, D.U. Announce Wetlands, Riparian Buffer Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Chesapeake Bay Foundation and Ducks Unlimited announced this week a partnership effort to protect and enhance the bay and its watershed is well under way.

David Wise, program biologist, has been recently hired by the partnership and is to support work to restore wetlands and stream side, or riparian, habitats in the Susquehanna River Basin in Pennsylvania.

Wise's main task is to help interested farmers restore poorly drained agricultural land to its former wetland condition.

Wetlands play crucial roles in wildlife habitat and water quality. More than a third of the nation's troubled wildlife species rely on wetland habitats. Wetlands also trap sediments, remove pollutants such as excess nutrients, and help reduce flood damage.

"Many farmers already recognize that production from this land is marginal, and that if restored, the potential benefits to wildlife and water quality are substantial," said Jolene E. Chinchilli, Pa. executive director for Chesapeake Bay Foundation.

"As thoughtful stewards of their land, many farmers would be willing to restore these areas to wetlands if they had the resources to do so. My job is to provide those resources through financial assistance and technical support. It's a dream job really, working with people interested in doing good things," she said.

Enhancing riparian habitats is another focus of the position. The main tools for this work include fencing to control cattle access and the re-establishment of beneficial vegetation, especially trees and shrubs. Wise is to encourage landowners to provide riparian buffers by pointing out benefits, such as improved herd health or free fencing than can help in pasture management. Often, a landowner's decision is shaped as much by concern for the health of the land and other people.

"Nearly everyone knows that trees help keep streams clean and cool. Fewer people recognize the pressures on farmers today to make every acre produce, or their gift to society when they create stream side vegetated buffers," said Wise.

Hiring David Wise is the latest addition to Chesapeake Bay Foundation and Ducks Unlimited's ongoing efforts to conserve the resources of the bay and its watershed.

In May 1997, the two groups announced a 10-year, multi-million dollar initiative to restore 125,000 acres of wetlands and 1,500 miles of riparian buffers throughout the bay watershed.

Additional partners in the effort include the US Department of Agriculture's Natural Resource Conservation Service, US ish & Wildlife Service's Partners for Wildlife Program, Pa. Game Commission, California University of Pennsylvania, and others.

AGA Recognizes Top Lifetime Production

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Guernsey Association recently announced its living lifetime production award recipients.

The awards are presented to recognize the leading lifetime producers of the Guernsey breed based on official production records verified by the AGA.

The awards are to be presented during the AGA meeting March 26-30 at Louisville, Kentucky.

This year, topping the lifetime list for milk and protein for the second consecutive time is Herat O Gold Telestar Emily.

Emily's owners — .n and will receive the Liebers Trophy for her highest living lifetime milk record, and the Arnold Knight Award, that recognizes her as the highest living lifetime protein producer.

Currently owned by Pamela Walther Arnold of Waverly, Iowa, Emily was bred by Michael and Nancy Bingham and family, Plainfield, Iowa.

A daughter of Maurana Wis Telestar, she is classified Very Good-88, and for the contest consideration produced 214,340 pounds of milk, with 8,377 pounds of butterfat, and 7,323 pounds of protein.

For the second year in a row, the top butterfat producer is Level Gold Deacons Elna.

Bred by the late Eugene Jensen of Amery, Wis., she is currently owned by Lyle Jensen of Amery.

Elna is to receive the Valley Set Award in recognition of top lifetime butterfat production.

A Wistar Deacon daughter, Elna has lifetime records of 193,576 pounds of milk, 9,985 pounds of butterfat, and 6,997 pounds of protein. She was classified an Excellent-91 at 9 years, 8 months of age.

To be considered for the award, the cow must be alive by Dec. 31 of the year preceding, and have been in production on official test during a portion of that year.

Kahle Named President Of Dekalb Swine Breeders

DEKALB, Ill. — Dekalb Genetics Corporation officials announced that Roy L. Poage, president of Dekalb Swine Breeders, Inc. and a longtime innovator in the swine industry, is retiring.

Poage, 65, has been associated with Dekalb and its predecessor companies since 1961. Succeeding Poage is Gary L. Kahle, 48, executive vice president and a 25-year employee of Dekalb Swine Breeders.

"We are grateful for all the contributions Roy has made over the years," said Bruce P. Bickner, Dekalb's chairman and chief executive officer. "under his direction, Dekalb Swine Breeders has become a top supplier of hybrid swine breeding stock and the performance leader in creating total carcass value.

"With Gary Kahle, the leadership of Dekalb Swine Breeders will be in very capable hands," said Bickner.

Kahle joined Dekalb Swine Breeders in 1972 as assistant manager of the production facility in McGirr, Ill. He held positions of increasing responsibility over the years in both research and sales and was named vice president of marketing and operations in 1991. He was promoted to executive vice president in 1996. Kahle has a bachelor of science degree in animal science from Illinois State University.

Poage, a native of Plainview, Texas, was raised on a livestock farm and has been involved in the swine breeding business his entire career. He and his father-in-law, Euel Liner, formed the Liner and Poage Partnership in 1959 to develop and produce breeding stock. In 1961, the founded Lubbock Swine Breeders, which was one of the first specific pathogen-free (SPF) herds in the United States. The company was a pioneer in swine genetics and management practices, including the All In/All Out concept and the use of slotted floors.

Lubbock Swine Breeders merged with Dekalb in 1972 and Poage joined the company as general manager of swine operations. He was named president of Dekalb Swine Breeders in 1980.

Poage is a past president of the Texas Pork Producers and the Texas SPF Association and past chairman of the emergency disease committee of the Livestock Conservation Institute. He developed the basic design of a breeding and gestation building in 1964, which is used today in many confinement facilities throughout the United States.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations We save 1½ - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow'

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins – Horicon Wisconsin

"We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms – Narvan Ontario, Canada

"We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 miling We owned a 4-auger midxer before Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration '

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers – Newbury, Pennsylvania

"We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two-thirds "

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms – Valders, Wisconsin

The 3000 Series KNIGHT Reel Auggie® is available in tow, truck, and stationary models.

Mixing capacities from 147-600 cubic feet.

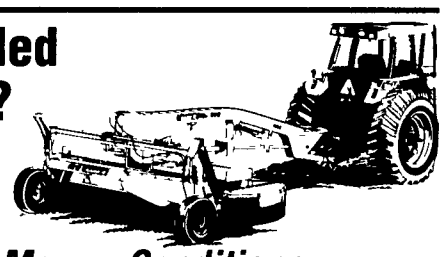
Down And Tangled Undergrowth? No Problem!



Case IH Disc Mower Conditioner

Non-stop cutting for higher productivity

- Clean cut at higher ground speeds
- Faster cutting in dense or tangled crops and over obstacles
- Overhead frame design allows unrestricted crop flow
- Automatic roll separating system eliminates plugging

Designed, tested and manufactured by Case IH at its Hesston, Kansas facility

Fits the way you farm

- 9' side-pull of 12' and 15' center-pivot cutting widths available
- Choice of intermeshing conditioner rolls to match your needs
- Quick-convert from field to transport mode

Along with dependable mower conditioners, you can count on us for genuine Case IH parts, professional and reliable service support and flexible financing

The disc design provides for fast cutting in the most adverse conditions–dense undergrowth, tangled prairie grass, rocks, animal obstacles (gopher mounds, ant hills, etc)

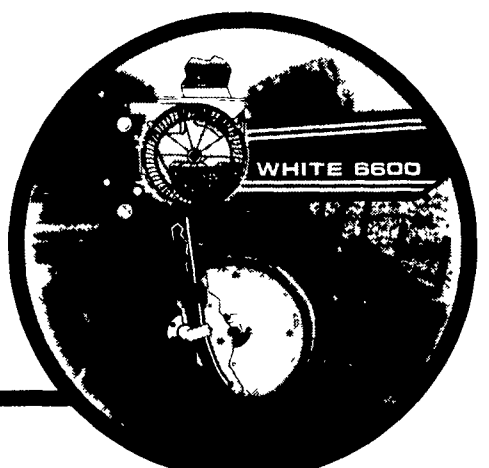
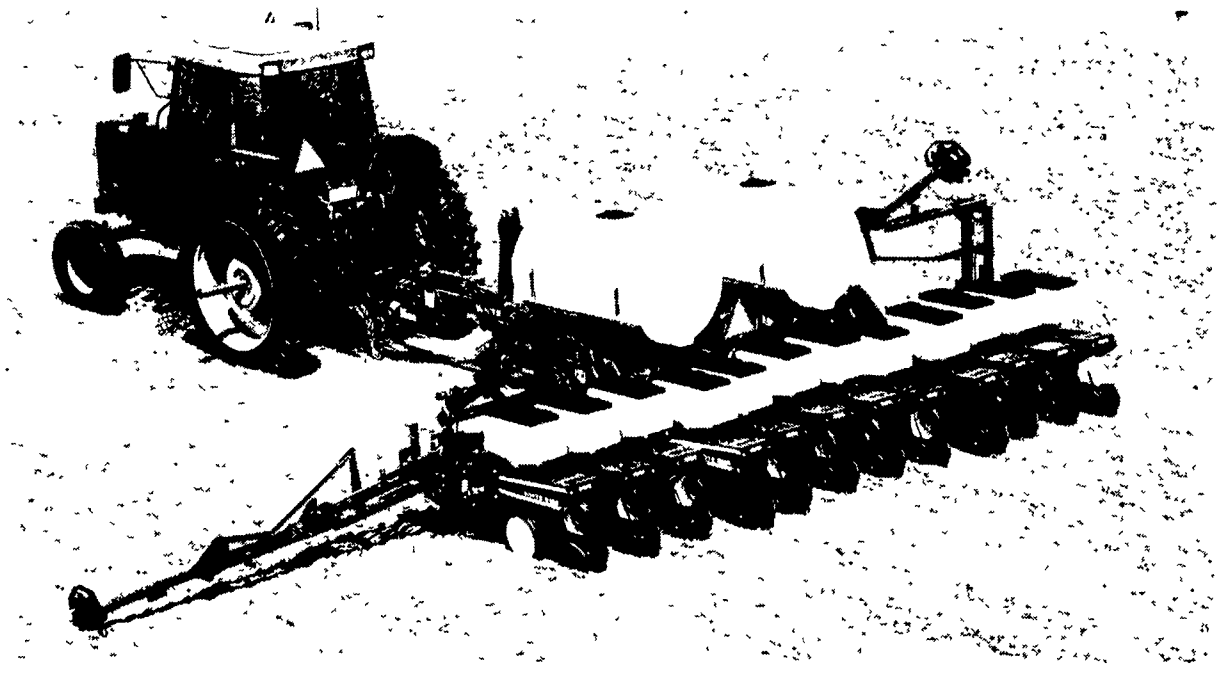
Narrow Rows, Narrow Transport, Wider Options.



The New 6512/6515 Narrow-Row Planters With Variable Rate Seeding



Fine-tune your narrow row program for higher yields, plus open your options for variable rate seeding, liquid fertilizer and more.

The 6512 lets you plant 12 rows at 20 or 22 inches. The 6515 plants 15 rows at 15 inches – or you can lock up the interplants for 8 rows at 30 inches.

Both models feature wing-fold frame design that folds to an unbelievable transport width of 14'8", even with fertilizer tanks in place. And the telescoping tongue extends in transport mode for extra room between tractor and planter while on the road.

Both models let you adjust plant populations "on-the-go" using White's exclusive infinitely variable seed rate controller So you can match seed rates to soil and nutrients available.

See your White dealer today for all the details on these narrow-row planters that are loaded with high-tech features.

KNIGHT

3000 Series Reel Auggie Mixer®

3000 SERIES REEL AUGGIES FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

Model 3170 Reel Auggie Mixer
with EZ 210 Scale
List Price $10,395
SPECIAL $8,832

- Blends by gently lifting, fluffing, and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough and end-to-end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or three auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted, and stationary units from 147 to 600 cubic feet

Simply . . . the Best

PICK CORN AND CHOP STALKS

At the Same Time with the Geringhoff Rota Disc Head

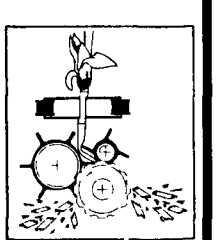
Here's how it works...

The Rota Disc technique allows the corn head to draw the corn plant in quickly through the stripping system not only stripping the plant but cutting the stalk into small pieces and delivering it to the bottom of the row.



Visit our web site at http://www.geringhoff-us.com

Fits all brand combines up to 12 row sizes!

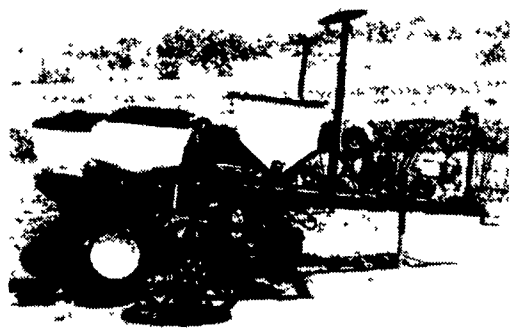
2, 3, 4, 6 Row PLANTERS



Accurate seed spacing and precise depth increase yield potential.

- Time-proven positive air metering system and edge drop seed discs gently singulate seeds to eliminate wasteful doubles.
- The short 18" seed drop makes seed spacing accurate.
- Consistent seed depth is assured through our independently operating walking beam gauge wheels... adjust in 1/8" increments.
- Low air pressure gently handles fragile seed coat.
- Fewer moving parts reduce maintenance and downtime.

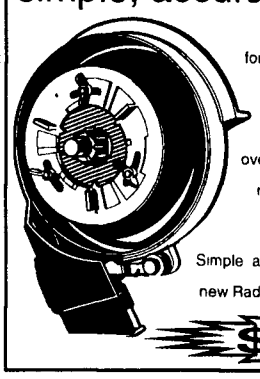
NEW! John Deere Exclusive

Only two moving parts - Innovative radial bean meter is simple, accurate and economical



Replacing your planter s soybean meter? Wait! Check out this exclusive new Radial Bean Meter (RBM) for John Deere Kinze Great Plains and New Idea Planters It offers much more than conventional feedcup meters more simplicity more accuracy more working life and it s more economical

There are just two moving parts a seed bowl that picks up single soybeans and a knockout wheel that pops oversized or incorrectly seated beans back into the reservoir It s the operating simplicity of these two moving parts that makes this meter last up to three times longer than current volume-type meters And minimal wear of the two moving parts means greater seeding accuracy over the meter s life

Simple accurate and economical with an extremely long wear life That s value But there s more! This revolutionary new Radial Bean Meter is actually priced below brush-type meters See us – and you'll see the savings

1 FARM EQUIPMENT

New Holland lets you bale wet or dry

If you want to make hay, straw or silage, look no further than the New Holland Model 644 Silage Special round baler. The "644" is filled with features you demand so you can bale the way you want:

- Bale-Slice™ option (on Fastnet™ mode) cuts the crop as the bale is being formed so it's easier to feed or grind
- Wide, floating pickup for large windrows
- Endless belts for added durability in tough crops

Stop in today and start rounding up your fields.

BROWN'S

DHI Rolling Herd Average - 76 Cows
29,102 Milk, 4.1% Fat, 3.1% Protein

Juniperdale Management Team

Working with F.M. Brown's since the early 1980's

(R to L)
Bob Fulmer
- CEO

Don Wunderlich
- Brown's Area Director

Brian Fulmer
- Crops Mgr.

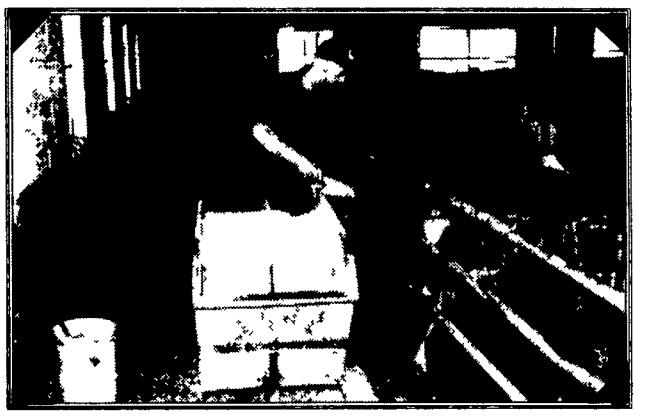
Mark Fulmer
- Dairy Mgr..

Our herd showed over a 5000 lb. increase this past year and that's impressive since we were at almost 24,000 lbs. of milk last Jan.

Award Winning Hay

Brian's crops are part of the increase. Last year at Ag Progress Days he won a blue ribbon for his Alfalfa. Forage Dry Matter generally exceeds 25 lbs or 55% of total dry matter intake.

Attention To Detail



Mark topdresses high cows individually to give each cow TLC (Tender Loving Care) and to reduce higher feed costs associated with single herd TMR's for high production herds.

Cow Longevity Pays The Bills

Juniperdale K. Elmer Priscilla - VG86 - 14 1/2 Yrs. Young Lifetime To Date

- 313,782 milk
- 10,936 lbs. fat
- 9,559 lbs. protein

On Brown's Feed's since she was a calf!

Brown's Keto Kurb Increases Milk Yield

Since we offered Keto Kurb to Dry & Fresh Cows, our peak lactation yields have really increased without using BST

Heifer average peak - 86 lbs
3 yr old average peak - 135 lbs
4 + yr. old average peak - 143 lbs

Our Keys To Improved Production

- Good weather for crops
- Good feed and a balanced feeding program
- Good cows fresh at the right time

BELARUS VALUE. IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE.

Introducing two big changes in how small jobs get done. The 8011 and 9011L offer all wheel drive and 4 lights and a cab that provide exceptional visibility and maneuverability. You'll be able to handle the same chores with more ease and comfort. But the big difference is the value you get for the money.

water cooled engine on the 9011L is rated to be charged 98 hp. Both engines have strong torque characteristics. Add a full up and you've got a utility tractor ideal for every type of operation from orchards and vineyards to poultry operations and grounds maintenance.

But the exceptional value doesn't stop there. The 8011L and 9011L offer excellent lift capacity for front end loader applications. Other impressive features include power assisted steering and a fully adjustable seat for operator comfort and convenience. Combined with their reputation for ease of maintenance and servicing, it's not hard to see how Belarus makes even the smallest job easier in a big way. That's Belarus value.

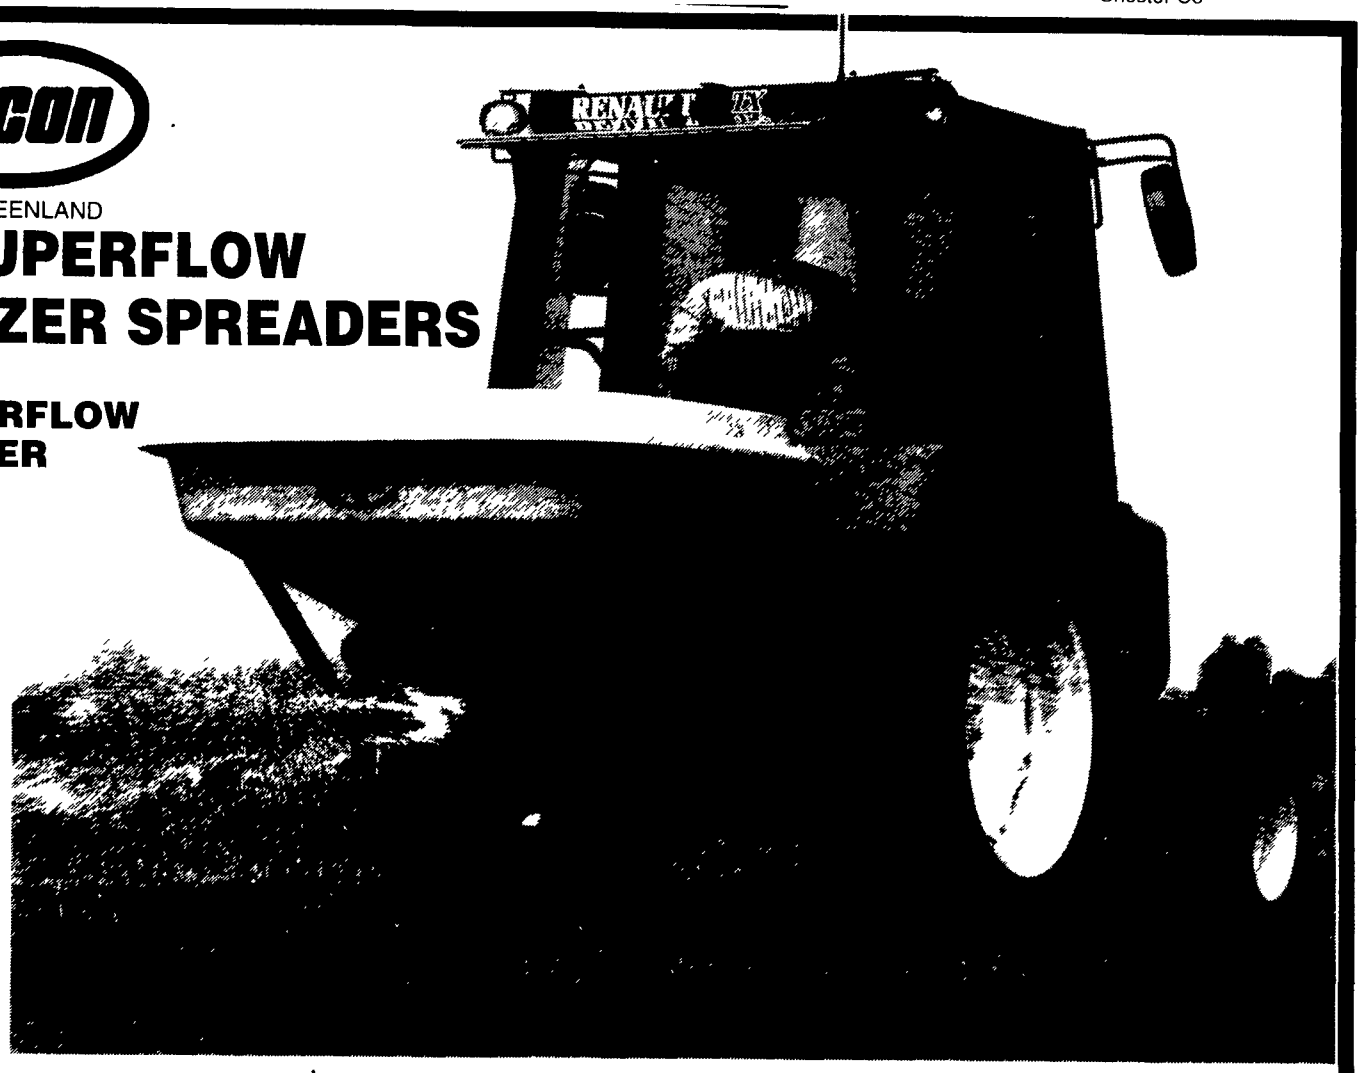
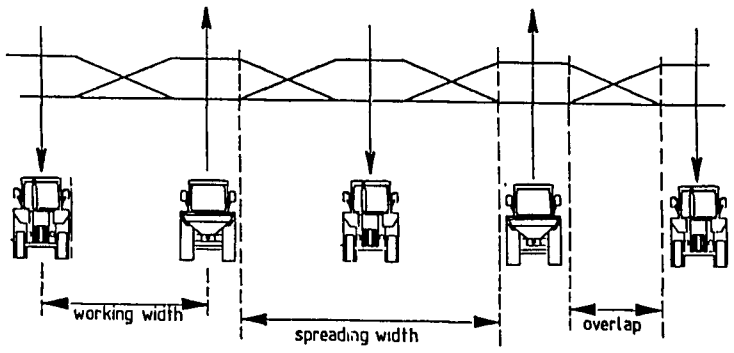
GREENLAND

SUPERFLOW FERTILIZER SPREADERS



Vicon SUPERFLOW SEEDER

Spreaders are the most accurate broadcast spreaders in the world. The unique pendulum action keeps the spread pattern close to the rear of the machine while at the same time providing a symmetrical pattern on both sides.

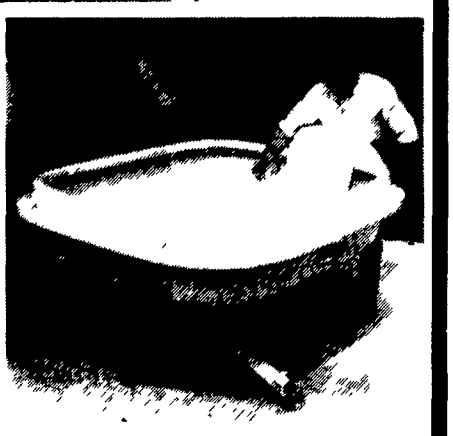


The pattern allows "back and forth" as well as "around and around" operation. The "truncated" pattern offsets inaccurate overlap problems, eliminating streaking.

Vicon

Seeder spreaders are easily calibrated for extremely accurate performance.

Rust free polyester hoppers, "DURA-COAT" enamel on painted components with stainless steel metering plates, precision adjustments, and a variety of spouts for a multitude of applications have earned Vicon Superflow seeder spreaders a world-wide reputation as the premier broadcast spreader.



Versatile Vicon spreaders band material in vineyards, orchards and nurseries, as well as spread lime, and salt and sand for winter use.

Insecticide Receives Alfalfa Label

WILMINGTON, Del. — Alfalfa growers have been granted a new tool in the fight against insects with the EPA registration of Warrior® insecticide from Zeneca Ag Products.

Warrior, a third-generation pyrethroid, offers fast knockdown and long-lasting control of alfalfa weevil, leafhoppers, and a variety of other alfalfa pests. Leaf lettuce and the brassica cole crops group (broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, and more) also was added to the Warrior label. Warrior controls the major pests on cole crops and lettuce including loopers, worms and plant bugs.

Third-generation pyrethroid chemistry provides faster knockdown, lower rates, and longer residual activity than earlier pyrethroids such as Ambuch® and Pounce®, said Tom Hashman, a marketing manager at Zeneca's headquarters in Wilmington, Del. Because it is used at extremely low rates and is relatively soft on beneficial insects, Warrior is compatible with integrated pest management (IPM) approaches to insect control.

Warrior has proven itself as top performer in field corn, sweet corn, onions, tomatoes, and vegetables, said Hashman. Warrior has also tackled alfalfa pests under a label for use on alfalfa grown for seed.

Warrior is labeled for control of many of the most damaging pests in alfalfa, including alfalfa weevil, leafhoppers, armyworms, cutworms, loopers, grasshoppers, and plant bugs. Unlike many insecticides, Warrior also controls many of the aphid species that attack alfalfa, and is also labeled for suppression of spider mites. Warrior controls eggs and larvae as well as adult pests for a wider window of application and broader activity.

Warrior is very compatible with current trends toward reducing the amount of crop protection products applied and practicing Integrated Pest Management, said Hashman. Rates are extremely low — as little as 0.015 pounds of active ingredient per acre. In addition, Warrior has very low toxicity to mammals and birds. The combination of low rates and low mammalian toxicity result in increased handler safety. Warrior is softer than other alfalfa insecticides on many beneficial insects and predatory mites. Also, as long as Warrior is applied when bees are not actively foraging, it can actually repel bees, reducing the chance of bee mortality.

Warrior can be applied by ground, air, or chemigation. Treated alfalfa may be fed as forage one day after application of Warrior. Fields may be cut for hay seven days after treatment.

52-Inch Bandmill Cuts Butt Logs

BARNEVELD, N.Y. — Engineers for Hud-Son Forest Equipment Joe Fazekas and Kevin Gustavson build a 52-inch wide opening bandmill.

A customer from Pittsfield, Mass., asked the owners of the company, Dan Hudon Sales, Inc., where to purchase a mill of this size — they did not have the answer. The customer then asked if Hudon could custom build a mill this size — and Hudon accepted the challenge.

The company's 52-inch bandmill is used for cutting large butt logs, driftwood, and for custom sawing of furniture. As a result Hud-Son Forest Equipment plans on expanding their custom building service.

Eight New Front End Loaders Available

MOBILE, Ala., — Bush Hog's eight new front-end loaders fit tractors from 12 to 130 HP. Packed with new features, they deliver lift capacities from 725 to 4,650 pounds, lift heights from 76 to 152 inches, standard quick attach system for attachments, and high-performance hydraulic control valves.

The new front-end loaders come in six colors to match tractors.

Wing-Fold Planter Offers Narrow-Row Choices

ATLANTA, Ga. — White introduces a new wing-fold planter that offers growers three popular narrow row options — 12-row 20 inches, 12-row 22 inches, and 15-row 15 inches.

The planter is available in two separate versions, 6512 (12-row) and 6515 (15-row). Both versions have the wing-fold design for quick transport to the next field.

When the planter is transported from field to field, the hydraulic folding mechanism can be operated from the tractor cab. The frame fold function releases the retaining latch automatically, and the frame has a telescoping tongue that extends in the transport mode to allow extra room between the new tractor tires and the folded wings. The tongue then retracts in the planting position to optimize turning efficiency in the field.

Other Model 6512 and 6515 Wing Fold features include White's exclusive positive air seed metering system that is located at each row unit. Another White exclusive — the micro-processor controlled infinitely variable seeding rate adjustment. This permits the operator to match seeding rates to the soil and nutrients available to the crop being planted.

New Holland Signs $35 Million Combine Deal With Russia

AMSTERDAM — New Holland N.V. (NYSE:NH), one of the world's leading producers of agricultural and construction equipment, announced the sale of more than 200 TX™ combine harvesters to Bashimpex in the Bashkortosian Republic of The Russian Federation.

The combines will be built in New Holland's Zedelgem, Belgium facility. Delivery of the combines will take place prior to the 1998 harvest season. The agreement, which includes attachments, spare parts, and service development, is worth up to $35 million.

"New Holland is very pleased to have the opportunity to contribute to the continued growth of agricultural production in the Bashkortostan Republic," said Franco Fusignani, New Holland's vice president, European commercial operations. "Certainly the New Holland TX combine's reputation for productivity and reliability were important factors in winning this contract. But our commitment to after-sales service and support, which we have demonstrated across Eastern Europe and the Ukraine, was also an important consideration."

On behalf of Bashimpex, New Holland will establish a master parts and service center and nine satellite centers in the Bashkortostan Republic to provide support for the combines during and after the warranty period. In addition, mobile workshops will accompany the combine harvesters during the season to provide immediate on-site support. The contract will be supported by export credits available in Belgium, and requires the concurrence of the Ministry of Finance.

While the Bashkortostan Republic is well known internationally for oil and gas extraction and refining, Bashkortostan also ranks third in the Russian Federation in overall agricultural production. Bashkortostan has identified agriculture and food processing as priority development areas, and increasing the productivity of the agricultural sector is a key element of the Republic's growth strategy. With its superior threshing and separation capacity, and proven reliability, the New Holland TX combine harvester was selected for use in the coming harvest season.

Case Introduces Windrower

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation introduces the Case IH 8870 SP Windrower to meet hay producers' requests for greater durability, reliability, performance, and comfort in a self-propelled windrower.

"We've re-designed our heavy-duty machine from header to cab to chassis to develop a new industry standard for windrowers," said Bruce Spidle, Case IH's livestock production systems product manager.

Created specifically for a self-propelled windrower, the model features an all-new spacious cab. Maximum visibility is attained through the 73 square feet of glass, including a curved front windshield. A full-length right-hand service access door is also included.

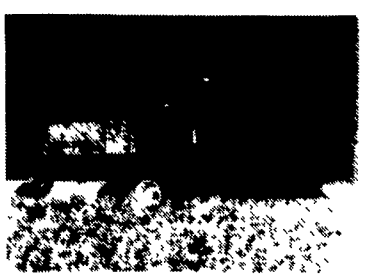
"To this platform, we've added some of the best features from the cab design of our Axial-Flow® combines and Cotton Express® cotton pickers, such as the multi-function propulsion lever and a similar monitor console," said Spidle. "Together, these features create a more ergonomically-advanced cab to increase operator comfort."

The industry's first, optional in-cab swath/windrow adjustment allows the operator to make on-the-go changes to this windrow formation to respond to changing crop conditions. Other cab improvements include a standard AM/FM weatherband radio, optional buddy seat, optional windshield wiper, and more lighting for increased visibility during night time operation.

In addition to the enhanced operator environment, Case has upgraded the durability of the header by adding center bearing supports for the dual augers. The header's dual auger design promotes more uniform feeding and less crop-to-metal contact, both critical factors in preserving forage quality.

The header is available in 14-foot and 16-foot widths. Customers can choose from either rubber-on-steel or steel-on-steel intermeshing conditioning rolls to meet their particular applications. An optional header reverser is also now available to remove slugs without leaving the operator's seat.

The machine is equipped with a 110-horsepower, 4-cylinder Case IH turbo-charged engine to further improve the 8870's power and performance, especially in tough cutting conditions. A larger 60-gallon fuel tank carries an ample supply of fuel for a full day of cutting. Larger 19.5L x 24 drive tires and 14L x 16.1 rear tires have been added for a significantly smoother ride, especially in fields with center pivot irrigation systems or corrugations.



Case introduces the 8870 SAP windrower. This self-propelled windrower has been designed to meet hay producers' requests for greater durability, reliability, performance, and comfort. The all-new cab reflects common features found in cabs on Case IH combines and cotton pickers.

BASF Plans To Introduce Corn Herbicide

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. — A combination of the No. 1 postemergent broadleaf herbicide and the No. 1 postemergent grass herbicide soon will be available for corn growers.

Celebrity™ herbicide will provide postemergent grass and broadleaf weed control in a single product.

BASF Agricultural Products has entered into a supply agreement with DuPont Agricultural Products in which DuPont will provide nicosulfuron, the active ingredient found in Accent®, to BASF for use in combination with BASF broadleaf herbicides.

With this agreement, BASF plans to introduce Celebrity for the 1998 growing season. Celebrity is a combination of nicosulfuron and dicamba, an active ingredient in Banvel®, Clarity®, and Marksman® herbicides. Celebrity has been submitted to EPA for review and commercialization is expected during the spring of 1998.

"Celebrity will offer postemergent control of tough grass and broadleaf weeds like foxtail, woolly cupgrass, cocklebur, lambsquarters, waterhemp, and Canada thistle," said Barney Gallagher, BASF strategic marketing manager. "This is an excellent weed control option with a single product.

"With Celebrity, growers can elect a postemergent weed control program based on field history and planting conditions. Celebrity also can be used as a part of a program with Frontier® herbicide and other preemergent products for optimum season-long control," he said.

THE TRACTOR YOU'LL NEVER OUTGROW.

Introducing the new Case IH CX Series general purpose tractors.

- 40 to 84 horsepower.
- Perfect for all loader and hay and forage applications.
- Quiet, spacious cabs provide superior comfort and visibility.
- Powerful, turbocharged engines offer up to 37% torque rise.
- Forward/reverse shuttle for faster cycle times.
- Smooth-shifting transmission stands up to the toughest operating conditions.

Failure Of Fast Track Evidence Of Inadequacies In Current Trade Agreements

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU), a general farm organization representing 300,000 family farmers and ranchers nationwide said the failure to bring fast track negotiating authority to a vote in Congress this year is evidence of the inadequacy of current trade agreements.

"We are very pleased to see the free trade train pull into the station for the rest of this year," said NFU President Leland Swenson, upon learning that the legislation authorizing trade representatives to negotiate trade deals without the possibility of congressional amendment is most likely dead this year. "Congress clearly recognized that too many problems exist with current free trade agreements, and that these problems must be fixed before authorizing the administration to expand them."

According to NFU, under recent trade agreements farmers and ranchers have become increasingly concerned about the inadequacy of border inspections, a lack of reporting of agricultural trade activities, and the impact of currency fluctuations on the marketability of their own products. Farmers Union members also point to the potential for manipulation of commodity markets, such as this spring's precipitous drop in soybean futures upon the announcement by a major processor that it would begin importing Brazilian soybeans.

U.S. producers feel food safety and inspection of processing facilities in foreign countries are inadequate. Farmers Union members also are concerned with the impact of import surges on commodity prices, regional transportation and storage systems and access to processing facilities. In addition, producers say the dispute resolution system falls short of expectations and that they strongly favor country of origin labeling on all food products.

"Agricultural trade is important and we strongly desire to see continued growth and expansion, but there must be fair trading rules," Swenson said. "Producers have adhered to increasingly higher environmental and quality standards and have supported higher standards for the food processing sector to provide consumers with the high quality, wholesome food."

Swenson added that NFU has supported standards for worker safety, fair wages, and other crucial consumer protections and that the organization is not willing for free trade agreements to undercut standards which serve the best interests of individuals. He also noted that the failure of fast track authority to pass during this session of Congress does not stop the Clinton administration from moving forward with additional trade negotiations. He also hopes that discussions between the United States and Canada and the United States and Mexico will take place to address a number of the concerns raised during the debate over fast track legislation.

"President Clinton realized there were legitimate concerns and began to address some of them through administrative action, including steps to improve U.S./Canadian exchange of information on livestock and voluntary U.S.-produced meat labeling," said Swenson. "While these measures are positive first steps, they must serve as the foundation upon which to build even stronger, fairer rules of trade. We hope that the administration and Congress will now work together to take a fresh look at how we create fair trade agreements."

Beekeepers Add Education Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Capitol Area Beekeepers Association's popular short course in basic beekeeping is being expanded to a two-day format to allow the addition of an apiary education program.

This 11th annual course will be held May 9 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center in Dauphin, and on May 16 from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Milton Hershey Farm Conference Center and Apiary, Hershey. This course is sponsored by the Association and the Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Course faculty includes master beekeeper Jim Aucker, cooperative extension apiculturist Maryann Frazier, chief state apiary inspector Jim Steinhauer, Penn State graduate in entomology Jennifer Finley, and members of the association.

Hiving a package of bees and the opportunity to get hands-on experience in an operating apiary will be two of several highlights of the course. Topics will include bee-ology; diseases, parsites, and pests; equipment; hive management; harvesting and marketing; byproducts of the hive; colony inspection; and colony observation. Table displays of beekeeping equipment books and periodicals, and other beekeeping topics will be offered. A random drawing will award a hived package of bees and hive to a lucky beginning beekeeper. Refreshment breaks will feature homemade goods made with honey.

The course is planned, organized, and presented by the members of the association to strengthen the association's mission of fostering and preserving the science and art of beekeeping. This course will assist new beekeepers in getting started as well as provide the latest information to current beekeepers. Many experienced beekeepers will be in attendance to assist in responding to questions and concerns. A certificate of completion will be awarded to each new beekeeper completing the course.

Preregistration is requested before May 6. Course fee is $25 per person. Participants are encouraged to bring a bee veil and protective suit if possible. A brown bag lunch is suggested, although restaurants are located nearby.

For a registration form, location maps, and lodging information, contact Maria Contino, Secretary, Capitol Area Beekeepers, 6087 Rockland Dr., Harrisburg, PA 17112, (717) 657-3932.

"ATTENTION DAIRYMEN"

Sprung Farms of Bergen, NY and J. Elvin Glick of Quarryville, PA have been supplying area dairymen with high quality forages for years, so we would like to introduce a new type of service, "Alfalfa Balage" "Alfalfa Balage" has been around for a time now and has proven to make a great source of feed providing that the farmer gets what he pays for To help resolve this problem we would like to introduce an "on your farm service" which would include fresh baled alfalfa in easy to use 4' or 5' round bales. 1. Delivered immediately after baling, unwrapped for total inspection of quality and pureness of product, 2. After total satisfaction has been determined, a wrapping service by one of our local area farmers would take place at any site desired by buyer, 3. We can also offer two kinds of wrapping service, either single bale, individually or tube type by state of the art new wrappers.

Because we are so sure that our product and service is second to none, we can also offer a term type payment schedule with no interest to help spread out puchase to help with cash flow. If this offer interests you please call us to talk more about this and possibly we can arrange a personal meeting

1 Alfalfa 3 Bedding

2 Timothy/Alfalfa 4 Western Hay

We also have single bale individually wrapped balage available Any size load is available

WORKSAVER

Power-Ram Post Driver

Worksaver Post Drivers offer greater versatility, rugged construction, and effective, fast operation The models HPD-16 and HPD-20 are built to assure long service life with minimum maintenance

Worksaver Post Drivers are designed for rugged, heavy-duty use and are built with the operator in mind The guarded ram hammer plate protects the operator from defective posts Hydraulic controls are located conveniently to the side to ensure safer operation of the driver

Worksaver Post Drivers are a low-cost investment that will return long paying dividends in savings of manpower, time and money They are also backed with a 2-year limited warranty Add up the features and benefits, and we think you will agree that these drivers are the best buy on the market

FEATURES:

- Handles all standard size posts Drives wood or steel posts -- even railroad ties (HPD-20)
- Fast driving - up to 40 strokes per minute, depending on tractor hydraulic capability
- Heavy impact, het does not "mushroom" posts
- No need to point posts under most conditions
- Equally effective on hills or flat terrain
- Patented Slide Blocks, made of ultra high molecular weight polyethylene, offer more carriage contact surface for improved performance and longer carriage life
- Level Indicator and easy crank adjustment for quick post alignment
- Rugged construction - main pivot and bearing points have grease zerks for easy lubrication and for long service life
- Chrome-plated high tensile steel hydraulic cylinder rod
- Convenient transport lock pin for road travel and storage
- Hydraulic valve handles open or closed center hydraulic systems

Safety features: The offset valve position enables the operator to stand to the side of the Post Driver (Please read safety instructions, use post holder and always wear safety glasses)

OPTIONAL FEATURES:

- Stabilizer legs eliminates tractor tire bounce and reduces driver movement
- Stabilizer legs are constructed of 2 1/2 'x2 1/2" tubular steel
- Stabilizer legs are adjustable for different working heights
